IMPORTANT NEWS FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL IN OUR WEEKLY LETTER FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

April 30, 1915. President Wilson will leave Washington at midnight tonight for Williamstown, Mass., to attend the christening of his grandson, Francis Bowes Sayre, on Sunday. The President will arrive in Williamstown Saturday morning and leave there late Sunday afternoon, arriving in Washington Monday morning.

The President went shopping yesterday and purchased a goodly supply of presents for his grandson, amongst other things, a handsome silver cup. The President will act as god-father at the christening, and it is probable that Miss Margaret Wilson, who was maid of honor at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Sayre, will be godmother.

Representative John J. Fitzgerald of New York, chairman of the House committee on appropriations, who has just returned from a trip through the Panama Canal, and up the Pacific coast, where he visited the two California expositions, says that the people of the Pacific coast are thoroughly satisfied with the present administration and show great confidence with the president. Representative Fitzgerald feels confident, since his trip, that President Wilson will be re-nominated and re-elected.

The old and valuable furniture of the beautiful red room of the White House has been seriously damaged by an unusual small beetle. These insects have devoured practically all the hair padding used in the upholstery of the furniture.

Specimens of the insects have been sent to the experts of the bureau of entomology, Department of Agriculture, with a view to having the beetle classified and determining to avoid its ravages in the future.

Contracts have been awarded to the General Electric Company, of New York, for the propelling machinery for the new battleship California. The propelling machinery will be electric, and it will be the first battleship in the world to be so equipped. This equipment is not only cheaper, but it is more efficient being more compact and thereby economizing space, and allowing quicker reverse with the same backing power and speed as is attained on forward drive.

Administration officials, basing their predictions on preliminary reports from internal revenue collectors throughout the country, say that the income tax returns this year will exceed the estimated $80,000,000, by several millions. This will be a big help and will materially reduce the present deficit.

BREATHING IN THE GERMS.

Where Short Persons Have an Advantage Over Tall Ones. Statistics reveal the fact that short persons are less liable to the different diseases which go the rounds among humanity than those who are taller and seemingly more susceptible to contagion. Like every other fact, there is a reason for this. Many of the different diseases are due to impurities in the atmosphere we breathe.

In factories, workshops, depots, cars, schools, churches, office buildings and in thousands of living apartments where humanity in numbers is in the habit of collecting there is more or less liability of some one or more persons having in some degree or other some of the diseases or being in an unhealthy condition, and as they breathe the air that circulates through those places the taller persons are certain to breathe more of the impurities than the shorter persons, as the warm breath of everybody naturally seeks the higher portion of the atmosphere in the inclosure, and if the air is poisoned those who are taller will breathe it first and continue to breathe it longer, as those whose heads are not so high may escape all or part of the poison, which in many instances is apt to create an unhealthy condition of body.—Philadelphia North American.

BAD EGGS AND THE STAGE.

Patting Unpopular Performers is a Very Ancient Custom. The practice of hurling bad eggs at actors who displeased them has been in vogue with audiences ever since there has been a stage and a dramatic production. Chinese, Greeks and Romans ran to this sort of unfringed criticism, and two stories told by a collector of odd things connected with the theater are worth repeating. A number of New York youths in the fifties threw a number of bad eggs at a pallid and trembling performer. He advanced to the edge of the stage, commanded silence and said: "Noble sirs, deign to throw me but one good one—just one. I care not if it break over me, I shall manage it. I have eaten naught in two days. Pelt me with good eggs, I beseech you."

The appeal gained him a basket of good eggs by way of the back stage.

A man went to Shakespeare's theater in the day of the great bard to throw bad eggs at an actor he disliked. Some one jostled him untidily, and he punched the jostler. The jostler whipped him, however, and finally snatched him down in the bad eggs, which broke. So the would be egg thrower was thrown out because of the odor and called a bad egg in the bargain.—New York Sun.

A Bold Defense.

"An enlisted man once put the president of a court martial in a difficult position," says a writer in an English magazine. "The court martial was trying the soldier for some fault or other. When the evidence—and it took an unusually long time—had been given, the president asked the prisoner if he had anything to say in his defense.

"Well, sir," said the man, "I can't see how this 'ere court can sentence me, for Major Jones 'as been reading a paper under the table the 'ole blooming time, and Captain Smith 'as been making me into a karkator on the blotting pad, and as for Lieutenant Brown, 'e 'asn't 'ad his commission a year and don't count anyways!"

Conscientious.

Dodson and his friend Jones stood conversing on the corner. Dodson looked up, clutched his companion by the arm and whispered, "Hurry, Jim!" Around the corner they went and made off up the street. Then Jones called Dodson to account. "Creditor of mine," answered Dodson. "It isn't like you to dodge creditors," said Jones. "Are you up against it?" "Well," was the reply. "I have enough in my pocket to pay him, and if he caught me I might do it. Now let's go and spend some of this money so I can give him an honest excuse if we should happen to see him again."—Argonaut.

I REMEMBER

I remember, I remember, the house where I was born, the little window where the sun came peeping in at morn. You'd hardly know the old place now, for Dad is up-to-date and the farm is scientific, from the back lot to the gate. The house and barn are lighted with bright acetylene, the engine in the laundry is run by gasoline; we have silos, we have autos, we have dynamos and things, a telephone for gossip and a phonograph that sings. The hired man has left us—we miss his homely face,—a lot of college graduates are working in his place. There's an engineer and fireman, a chauffeur and a vet., electrician and mechanic, Oh, the farm's run right, you bet. The little window where the sun came peeping in at morn now brightens up a bath room that cost Dad a car of corn. Our milkmaid is pneumatic and she's sanitary too, but Dad gets fifteen cents a quart for milk that once brought two. Our cattle came from Jersey and the hogs are all Duroc, the sheep are Southdown beauties and the chickens Plymouth Rock. To have the best of everything, that is our aim and plan, for Dad not only farms it, but he's a business man.—E. F. McIntyre.
