"Barb Wire for Russia"
Al Foster, the popular G. N. conductor seems to be acting as an authority on the war in Europe. The following from the Frazer promoter shows Al's able qualifications.

Twenty carloads of barb wire went last week consigned to Russia and through Frazer on the Great Northern the extra-ordinary strength of the wire and the length of the barbs indicate that it is to be used for war purposes. Barb wire fortifications in the present war, and according to Conductor Al Foster, who was in charge of the train, the wire in those twenty cars would stop and hold any army for some little time. Mr. Foster says he has seen lots of barb wire but it would take at least four strands of the heaviest to make one of those in the Russian shipment.

Ten Million Dollars For Roads.
John N. Carlisle, head of New York's highway department, opens his annual report, which was recently presented to the New York legislature, with a demand that the legislature shall appropriate at once for good road purposes $10,000,000 of the second bond issue of $30,000,000, approved by the voters in 1913.

An appropriation of $1,000,000, of which $250,000 should be made available this year for the elimination of grade crossings on the improved highways, is urged in the report. Commissioner Carlisle asserts that a new mark in highway construction in New York state was made last year when contracts were let for the construction of 1,167 miles, involving an expenditure of $19,647,417. The report shows that there are now completed or under contract 6,315 miles of highways and there remain to be constructed 5,671 miles of state and county roads included in the system authorized by the good roads act.

Roads and Nearby Property.
The fact that a good road and a road which is known to be good adds to the value of the adjacent property is quickly realized. This is shown particularly well in the real estate advertisements published in towns and cities along the Lincoln highway. Whenever a piece of property located on the road is for sale the ad. invariably states its location as one of its main "talking points." This is particularly true in the west.
