DEATH OF CAPTAIN J. A. BROWN

WELL KNOWN IN ASTORIA SHIP-PING CIRCLES AND A DEEP-WATER SAILOR OF WIDE EXPERIENCE.

Captain John A. Brown, head of the stevedoring firm of Brown & McCabe, of this city and Portland, dropped dead on the veranda of his home in Portland Monday evening at 5 o'clock from heart disease. Captain Brown entered his home after his daily routine at his offices apparently in the best of health, and after joining the family at supper, started to go down town. He complained of a pain in the chest, but thought nothing of it at the time, and stepped out on the porch. Suddenly he was seized with severe pains and fell to the floor, passing away almost immediately.

Medical aid was summoned, but life was extinct when physicians arrived.

No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral, but details will probably be arranged today. An effort is being made to reach Miss Fannie Brown, the youngest daughter, who left for the east last Wednesday to join friends of the family in a tour of Europe. Melville Brown, the youngest son, who is attending an eastern school of technology, has been notified by telegraph.

The funeral ceremonies will probably be in accordance with the ritual of the Masonic Order, of which the deceased was a member.

Captain Brown had arranged to accompany E. W. Rowe and Jos Day on a trip of several days to Collins Hot Springs, starting today.

Captain J. A. Brown has been connected with the shipping interests of Astoria since 1874, and has been a vital influence in the development of this commercial center. He was borne in Lubec, Maine, November 23, 1844. His grandparents, Thomas Brown, born in Dublin, and a graduate of the university, and Elizabeth Matherson Brown, Edinburgh, Scotland, emigrated to Nova Scotia in 1819 and to Eastport, Maine, in 1833, being among the early settlers of that locality.

Captain Brown's early life was spent at sea. He left home at the age of 15, sailing before the mast from Portland, Maine, on the brigantine Almond Rowell, for Montevideo and the West Indies, sailing upon this course for three years, and making European ports at that time. He followed the sea until 1868, passing through the regular order of promotion from sailor to first officer, January 1, 1866, as mate of the big Mary A. Reed, with Captain George Johnson. He sailed from New York with a cargo of keel pieces for the Mare Island Navy Yard, California, and after a tedious voyage of 227 days, they made port. He was then employed by Simpson Bros., of San Francisco, as master of the tug Fearless, in towing on Coos Bay bar for about three years, then as pilot on Coos Bay and the Umpqua bar, on the steamships Pacific and Pelican.

He later became master of the sailing vessels between Umpqua Bay and San Francisco, Astoria, Portland, and the Sandwich Islands. He settled permanently in Portland in 1874, and began the business of stevedores, with offices at Astoria and Portland.

Captain Brown was married in Portland, in 1875, to Miss Fannie E. Terry, a native of New Bedford, Mass., daughter of William Terry, a California pioneer of 1849. He is survived by five children—David A., George W., Jessie A., Fannie B., and Melville W. During his life Captain Brown was a member of Willamette Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and a charter member of Mohawk Tribe, No. 28, of Red Men, of Pacheco, Cal., and was at one time a member of the Board of Pilot Commissioners for Oregon.

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catharine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two months old. About a month ago I contracted a fearful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by Frank Hart and Leading Druggists.

The safe, certain, reliable little pills, that do not gripe or sicken are Dade's Little Liver Pills. Best for sick headaches, biliousness and lazy livers. Sold by Hart's Drug Store.

LATEST NEWS FROM WARRENTON

RECENT CONFLAGRATION HAS DIRECTED ATTENTION TOWARD FORMATION OF A VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT.

WARRENTON, Or., May 14.—Last evening a meeting was held in Moore's hall to discuss the advisability of organizing a volunteer fire department in this town. The meeting was called to order by J. A. Neal. Mr. H. Bultman then made a brief address, in which he called attention to the recent fire at the Japanese quarters and the lack of trained assistance thereof. A motion was made that a company, to be known as the Warrenton Volunteer Fire Department, be formed. This was carried unanimously. Mr. B. Crandall was then elected president and C. W. White was appointed secretary (providing he would accept the office when notified). Twenty-two persons gave their names in as members of the company. A committee of three was appointed to investigate the possibilities and facilities of completing the organization of and soliciting additional members for the Warrenton Volunteer Fire Department. Members of this committee are William Asley, J. A. Neal and H. Bultman. The meeting then adjourned until Friday evening, May 17th, at 8 p. m.

Miss Mary Jurks returned to Portland on the evening train.

Mrs. Moore, Mrs. C. Dean, Mrs. Paulsen and Mrs. W. Warren were over to Astoria yesterday.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

There is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by Frank Hart, and Leading Druggists.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."
We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.
