ASTORIANS VISIT THE FAIR

BIG CONTINGENT HAVE A PLEASANT TIME AT GRAY'S RIVER AND PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN THE EXCELLENT PROGRAM PROVIDED

Astoria was well to the front at the Gray's River fair which closed last night after one of the most successful celebrations in the history of the town across the river. Among those who went over on Thursday were:

Mrs. C. W. Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Prael, Mr. and Mrs. August Hildebrand, Mr. and Mrs. A. Scherneckan, Miss Shreneckan, Mrs. J. W. Golder, Mrs. J. Bergman, Mayor Wise, Miss Hattie Wise and Master Sam Wise, Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Johnson, Master Johnson, Dr. C. W. Barr, Nels Nyman, Thomas Corbett, John Fuhrman, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Palmberg, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whyte, Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey, E. Judd, Frank Woodfield, Charles Collar, and A. R. Cyrus. There was also quite a large delegation from among the Cathlamet, Skamokawa and Deep River citizens.

The exercises opened in the Grangers' Hall at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, where, after some excellent music by an orchestra, Mr. J. C. Spooner made an address of welcome to the numerous visitors. A response was made by Mayor Wise, of Astoria, in which he thanked the Gray's River people for their courtesy, and praised them for the excellent showing they made.

An excellent program was provided by the hosts, a duet by Miss Olive Barv and Miss Brim being well rendered. Interspersed with musical selections there were speeches and papers read. Mr. Ahlberg made an excellent talk on farming. Mrs. Olsen read a very good paper on "Pride in Farm Work," and afterward the visitors inspected the exhibits.

"The exhibits of fruits, vegetables, preserves and fancy work were exceptionally fine," said Mayor Wise, yesterday, on being asked regarding them. "There was every indication that the district across the river is forging ahead with great rapidity, and the showing made was superior to that of other years."

Refreshments were served by the hospitable citizens at noon and in the evening in a large tent adjoining the exhibition hall. In the evening there was an entertainment called the "Old Mads' Convention," which was highly amusing.

One of the most interesting stunts during the day was a three-mile race between Herman Prael, Ed Judd and Frank Woodfield against a fast team of horses driven by an Astoria lady. Two runners were given 15 minutes' start and the finish was quite exciting. Mayor Wise and Mr. Whyte acted as judges, and the contest was so close that it was called a tie.

The Winona, which had been chartered for the trip, left Astoria about 10 o'clock Thursday morning and arrived back Friday morning at 1:30 o'clock with a tired but pleased crowd of excursionists. The fair closed last night with a crowd visiting on the second day.

Transfer Almost Completed—
It is expected that the transfer of the express business of the A. & C. R. R. from Wells, Fargo & Co. to the Northern Pacific Express Company will be consummated tomorrow and that Monday business will be transacted by the Northern. W. W. Ward, route agent for the N. P. and W. E. Carpenter, route agent for Wells, Fargo & Co., have been busy checking up and in charging the property at the different stations along the line and are now finishing up here. M. G. Hall, superintendent of the Northern Pacific Company is also here going over the final transfers.

Tug-o-War Contests—
Tonight there will be held, at Foard & Stokes' hall, a series of tug-o-war contests that will be interesting. The Swedes will pull against the Greeks, which will be the main feature. There will be several contests by other teams, and after the contests are over, a general good time will be had in the dance that will follow. The Uppertown team will pull against the North Pacific team, in a contest that will determine the respective merits of the two locations.

In Old Vermont—
Capt. E. P. Parker who is now on a tour to the eastern state was at Greensboro, Vt., at the Caspian Lake House last week and is now at Montpelier and will visit New York City next week. Advice received from him yesterday says he is having the time of his life. Joe Brown, of the White House Corner, is chaperoning him and looking out that the captains gets no bad money.

WORKING UP FROM BOTTOM

EUROPEANS ARRIVE FROM NEW YORK WITH MANY TRUNKS AND EARN THEIR LIVING BY MANLY EFFORTS TO MASTER LUMBER IN LOGGING CAMP.

The Astoria Chamber of Commerce is a mine for the short story in the amount of good material that passes through the hands of Manager sound like "pipe dreams" are of common occurrence through the medium of the big advertising campaign of the local organization.

Recently there came to this city from New York, two young men who had seen an advertisement in an eastern paper for lumber camp men in this district. The men were from Denmark and bore distinctive evidences of the highest refinement. One of them was Viggo Von Holstein and the other was Paul Sigurd Neilson, and they came with trunks enough to stock a show company.

They were anxious to work outside in the air that God had made for man, rather than work in officers shut from the sunshine and the song of the birds. They were men enough not to be afraid to work and Manager Whyte speedily secured them jobs in a Washington lumber camp, where they are rapidly changing blisters into the manly evidences of hard toil. They are as happy as larks, making their own living, and what their folks back home would think of them for "soiling" their hands with honest toil is bothering them not a jot.

The two arrived in New York recently well stocked with clothes, enough money to have a good time for a week, and with a desire to start at the bottom, even if they never got to the top. They are now earning more money than they ever earned before, probably. They are finding out something in regard to lumber. They have fine health, good muscles and three "squares" a day.

What more could they ask for? They have youth, strength and the buoyant spirit of the young and romantic. They will not do this always, because the very spirit that made them men enough to tackle the hard work of a logging camp will bring them success before they have reached middle age. And this was brought about by the insertion of a small ad in an eastern paper by the Chamber of Commerce.
