

NEW MILL AT LAMB MINE

IT IS AN ALLEN CHILEAN TYPE ORE MILL.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE

Over $5,000 Has Been Expended This Season in Developing Well-Known Property—It is Not a Stock-Selling Proposition.

Much advance in the work at the Bula mine, better known as the Lamb mine, has been made this season...

The mill is placed about a mile and a half from the mine, over the divide from Ashland creek...

The capacity of the mill, on hard ore, is estimate at 20 tons per 24 hours...

The gold is being recovered from the crushed ore by amalgamation.

There are at present four or five men employed in the mine and three are employed in the mill...

Up to this time there has been about $18,000 expended on the mine since its discovery sixteen years ago...

Mr. Lamb is an enthusiast in the mining business and says that the man who produces a dollar's worth of gold is doing more for the community...

The "New Sin" company has sailed from London to open in Chicago.

Mr. Lamb asserts that there are enough undeveloped mineral resources around Ashland to furnish a payroll of tens of thousands of dollars per month.

The kaolin beds, he believes, could be profitably handled by means of an aerial tramway.

INJURED BY EXPLOSION.

Hobbs Hurt in Tunnel on Southern Pacific.

Ben Tillotson and Gardner Millard, while beating their way on a southbound Southern Pacific passenger train Wednesday morning...

According to Millard, with a number of others they were riding on the "blind baggage" when near the south outlet a violent explosion occurred.

The two men and their companions on the train seem to think that the explosion was caused by a dynamite cap placed in the timbers of the tunnel and set off by a spark from the locomotive.

develop the beds and use the clay.

Mr. Lamb has shown his faith in the Lamb mine by working and spending money for years in its development, and never has a single share of it been placed upon the market.

Mr. Coachman, who came from South America last May to look after his orchard interests east of the city, became interested in the Lamb mine and has bonded the half interest owned by Mrs. Buckman, Mr. Lamb's foster mother, and has spent his summer in assisting in developing the property.

BOURNE WILL RUN INDEPENDENT

JUNIOR SENATOR HEEDS CALL SIGNED BY 16,000 VOTERS AND WILL ENTER CONTEST FOR RE-ELECTION

Portland, Oct. 5.—United States Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today accepted an independent nomination for re-election and will go on the official ballot in the November election as a "popular government candidate."

"Since the people have adopted a constitutional provision," said Senator Bourne today, "permitting 8 per cent of the voters to propose a law under the initiative and to demand the referendum upon a measure by petition of 5 per cent of the voters, I feel that this petition of 12 per cent of the voters of Oregon is a call to which I ought to respond."

The senator promised to make a more extended statement regarding his candidacy and the platform on which he would stand early next week.

Senator Bourne's entering the fight for election to the United States senate was made after he had apparently been eliminated from the senatorial race.

LACK OF FRESH AIR.

Not One Person in a Hundred Gets Enough, Says Expert.

"Probably not more than one person in every hundred, taking the country as a whole, gets enough fresh air to ward off the ordinary attacks of dangerous infectious and contagious diseases," says Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in a statement issued from the association's headquarters in New York.

"People," continues Dr. Farrand, "fail to get enough fresh air either because their lungs or other respiratory organs are affected, or, more generally, simply because they do not open the windows and doors. For the former class a hygienic is needed, but for the latter, plain direction on how to live, work, play and sleep in the open air will do more than hospitals and drugs."

"Failure to get enough fresh air by working and sleeping in poorly ventilated, overcrowded rooms is one of the most prolific causes of tuberculosis, and also of a host of other infectious diseases. This free gift of nature is probably the world's best medicine, not only in the treatment but also in the prevention of disease."

AMERICAN MARINES ARE KILLED AND WOUNDED

Uncle Sam's Men Meet Death in Protecting American Interests in Nicaragua—Rebels Are Defeated by American Troops

Washington, Oct. 5.—In a gallant assault the American marines and bluejackets yesterday drove the Nicaraguan revolutionary leader, General Zaleidon, and his forces from the Coyotepe and Marrauca hills near Masaya, after 37 minutes of fighting, but in the action four privates of the United States marine corps were killed and a number wounded.

The revolutionist losses were heavy, while the government lost 100 killed and 100 wounded. Zaleidon escaped, but later was cornered and killed by troops of the federal cavalry. One thousand American marines and bluejackets under Lieutenant Colonel Charles G. Long are moving on the city of Leon, the remaining rebel stronghold.

Admiral Sutherland's dispatches made it plain the defeat of the rebels was complete. Zaleidon is a Nicaraguan and was formerly a supporter of Zelaya.

The shedding of American blood in Central America is expected to bring to a climax in congress the dispute over the right of this government to intervene in Nicaragua.

Less than a month ago Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson served formal notice upon the Nicaraguan government of the policy of the United States "to take measures for an adequate legation to guard at Managua, to keep open communication and to protect American life and property."

The Nicaraguan government has already declared its willingness and even anxiety that the United States should act after finding itself fully engaged in fighting the rebels. State department officials are fully prepared for any adverse criticism of the American naval forces. This answer will probably be given in an elaborate memorandum to be submitted to congress by the state department at the beginning of the next session.

ANNA SHAW SPEAKS HERE

AMERICA'S GREATEST EQUAL SUFFRAGE ADVOCATE HEARD.

LARGE CROWD GREETED HER Suffragist Leader Discussed Issue at Length and Handled the Subject in a Most Masterly and Convincing Manner.

Ashland is frequently favored with visits from personages of national and international importance, so no great stir was created Saturday afternoon when Rev. Anna Shaw, the leader of all the equal suffrage advocates in the western continent, spoke at the Chautauqua tabernacle.

It is doubtful, however, if a more logical and convincing argument has ever been presented beneath Chautauqua's classic dome. The average woman reaches her conclusions by intuition rather than reason, and that mental process does not appeal to the average man.

Rev. Shaw, however, presents her arguments as clearly and convincingly as any lawyer, clinching them with the cold logic of reason, welded and copper-riveted with premises and conclusions which simply cannot be disputed.

The meeting opened with the singing of "The New America" and an equal suffrage song written by Rev. Howell Isaac, who led the music, assisted by a number of Ashland's prettiest young lady suffragettes. Dr. Mattie Shaw then introduced the speaker in a few well-chosen remarks upon the subject of the meeting.

Rev. Shaw speaks rapidly and enthusiastically and for over an hour held the applauding interest of the audience. The following is only a brief outline of some of the main points touched upon in the speaker's address:

"Equal suffrage is not a woman's question, because any question that is to be voted upon is a man's question. Every argument against woman suffrage is just as strong when applied to man suffrage."

"Every opponent of equal suffrage is an opponent of democracy and an advocate of an aristocracy. To express a doubt as to the ability of woman to vote implies a doubt of humanity, a distrust of the wisdom of permitting people to govern themselves."

"The United States is not a republic. Every authority will tell you that a republic is a country governed by representatives elected by the people. Where only part of the people are permitted to elect their representatives the country is called an aristocracy. In this country only half the people have this privilege, which makes the United States an aristocracy."

"Our country was first a hierarchy of the church, since no one could vote who was not a member of a certain church. After the Revolutionary war, the privilege of voting was extended to all white men who paid taxes upon $250 worth of property, which constituted an aristocracy of wealth. Thomas Jefferson secured the extension of suffrage to all men, rich and poor, who were white. This was an oligarchy of race or color. After the civil war the color line was wiped out but the sex restriction remained. Now we have an aristocracy of sex. Qualifications for citizenship should apply fairly to all. In the United States sex is made an insuperable barrier."

"Woman suffrage is being extended faster in monarchical countries than in our half-republic, because it is easier to manage one man or one parliament than twenty-million men and forty-eight legislatures. Women have secured other things from congress and the state legislatures because they didn't have to appeal to the voters, as they do for equal suffrage."

"Even in the czar's dominions Russian women are governed by Russian men, but in our country American women are governed by negro men and men of various other races and colors, many of them vastly inferior to the white American women whom they govern through their ballots. Is this justice?"

"At the recent international suffrage convention at Stockholm twenty-two different nations were represented by delegates from woman suffrage organizations. Men are recognizing that pure democracy is a universal spirit and cannot be confined to any part of the world. It never enters into the founders of a new republic, such as Portugal or China, not to grant woman suffrage."

"How shall we account for the great moral and religious spirit which pervaded the first convention of the new progressive party? It was because Jane Addams and other women like her were there and lent their influence to the movement."

"Our opponents tell us that women don't want to vote. True, but we want some things which we cannot get without voting. We need the ballot just as we need a stove to get dinner or as a carpenter needs tools with which to build a house."

"Some men say they fear the ballot will drag women down. You have already dragged us down to the level, politically, of male idiots, hangers, lunatics and criminals behind the bars. Granting the right of Old Brave Travels 50 Miles to Pay Debt.

Spokane, Wash.—"Old John" Hamilt, an 80-year-old Indian at Wapato, Wash., made a 50-mile trip on horseback to Ellensburg to pay $5 debt he had contracted seven years ago. When he rode up to the store of T. W. Farrell and deposited a $5 gold piece on the counter, Farrell asked him what he wanted to buy. The merchant had forgotten the loan he had made to the old Indian seven years ago. "Nica chancu pa pay mika, mika chickamun. Oo kook nika do late, oh nika, nika de late tillicum," said the Indian. What he meant was, "I came to pay you your money, $5. That's all I owe you, my old friend." Farrell looked up his books and found the entry of the loan. On questioning "Old John" Hamilt he learned that the Indian had not come to Ellensburg for seven years because he had not been able to pay his debt of $5.
