MORSE'S

Agreed.

Justice Pickford, when a barrister, was once speaking before a couple of judges when a disagreement arose. After a long discussion on a point of law one of the judges said: "We repeat that the statement you make is not good law, and this court does not sit to expound the law to you, Mr. Pickford. We have neither the wish, the time"— "Nor the ability, your lordships," interjected the barrister. "Quite so; quite so. Now, as to paragraph 2."—London Tit-Bits.

Amicable Adjustment.

"I want you distinctly to understand, Emil, that when your colleague's wife has a new hat I want one too."
"Calm yourself, my dear. We've settled it between us. You're neither of you going to get one."—Flegende Blatter.

Built That Way.

"What does it mean, pa, when it says a man 'bent his steps'?"
"That he was bow legged, my son."—New York Press.

STORES UP TALK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—A machine that stores up telephone conversation and delivers it to the proper person at any time either a day or a century after it is recorded, is a wonder of the age and is one of the many strange devices that will be seen at the national business show to be held in New York and Chicago this fall. This particular device adds another arm to the business world and actually works wonders. When a firm of an individual calls up, if there is no one in the office to answer the call, this device raises the arm that holds the receiver and by means of a record notifies the person of that fact and states further that the conversation will be recorded if talked into the transmitter at the other end. A message is talked into the telephone and is recorded. Others are recorded in the same manner, the number that can be taken is limitless. When the office man returns to his desk he takes up the phone, turns a small switch, the record reels back automatically, the machine begins to talk and delivers every message just as it was left. These records may be put away and reproduced at any time. The business man having an accurate and perfect record of every transaction he has made over the phone. No need for an office boy to look after this detail, no necessity of employees about the office to drop their work to answer phone calls or become familiar with certain details not meant for them. The national business show where this device will be demonstrated to the public will be held at Madison Square Garden in New York Oct. 12 to 19 and a month later Nov. 9 to 16, the show will be seen at the Chicago Coliseum.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over 60 years of age suffer from kidney disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I felt better than I have for 20 years, although I am now 91 years old." FROST IN BRAZIL.

News Affects Coffee Exchange and Large Volume of Business Done.

NEW YORK, August 28.—News of frost in the coffee-growing districts of Brazil, woke up the local market yesterday, and the trade had the unusual spectacle of seeing room traders rush about the floor and transact the largest volume of business that has been done on the exchange in any one day this year. Sales aggregated 239,750 bags between the call at 11 o'clock, and the close at 3.

Shorts were frightened early in the day, and rushed pell mell for the nearest cover. The situation developed the fact—one that has long been suspected among traders here—that Europe is short a big line of September coffee in the local market. There was frenzied switching by firm interests who wanted to get rid of their September holdings, and Europe took all it could get, at prices which were distinctly to its advantage. Dealings in September alone amounted to 113,500 bags, including the switches, a record which would have been considered a big total day's business on any previous during the past year.

Four of the five states of Brazil reported frost. This news came in private cables to exchange members, but it did not take it long to get about the floor and start real action. Prices which were a little stronger anyway, on account of better news from Europe, took a sudden jump and closed 15 to 25 points above the last figures for Wednesday.

Frost in Brazil is critical at this particular time. The crop is in a precarious condition, and the frost, if at all severe, will retard, if not entirely blight the flowering. New wood on the old trees is necessary to the growing of the new crop, and if this is damaged by frost just now, the yield is bound to be greatly restricted. This news is joyfully received by the friends of valorization. The stock of 8,000,000 bags, which the syndicate is holding in the various ports of the world, was just beginning to worry these gentlemen, and has kept the world's markets dull for several months. This is the first decisive news received which has any bearing on the ultimate results of this gigantic speculation in nature.

Three days ago the Wall Street speculators were attempting in a mild sort of a way to liquidate their holdings and get away from the dullness in coffee circles. Yesterday they rushed back to the board and were willing buyers of December, March and May, bidding up the prices on these positions well over the six-cent mark.

An Apology.

You theenk, my frand, I am too slow.
The dumba Dago man;
You theenk I neeva gona grow
To goods 'Merican?
I been here longa 'nough, you say,
For learna som'thing too?
My frand, you mak' me deesa way:
I gotta learn from you.
I no be 'Merican nuseck
An' be da man I should,
Ontell you show me how to speak
Da langwadje pretta good.
O please, my frand, I justa do
Da best I can! You see,
I no can say som'thing to you
But dat you say to me,
You don'ta tal me many word
For help me vera wal.
You know da first I evva heard?
Eet oosa "Gotohal."

Dat's how, my frand, I am no queeck
To be da man I should.
You don'ta tal me how to speak
Da langwidje pretty good.
—T. A. Daly in Catholic Standard and Times.

No Apology Needed.

"I hope our running the graphophone last night didn't annoy you," said the renter of the third floor flat.
"What?" responded the new renter of the fourth floor flat, producing an ear trumpet.
"I say it's a fine morning!" bellowed the other into the trumpet.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Weak Point.

Mrs. Hoyle—Mrs. Hoyle is not a very entertaining talker.
Mrs. Doyle—No. You can't get her interested in other people's affairs.

"Beneath His Notice."

—Harper's Weekly.

Didn't Lack Ability.

First Actor—Why did you leave the company?
Second Actor—The manager wanted me to play the part of a dog in the new piece.
First Actor—You're too modest, old man. I think you could do it.—Des Moines Register.

What a New Jersey Editor Says.

M. T. Lynch, editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for coughs and colds in my family but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it."
T. F. Laurin, Owl Drug Store.
