Jas. Deegan of Hinsdale was in town the first of the week.

Otto Carlson was in from his ranch on Buggy creek three days this week.

Mrs. George Rapp and daughter left for St. Paul this week for a visit.

Notice the ad of S. W. Ormsby, the photographer, in this issue of The Gazette.

Sheriff-elect Dan Kyle was in Glasgow filing his official bond with the clerk this week.

John Whitted of Hinsdale brought in a load of produce from his ranch on Cash creek Tuesday.

George Emerson, foreman of the roundhouse at this place, left Monday for a visit among relatives and friends in St. Paul.

Owing to the cold weather, we are compelled to bank up our humble office so will not have time to choose President-elect McKinley's cabinet.

Sheriff Willis had a narrow escape from death Monday evening. He took carbolic acid by mistake. Prompt medical assistance saved his life.

Arthur Broadwater, who spent a couple of weeks here, returned to Havre the latter part of last week after a successful hunt on the Missouri river.

The family of Chauncy Burrington returned to their home in Havre after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Griffith of this place.

The Thanksgiving dance given at the Coleman House was not well attended owing to the inclemency of the weather. A good time was enjoyed by those who were so fortunate as to attend.

The Missouri river froze over at this point two weeks ago, and the day after the ice stopped, running horses were taken across it. The old timers do not recollect of its ever freezing over as early before.

Engineer Dad Clark has been granted a pension of $12 per month with back pay from 1891. Mr. Clark certainly deserved this small stipend, having fought through the entire late war and received injuries that have in the last few years incapacitated him for work. The pension was secured through the efforts of Senator Carter. Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McNeil visited Glasgow yesterday for a store of provisions. Rusty reports large hands of Crees from Canada drifting down the Porcupine and slaughtering large quantities of game.

Arthur Broadwater of Havre left his pack of five hounds with James Stephens of this city for the winter. Stephens left yesterday with an outfit and will spend the remainder of the winter coyoting on Buggy creek.

The many friends of Sam Heron will be pleased to learn that he is making rapid strides on the road to wealth in Alaska. Recently he has been appointed postmaster of the city of Dyea.

George Thayer, better known as Ginger, went to Culbertson this week. He intends taking charge of the culinary department of the hotel at that place this winter and will cook on the roundup for Nolan Armstrong next spring.

"Buck" Ferguson left this week for a visit to his old home in Nebraska. Buck is one of the most popular conductors on the division of the Great Northern railway and has a laugh that is as spontaneous as it is hearty and catching. Gathered with his glad parents around the fireplace munching large red apples and cracking hickory nuts, the lines of care will be removed from his face by contentment's magic wand.

The Butte Bystander says: "It is interesting to note that if 25,000 more votes distributed in certain states would have been given Bryan he would have been elected president of the United States." That "if" introduces the dog and rabbit story. McKinley defeated Bryan in the popular vote just one million. A mere trifle, the ignoramus says. It is useless to hold a post mortem over the death. It was from an overdose of a good thing. The democratic party is like the man who was well, wanted to be better, took physic and died.

A corset that may have seen better days once upon a time is lying in this office awaiting identification and an owner. It is being kept near a stove and will give a grateful heat to the loins. It evidently belongs to a brunette as that is the complexion of the garment. Judging from the mainstays, that are a trifle frayed about the middle of the article, it is the property of a young lady who is very popular among the stern sex. It is marked with a big "R. & G." that probably stands for Right Giddy. It will give us pleasure to restore R. G. to its owner. In this case no charge will be added for advertising. A paltry recompense for storage will suffice.

The weather here the past three weeks has surpassed anything in the history of the country. The thermometer has ranged from 18 to 37 degrees below zero and bitter storms have been constantly raging. The snow is badly drifted and in the timber lays on the ground to a depth of 14 inches. Antelope have been driven almost into town, but the severity of the weather prevents their being hunted. A large number of people have had their ears, noses and feet badly frosted. Trains have been delayed and traffic is uncertain. Undoubtedly many cattle have died belonging to large companies. Small cattlemen will not suffer greatly as they have all plenty of hay and are feeding.

County Commissioner Stafford and William McBride spent an enjoyable week hunting at the Heddrich ranch. They secured sufficient meat to supply their larders for the winter. Serious apprehension is entertained by the friends of Col. Irvine, who permitted his name to go before the people for clerk and recorder at the recent election, lest he perish in the violent storms that have been sweeping with fury over this country. Recently the colonel with Jas. Burnett and Pat Nacy left for the Sand Hills on a hunting expedition. Unless they arrive soon a party will organize to go in search of them. Our people are greatly alarmed lest the colonel, while being a plainsman of many years' experience, has ventured beyond the pale of civilization too far and is unable to return on account of the heavy snows.

FARM ANIMALS LIKE SALADS
 Numerous scientific trials and common experience on farms have abundantly succulent feeds to the rations ding succulent feeds to the rations of farm animals. The beneficial effects of succulence, whether supplied as pasturage, silage, soilage, or roots, are many. Just as our own appetites are stimulated by fruits and green vegetables, succulent feeds are relishes for the animals of the farm, inducing them to consume more feed and convert it into useful products.

It is reasonable to hold that such palatable feeds stimulate digestion, and it is well known that their beneficial laxative action aids greatly in keeping the digestive tract in good condition. The flesh of root fed animals is in general more "sappy" or watery. There is no doubt that for breeding stock, less tence and more watery flesh, a natural sequence of feeding succulence, is more conducive to vigorous young at birth and to their hearty maintenance after birth than is the condition of hard dry flesh produced by feeding only dry forage through the winter.

The dairy cow gives her maximum returns when she is supplied with succulence. Such feeds tend toward rapid sturdy growth with the young of all farm animals. Some succulent food is especially beneficial in keeping the horse in condition to which the thrift of the work horse when turned out to pasture bears witness.

But the horse at hard fast work should receive only a limited amount of these feeds. Steers and sheep make rapid and economical gains on pasture, and grass fed animals are in the best possible condition to make rapid gains when placed in the feed lot. Among the most important contributions of the experiment stations are their demonstrations of the economy of feeding silage to fattening cattle and sheep and of the possibilities of cheapening the cost of production of pork through the utilization of pasture.

GOVERNOR AFTER I. W. W.'s.
 Joseph Hillstrom's execution at Salt Lake November 9 for the murder of J. G. Morrison and Morrison's son, January 10, 1914, was followed by Governor Spry's announcement that he would "clear the state of the lawless element that now infests it."

"Every lawbreaker, every man who defies law and order, every man who is opposed to law and order—call themselves what they may—will be driven out of the state," he said. "I am going to see the work is started at once. If the city officers and others whose duty it is do not do so, I will do it myself. "I am going to see that inflammatory street speaking is stopped, and at once, let them call it by free speech or any name they wish."

ASTONISHES GLASGOW
 The QUICK action of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka, the appendicitis preventative, astonishes Glasgow people. ONE SPOONFUL of this remedy relieves sour stomach, gas and constipation AT ONCE. Lewis-Wedum Co., Drug-gists. adv.

Anyway the suffrage leaders are no winners.
