

CLEVELAND'S FUNERAL

Last Tribute Paid to the Former President

SERVICES ARE SIMPLE

Personal Friends Were Permitted to Cast Shovelful of Earth Into Grave

SLEEPS BESIDE DAUGHTER

President Roosevelt Present and Many Other Distinguished Citizens Body Was Lowered Into Grave at Just Six O'Clock.

PRINCETON, June 26.—Grover Cleveland's body lies buried tonight in the Princeton cemetery. At six o'clock just as the sun was sinking in the west a distinguished company silently watched as the body was lowered into the grave. Then the simple funeral service by the Presbyterian church were read and before the last carriage of the long cortege was driven up to the path leading to the burial plot, the benediction had been pronounced and the members of the family, President Roosevelt and others who had gathered about the grave, were leaving the cemetery.

Many of the personal friends of the dead statesman lingered around the spot and each in turn was permitted to cast a shovelful of earth into the grave. Agreeable wishes of Mrs. Cleveland, that the services both at home and at the cemetery be of the simplest character. An invocation, scriptural reading, a brief prayer and the reading of William Wadsworth's poem, "Character of the Happy Warrior," constituted the services at the home, while reading the burial service at the grave was a brief and impressive ceremony.

Although the funeral was strictly of a private nature, those in attendance numbered many distinguished citizens including President Roosevelt, Governors Fort of New Jersey, Hughes of New York; Hoke Smith of Georgia, former members of President Cleveland's cabinet, officials of the Equitable Life Assurance Company, members of Princeton university faculty and many friends and neighbors.

Mr. Cleveland was buried in all the simplicity and privacy he himself might have wished, as a private citizen, rather than as the former chief, that savored as official and military element was injected solely as a measure of protection for President Roosevelt, who arrived from Oyster Bay this afternoon. The President, Governor Fort and Secretary Loeb were driven at once to Westland. Upon their arrival at the house the president went to Mrs. Cleveland, offering sympathy and expressing a keen regret for the death of Mr. Cleveland. The services begun shortly thereafter. Along the streets from the house to the cemetery national guardsmen mounted, and on foot, followed the way. Business was suspended in the afternoon, and curtains were drawn in many of the houses. Silent crowds stood with bared heads as the procession wended its way to the cemetery and the bell of the old Nassau Hall tolled mournfully.

President Roosevelt was driven directly from the grave to the depot. Mrs. Cleveland and the immediate members of the family returned to Westland.

MANY ORIGINAL "STUNTS"

Bellingham Normal Get First Place on Poster Display—One of the Prettiest Features by the Rainier Circle and University of Oregon.

SEASIDE, Or., June 26.—

There was the usual routine of classes at the Northwest Conference of Young Women's Christian Associations today. At the city conference the discussion of finance work occupied most of the morning. Mrs. H. C. Campbell, president of the finance committee of the Portland Association, opened the discussion with a brief outline of the work as carried on so successfully by that association. Mrs. Campbell emphasized the importance of choosing committee women who are Christians and believe steadfastly in the power of prayer.

The decision of the judges on poster exhibits gave Bellingham Normal first place and Pacific University second. The judges were Mrs. Raymond Brooks of Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. F. W. Berry of Portland; Miss Campbell of Tokio, Japan, and Miss Isabel Grover, of McMinnville, Or.

The University of Oregon girls wore wreaths of yellow flowers on their heads and carried U. of W. pennants. As they sang the varsity song they wrote the word "Oregon" on the lawn in front of the hotel by dropping handfuls of confetti, forming the letters as they marched. Pacific University gave a clever charade, "Balboa Discovering the Pacific," their college pennant serving to represent that ocean.

One of the prettiest features was the delegation from the Rainier circle, dressed in tissue paper dresses of purple and white. Miss Hayes and Miss Campbell served tea in true Japanese fashion, not omitting to kneel the required number of times with forehead to the ground.

Taft returned to the hotel at 10:20 where a number of political friends had gathered. He had a conference with Booker T. Washington in his rooms. BRIDGE COMPLETED

Last Rivet Driven on Immense $2,000,000 Structure

OVER THE COLUMBIA RIVER

Spokane, Portland and Seattle R. R. Bride, the Longest and Most Expensive Bridge of Its Kind in the World.

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 26.—With by scant ceremony, the last work of actual construction of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway bridge across the Columbia River at this city, the longest and most expensive structure of its character in the world, was completed yesterday afternoon, when the last rivet in the immense steel structure was welded home. Although it was generally known that the steel work of the big bridge was nearing completion, the management made no announcement of it, and avoided ceremony in order that danger of accidents among a large crowd might be avoided and the record of small loss of life in the work maintained. This record has been unusual, as notwithstanding the dangerous character of the work, only two men have lost their lives in the two years of construction.

The first intimation of completion of the work was the continuous blowing of the steam whistles at the bridge. This was shortly after 2 o'clock, and as soon as the import of the sound of the whistle was realized, the steam salute was taken up by every institution in the city provided with a whistle, and continued for fully an hour. As soon as the work was completed the men employed were given a holiday and came up town to celebrate. The men appeared as happy over the event as the most interested citizen, and until late in the evening continued their celebrations.
