Senator Bourne Plays in Poker.

Portland Oregonian.—It was a $40-limit and a six-handed game. Gus Simon was dealing, and Dr. C. H. Wheeler, who sat next him, glanced cautiously at his cards, saw three aces, and placed four blue chips in the center of the table. The pot was opened, for each blue chip represented $10.

"I'll raise it," said I. Lowengart, who sat next to the opener and held a small straight. He stacked up eight blues beside the opener's four. "I'll stay," said United States Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., who thought a pair of kings backed up with a pair of fours looked pretty good in that pot. The other three players, including the dealer, passed and disgustedly tossed their cards in a heap. The Senator carelessly placed eight blue chips in the center of the table.

There were 20 blue chips, $200, in the pot when it again got around to Mr. Wheeler to be opened, who was immensely pleased with the three big aces he still held. He met the raise, and added four more blue chips.

"I'll stay and raise you," he said, and every one could see the look of satisfaction with which he said it. But the look of satisfaction turned quickly to one of alarm, as Mr. Lowengart, whose small straight still looked like a winner, not only met his raise but came through with another, placing 16 blue chips, $160, in the pot. Then it was up to the Senator, whose pair of kings and two four didn't look quite so encouraging.

"I'll stay," said the Senator, though dubiously, as he stacked up his 16 blue chips alongside the others. "Deal the cards," Dr. Wheeler also stayed. At the time of his election a well known local politician said of Senator Bourne, "He has one qualification that will endear him to the hearts of many persons like myself,—he'll play two pairs higher than any poker player I ever knew."

There were feeble attempts at banter and passiflage among the players as the dealer dealt the cards. The opener, with the three aces, drew two. Mr. Lowengart, with the small straight, stood pat, and the Senator drew one. Stealthily but earnestly, they eyed the new cards, and the faces of at least one of the players fell. But the Senator had caught a third king, making him a full nouse, and he was unable to conceal the smile that spread over his countenance as he saw it.

The opener, afraid of the man who stood pat and the one who drew one card, passed the bet. Lowengart, with the small straight, cautiously bet a white chip. The Senator eagerly shoved his stack to the center of the table and raised them the limit. Mr. Lowengart called, and the Senator's winnings on that one hand amounted to several hundred dollars.

But that hand's winnings were not sufficient to keep him from eventually losing. At the end of the game he was a large sum to the bad. Some say his losses were as much as $4000, but his friends say that they were less than one-fifth that sum. When the game broke up he offered to play pinoche at $150 a game, but every one was looking out of the window.

The big-limit poker game was played in a room at the Portland Hotel Sunday afternoon.

CROUP QUICKLY CURED.

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting for the Doctor.

Croup should have prompt treatment. The life of many a dear one has been sacrificed because the right remedy was not at hand.

Pay close attention to the child who is feverish, thirsty, and occasionally coughs dryly and shrilly. This is the first stage of croup, and instant treatment should be given.

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. Its soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed, and the swelling reduced.

"Not long ago our little boy, Walter, awoke in the night with a bad attack of croup, so that he experienced great difficulty in breathing. We allowed him to inhale Hyomei, and he immediately began to breathe easier, and in half an hour was fast asleep. Our children, being subject to croup, we feel safe with Hyomei in the house, and I am glad to speak a good word for a remedy that will rob croup of its terrors."—Rev. Geo. Sisson, Pastor of M. E. Church, South Londonderry, Vt.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is the quickest acting and most sensible remedy ever discovered for all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. It is guaranteed by T. F. Laurin to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and croup, or any cough. A complete outfit, including a neat hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs only $1.00. An extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents.

You had better learn to accept all the small misfits and trivial annoyances of life as a matter of course. To allow them to receive attention beyond their deserts is to wear the web of your life to the warp. Be on the lookout for the great joys and never let mosquitoes worry you into a passion.

For Chapped Skin.
Chapped skin whether on the hands or face may be cured in one night by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It is also unequalled for sore nipples, burns and scalds. For sale by Frank Hart and leading druggists.

Gossip is only a lack of a worthy theme.

JIMMY BRITT TALKS.

Of What Battling Nelson Will And Will Not Do.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Willis Britt, of San Francisco, manager of Lightweight Champion Battling Nelson stopped off in Chicago for a few hours yesterday afternoon en route from New York to the coast and set at rest all doubt as to the pugilistic plans of the Dane.

"The rumors of Nelson fighting McFarland six rounds in the East or meeting Johnny Thompson at this place or that are all wrong," said Britt. "Nelson has only two fights in view, and neither of these is likely to come off soon. One of these battles is to be with Packey McFarland then Nelson will give the Chicago boy a crack at the title. Negotiations for a fight between the Dane and McFarland have not even been started but I can say the battle will come off about New Year, for Nelson is not going to enter the ring for a battle before the first of the new year. As for the other fight if it is arranged it will come at some later date."

Britt, who has been in the East with Nelson, incidentally said there was no chance of Nelson crossing the water to England to engage in sparring exhibitions with Jimmy Britt, who is now on British soil.

Great men are not so great as we think them, and dull people are not quite so dense as they seem. It is really a question in my mind whether the Great Man ever existed. Seen at an angle across the distance, so the light strikes on a certain facet of his being, we say the man is brilliant. In his own household he is probably considered something else. He is great to us only because we do not know him. He does a few things well, but special talent in any direction is purchased with a price. If you have much skill in certain lines, you are lacking in other directions. Like a chain, a man's real strength is in his weakest part.

For Chronic Diarrhoea.

"While in the army in 1863 I was taken with chronic diarrhoea," says George M. Felton of South Gibson, Pa. "I have since tried many remedies but without any permanent relief until Mr. A. W. Miles of this place persuaded me to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, one bottle of which stopped it at once." For sale by Frank Hart and leading druggists.
