

WILL BE DEPORTED

Imbecile Child of Naturalized Citizen Not Admitted.

WAS BORN IN FOREIGN LAND

Judge Holds That She Was Not Entitled to Admission as Was in Foreign Country at Time Her Father Was Naturalized.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—An interesting question under the laws regarding the naturalization of aliens has been decided by Judge Lacombe of the U. S. Court and as a result 11 year old Bertha Teitelbaum is ordered deported to Austria. Her mother will accompany her, although the law allows her to land, and the child's father, who has been in America for several years and is a naturalized citizen, will follow them as soon as he can close out his business. Isaac Teitelbaum came to America from Austria seven years ago, leaving a wife and little daughter in Austria. After a time he prospered and a short time ago his wife and daughter came to join him here. The daughter has been imbecile since birth and was refused permission to land by the immigration authorities. She was ordered deported and it was only after a trip down the bay in a tug with a writ of habeas corpus that Teitelbaum succeeded in getting the child off the steamer which was carrying her back to Europe. It was claimed that Teitelbaum's naturalization made a citizen of his daughter and while it was admitted that an alien imbecile could not enter this country under the law, this child as a daughter of a citizen, it was claimed was entitled to admission. Judge Lacombe holds that as the child was in a foreign country at the time her father was naturalized, his citizenship does not extend to her. Mrs. Teitelbaum will accompany her daughter back to Europe and Teitelbaum says he will leave America for good as soon as he can close out his business.

The Count's Baseless Fear.
"I haf come," said the count, "to spik to you, Meestaire Moneybag, about one what you call been important mat-taire."

"Ah, yes, count, I understand! Have a chair. You wish, I presume, to speak to me about my daughter."
"No, pardon, not zat. I haf seen ze tax list where he say you haf only fifty thousand what you call been dol-laire."

"Oh—ho, ho! That's all right, count. Don't worry about that. My office boy, to whom I had transferred $5,000,000 worth of gold bonds, which he held while the assessment was being fixed, has just handed them back. They're here in the safe now. Do you want to see them?"

"Merci, monsieur! You haf lift what you call been a weight from my mind."
—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Choice.
"What is it this morning?" asked the new waitress. "Ham and eggs, isn't it?"
"No," replied Mrs. Starvove, "not exactly, and I want you to note this well. You must be careful to say to each boarder, 'Ham or eggs?'—Catholic Standard and Times.

BATTLESHIP MAINE.

Cuban Paper Finds Fault With American Commemoration Services for the Maine.

HAVANA, Feb. 18.—The Diario Espanol, organ of the ultra-Spanish element in a leading editorial yesterday referring to the special celebration by local Americans of the tenth anniversary of the blowing up of the battleship Maine, says:

To commemorate the blackest blot on American history, the world, including honest Americans believing the ship was blown up by direct orders from the War Department for the purpose of justification in the plan to despoil Spain of Cuba, the papers adduces "convincing proof" that the officers of the Maine attended the funeral of the victims in full dress uniform which showed that they must have sent their uniforms ashore in anticipation of an explosion, and alleges that the reason the wreck has not been raised is that it would conclusively demonstrate that the explosion was in the magazine.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS.

Secretary Wilson Endorses the Idea of Self Supporting Farm Schools.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Seth T. Farnsworth of Chicago, advocate of the idea of self supporting agricultural schools as a remedy for enforced unemployment, and John Eils of Boston, secretary of the National Convention of the unemployed recently held at St. Louis, had a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent the idea of self supporting suburban schools of farming might be encouraged by the Federal Government. They explained that the object was to furnish work for the victims of enforced idleness in congested industrial centers. Secretary Wilson said in reply that it was the unquestionable duty of state and municipal governments to establish such enterprises and that if they would provide land within the range of a five cent fare from towns, thus letting the unemployed have access to such farms, he would send experts free of charge to demonstrate the work and also would send the necessary seeds.

A Large Order.
Danny B., now in the Soldiers' home at Hampton, Vt., tells this one. He says that when his company approached the earthworks in front of Big Bethel it was met by a terrific volley from the fort. The captain gave the order to lie down, which every man did except an old Irishman who did not hear the order.

He looked around and exclaimed: "My, my! They're all killed but me!"
"Then, as he reloaded his rifle, he said, 'I'll have to fight hard to take that place all by myself.'—Philadelphia Ledger.

Hint For Book Lenders.

A book borrower's album is the device which a woman who has a fine library has employed in order that she may keep track of her books and that her friends may not be delinquent in returning them. She delighted in lending her books, but was far from pleased in punching her friends up for their return. Now when a friend asks the loan of a book she acquiesces readily enough, but requests the borrower to write in the album his or her name and the date on which the book is borrowed. On returning it the borrower is asked to comment on the book and initial it. This album always is kept in a conspicuous place in the drawing room, where visitors are likely to pick it up and glance it through, learning who is not prompt in returning books. The result is that this woman now has her books returned promptly, as the borrowers know they will be convicted in the album if they are delinquent. They take kindly to the plan, the lender does not have to prod them for the return of the books, and she has an album which is valuable to her as containing the comments of her friends on the treasures in her library.—New York Press.

Her Fatal Objection.

"This is so sudden!"
As he heard the girl speak these words the astonished young man rose to his feet in bewilderment.
"Sudden!" he repeated. "Did I hear aright? More than two years ago, I believe it was, since I first met you. For several months after that I only saw you occasionally; then gradually, very gradually, I increased my visits. It took six months to get on a formal calling basis; it took six months more to be a regular visitor; six months more to call you by your Christian name, and it is only during the last few months that I have ventured, with many misgivings, even to hold your hand. And now, after all this gradual development of my love, you tell me that my declaration is so sudden. Do you call this sudden?"
"I do, indeed," she replied calmly.
"But for what reason?"
The young lady replied, with some degree of hauteur:
"Simply this: I hardly imagined you would dare to speak to me like this for another two years at least, considering your present salary."—Pearson's.

A Wasp Nurse.

A story of how one wasp cared for another that had been injured is told by a gentleman who, while reading the newspaper, felt bothered by the buzzing of a wasp about his head and knocked it down. It fell through the open window and lay on the sill as if dead.

A few seconds afterward, to his great surprise, a large wasp flew to the window sill and, after buzzing around his wounded brother for a few minutes, began to feel him all over. The injured wasp seemed to revive under this treatment, and his friend then dragged him gently to the edge, grasped him around the body and flew away with him. It was plain that the stranger, finding a wounded comrade, gave him aid as well as he could and then bore him away home.—London M. A. P.

Cup Plates.

"These cup plates assure us that this 100-year-old china service is the real thing," said an antiquary. "They stopped making cup plates 100 years ago. Cup plates," he went on, "show how table manners change. Now, do you know what they were for? They were to hold your dripping cup of tea—after you had poured a part of it into the saucer to drink from—so that the cloth should not be stained. Yes, in the past, everybody drank hot tea from the saucer. Kings and queens, emperors and generals, all, with a gurgling sound, tilted the full saucer with careful balance to the lips. The cup, meanwhile, reposed on the cup plate."—Cincinnati Enquirer

A JAPANESE TOILET.

The Demure Brown Maiden in Her Holiday Attire.

The Japanese college girl entertained the fudge party with oriental reminiscences.

"On every holiday," she said, "the Japanese maiden must rise and have her toilet finished before the sun looks over Fujiyama, our sacred mountain.

"And what a toilet! The long, coarse black tresses are washed, combed and greased till the head shines like a knob of polished black marble. The cheeks are rouged a fine pink. The throat, neck and bosom are powdered, but at the nape of the neck there are left three lines of the original brown skin, in accordance with the rules of Japanese cosmetic art.

"With charcoal she rounds and lengthens her eyebrows. She reddens her lips with cherry paste, adding a gilt diamond to the center of the pointing lower lip. She puts on eight fresh garments, and she ties her obi, or great sash, in a symbolical knot. Her socks—she doesn't wear stockings—are very white and pure, and her clogs are lacquered till they shine like a silk hat.

"Now she is ready to set out. She fills her silk tobacco pouch, thrusts her pipe in her girdle, puts six paper handkerchiefs up her wide sleeves, and sallies forth, turning her toes in and waving her fan with a demure grace."—Los Angeles Times.
