The state deputy grand president of the Eagles will be with the lodge this evening. In view of this fact the Royal Neighbors will postpone their meeting and allow their sister lodge the use of the hall.

Mrs. K. M. Hansen, who for a few years past has been proprietress of the Astor house, has leased the Central hotel and is now taking possession. The Central has been lately renovated and largely refurbished and will continue to be a popular house.

A treat is offered the public for Saturday evening, when Ross Nicholas of Portland will lecture at the Congregational church under the auspices of the W. R. Lord Bird society. No admission will be charged. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Ralph Worsley, formerly of this city but now a resident of Knappa, will leave for San Francisco in a few days where he will enter a dramatic school. Mr. Worsley modestly asserts that he does not intend making a very pronounced debut in the profession, but his friends who are acquainted with his histrionic abilities are very ready in predicting a brilliant career on the boards. The particular work that he purposes doing is comic opera, his voice and general style especially adapting him for that class of acting.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will hold a membership social this afternoon at the usual hour in the regular meeting place on Bond street. More interest is constantly being manifested in this organization, the members being very energetic in their efforts to build up the union and make it a power in the community.

The Portland Journal has not been received in this city for two nights, and local subscribers for that paper have been disappointed. The failure of the paper to arrive was probably due to some error in Portland, although the local agent has not been advised of the cause.

P. F. Packard and H. G. Smith, former residents of this city and now residing at Vancouver, Wash., had their winter supplies shipped from here yesterday by Johnson Bros. This makes the fourth year that this firm has shipped supplies to their former patrons, and this firm is deserving of much praise for holding the trade at such a distance.

The dispatches this morning contain an account of fighting at Panama, in which an American was killed. He was a member of the crew of the Jessie Banning, which was taken south by Captain Sam Randall of Astoria. Captain Randall's connection with the steamer ceased on his arrival at Panama. The vessel is now known as the Bogota and is in commission as a gunboat.

The British ship Clydesdale, long overdue from Newcastle for San Francisco, has reached her destination. Eighty percent reinsurance had been offered on her, and, as vessel and cargo are worth more than $150,000, the gamblers cleaned up a pretty stake. The Clydesdale was delayed by a foul bottom. She was sighted by the Riverside, arriving here, and was at once taken off the overdue list.

Deputy United States Marshal Roberts arrived down from Portland yesterday and took into custody the seven seamen who were detained by Dr. Earle for violating the quarantine regulations. Two of them belong to the British ship County of Roxburgh, which is in quarantine. They were instructed to remain aboard ship until the vessel and her ballast had gone through the process of fumigation, but, disregarding orders, they deserted. The other five men belong to the barkentine Echo and also disobeyed instructions by paying a visit to the Roxburgh. They will be prosecuted for violation of the quarantine regulations and were taken to Portland last night to answer the charge.

George Kaboth has not yet decided to take an appeal in the tax purchase case which was recently tried out before Judge McBride, and which involves the constitutionality of the law passed at the last session of the legislature providing for the sale of delinquent property. The property bought in by Mr. Kaboth was purchased by Ferguson & Houston from Judge C. H. Page. Prior to the sale to Messrs. Ferguson & Houston $144 taxes were delinquent against the land. Judge McBride held that the sale by the county to Mr. Kaboth was void. A supreme court decision would determine for all time whether or not the ruling of the lower court were sound. Many persons are interested in the matter and there is some talk of raising a fund to carry the case to the upper court.

The reserved seat sale for "Hello, Bill!" opened up with a rush yesterday morning and Fishers' opera house will no doubt be crowded to the doors tonight. Who is there who does not like to laugh when he has something to laugh at which does not insult his intelligence, which he can thoroughly enjoy and leave the theater without the feeling that he has lowered himself by laughing at, and with the consciousness of having spent three hours of unrestricted merriment? To him "Hello, Bill!" appeals, and to him "Hello, Bill!" looks for patronage. It is now in its fourth year of success, its career for the past three years having been confined almost exclusively to the country east of the Mississippi, and north of the Ohio river, where "Hello, Bill!" is a synonym for all that is funny and its yearly visit is looked forward to as one of the events of the theatrical season.

The public school children who wrote essays for the prizes to be given by the W. R. Lord Bird society are requested to be present at the lecture Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Congregational church, where the announcements will be made and the prizes awarded. The teachers are also requested to be present and bring a list of names corresponding to the number of the essays so that the committee will be able to tell who the winners are.

The bowling committee of the Commercial club met last night for the purpose of apportioning handicaps for the bowlers who are to take part in the coming tournaments. Forty was the score of which handicaps were based, and the bowlers were given handicaps in accordance with their respective showings in the recent tryout. It is the intention to inaugurate a monthly tournament for a handsome medal and a three-men team weekly tournament for three pretty buttons.

With the aid of the river tug Oklahoma the German bark Magdalene succeeded in getting off the sands yesterday morning without difficulty and she is now taking on the balance of her cargo of wheat. It is not believed that the bark sustained any injury whatever by her mishap, and it is even said the incident might possibly be of benefit to her, as the contact with the sand will have a tendency to remove the barnacles and other growth that gathers on the bottom of deep seagoing vessels.

George Smith, the negro who has been on trial in Portland for the murder of his wife, was yesterday sentenced by Judge George to be hanged the 19th of next December. The wife of the murderer was a white woman and the circumstances attending the crime were of such a brutal character that no sympathy whatever is accorded the black brute. The administration of the death sentence was pronounced in particularly solemn manner, but the negro retained perfect unflinching composure. Fifteen days are allowed the defendant to prepare a bill of exceptions, but it has not yet been decided to make an appeal. Should one be made and the case continued it is generally conceded that it will only prolong the execution of the sentence, as there is no doubt the prisoner will expiate his crime on the gallows.

W. W. Whipple, of sawmill fame, is in the city from Bucoda, Wash., looking after business interests here. Mr. Whipple notes with gratification the building of new mills here, and remarks, "I told you so," when the arrival of eastern millmen is commented upon. It was always his contention that Astoria would have plenty of mills once the start was made. Some parties have come here and gone away disappointed, and Mr. Whipple is at a loss to know why an effort was not made to locate them. The men in question succeeded in keeping the object of their visit a secret, and were not got in tow by the manufacturers committee. The Bucoda plant is getting along nicely and has orders for much more lumber than can be turned out. Last month more than 100 cars of lumber were shipped east, and double the number would have been sent out were it not for the car shortage. The outlook for lumbering is very bright. Mr. Whipple says, and the demand is so stiff that a year's advance output can be sold at any time.

The Push club met in regular session last evening and considerable time was devoted to discussion of proposed road legislation. It is the intention of Representative-elect Carnahan to introduce at the coming session a measure that will apply to road districts in about the same manner that the school law applies to school districts. The road committee of the Push club has been asked by President Carnahan to look into the matter and submit to him a statement embodying ideas that will be practicable. The present laws are not at all suitable for progressive communities where much roadbuilding is going on, and the contemplated changes are much needed. The club spent some time in talking over the work of the fisheries department, and satisfaction was expressed with the excellent showing made this season at the state hatcheries. Mr. Van Dusen was present and explained to the members that he had been investigating sites, and that the experimental work thus far done had acquainted him with the best locations.

A meeting of the citizen central committee was held yesterday afternoon, and it was decided to call an assembly for the purpose of nominating candidates to be voted for at the approaching city election. The assembly will be held at the city hall at 8 o'clock on the night of November 13. The call will appear tomorrow and will invite all persons, irrespective of political faith, to assist in making the nominations. It has been definitely settled that A. M. Smith will be a candidate for re-election. He will have no opposition before the citizen convention. In the First ward George Kaboth will be named for councilman. Mr. Kaboth has told those behind the citizen move that he will accept the nomination. In the Second ward J. V. Burns will get the re-nomination from the citizens. Two councilmen are to be elected from this ward and Councilman Svenson is generally regarded as the choice for the other place. In the Third ward Councilman Brix, republican, will probably be endorsed if he wants the place. James W. Welch has been spoken of as a probable republican candidate in the Second ward, but has given no intimation as yet as to whether or not he desires the nomination.

Game Warden Quimby is determined to stop the indiscriminate slaughter of ducks and will invoke every possible measure in behalf of the observance of the law. His attention has already been brought to the open violation of the regulations imposed upon duck hunters and the constant breach has come to such a pass that drastic measures, if necessary, will be used to compel their enforcement. True sportsmen will do all they can to assist protecting the game, realizing as they do that the laws are enacted only for a good cause, so it is of course not this class of hunter that the game warden is after, but the slaughterer, the man who turns his presence into a slaughter pen. No one hunter is allowed to kill more than 50 ducks per day, and it is this regulation that the warden and his deputies will see is enforced.
