

JAMESTOWN WEEKLY ALERT.

VOL 5.

JAMESTOWN, STUTSMAN COUNTY, D. T., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1882.

NO 20.

LOCAL MATTERS.

A Suggestive Scheme of Benevolence.

While the people down in the states, New York for example, are housed up by three feet and a half of snow and so cold that it freezes the porcelain knobs off the doors, the people of Dakota may congratulate themselves on the comfortable climate they enjoy, and just enough snow to make the sleighing and traveling good. But while we congratulate ourselves upon these conditions and surroundings of weather we must not forget the common bond of sympathy with our less favored fellow-men down in the states even though they do tell appalling tales of exaggerated falsehood about the climate of Dakota. The Alert is a philanthropist on the broad gauge, and has an inexhaustible fountain of benevolence and charity for suffering humanity wherever it may be found. When it knows of the snow bound and suffering people down in the states, it no longer remembers that they tell of snow twelve and fifteen feet deep up in Dakota and of blizzards which shave the boulders off level with the surface on our prairies, but rises above all feeling of resentment and in that magnanimity which always characterizes the truly brave, and in the great depth of his heart, pities and consoles with them in their distress. The Alert would suggest that the good and benevolent people of Jamestown make up a card of condolence and send it down to the suffering people of the northern states. Remember that "it is more blessed to give than to receive," and remember also that such generosity would be placed to our bank account at the First National in the New Jerusalem. What a grand thing it would be to be recognized as a citizen of Jamestown, D. T., when you present yourself at St. Peter's gate and hear the cashier read off your bank balance before the whole multitude. Then in your feigned modesty you would ask where you did all these good things, and the reply will be: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto these Knickerbockers ye did it unto me." Of course you remember all about it but you would ask the question just to have it told before the crowd. After this introduction you will be handed a good cigar and conducted to a reserved seat over which will hang a placard which will read, "Jamestown Exhibit." We throw out these suggestions to-day because we had a little more leisure than usual yesterday on account of it being inconvenient to take our usual pleasure ride out ten miles into the country. The matter of collecting this contribution is not urgent and we would suggest that it might be delayed a few days until the weather moderates a little here. The air is a little too bracing just now for your summer wear and it is too much trouble to get out your winter clothing which you brought to this country with you, under the delusion that you would need it, just to canvass the town for this purpose.

Burning of Elm P. That r.

Just after darkness had closed in upon our city yesterday evening, when the laborer had sought his fire and settled down in the family circle for the evening and the business man—except the news-paper man who never sleeps or knows from experience the comfort of an evening at home—was closing his eyes for the day, the startling and terrifying cry of fire was passed from one to another of the few who were out on the streets at the time. The known exposed condition of our city to the destroying element adds to the terror of the cry of fire, and with that one thought in mind people old and young rushed out into the stinging cold and repaired to the scene, and in a very few minutes a multitude had gathered, some to assist as far as possible in extinguishing the flames or saving property from the burning building, but the larger portion to look on and observe the progress of the fire and the incidents connected with it.

The fire seems to have originated in the south end of the building in the dressing room adjoining the stage in the theater hall, and was first discovered by C. S. Reeves who was coming down Fifth avenue, two blocks west, and who first gave the alarm. It seems the fire had at that time made rapid progress toward the main building in front for when the inmates over the saloon in front discovered it at about the same time the back stairway, the only means of egress, was on fire.

The second floor in front over the saloon was occupied by Mr. Elmer and his family as a dwelling and at the time referred to there were in the room Mrs. Elmer and two of her daughters, Mr. Elmer himself having gone over east somewhere on the train, and the returning train being late he returned only in time to see the closing scene of the conflagration of his premises. Mrs. Elmer and the two daughters, apprised of their perilous situation, at once became desperate with excitement, broke the front window and leaped and fell to the sidewalk below, each of whom sustained more or less injury, and were carried to the Fifth Avenue Hotel where their wounds were dressed by Dr. DePuy, from whom we obtained the following particulars of their several injuries:

Mrs. Elmer's right shoulder dislocated, one rib cracked and back nearly so but not yet ascertained. Miss Bennett a severe bruise of right hip, almost a fracture, and laid badly out by the broken glass in the window from which they leaped. Miss Peasy left elbow dislocated backward, outward bone of left leg broken near the ankle joint and hand cut by broken glass.

There was no chance for saving the building from the time the fire was first discovered, and but little of saving any of the contents. A couple of trunks and a bed were saved from a room in the rear of the theater hall, a pistol and billiard table from the saloon on the first floor in front, and a few articles of little value only were saved.

The origin of the fire is not at present known. What little wind there was going was from the south so that the building, located on the south that might otherwise have added fuel to the conflagration were saved with but little effort. The Stutsman county elevator across the railroad to the north was most endangered by the flying pieces of burning timbers, but by the roof was protected partially by a ceiling of snow, and guards stationed on the roof prevented its taking fire without much difficulty.

The saloon building cost $1,500, and to this was added in the rear the theater hall which cost $1,700, making first cost of the entire building $3,200, worth, together with the incidentals of construction would probably foot up $3,500 for the building alone. The contents are estimated at about $1,500, making the total loss $5,000. Insurance in the following companies: Springfield, Mass., on building, $1,500. American, Philadelphia, on building, $1,500. Fire association, Philadelphia, on contents, $700.

A Furious Fire at St. Paul Yesterday Made Havoc Among the Buildings and other Property.

Terrible Fire at St. Paul. By Western Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Dec. 6.—The most destructive fire that has visited St. Paul since the capitol burned, broke out this morning in Nicola & Dean's wholesale hardware establishment, corner of Third and Sibley streets. About half past ten o'clock flames were discovered issuing from the flue in the shipping room and almost immediately appeared in the ceiling and floor of the second story. An alarm was at once turned in, but the wires failed to work, engine No. 2 arriving on the spot fully ten minutes after the alarm was sounded, though but four blocks away. Nos. 1 and 3 and hook and ladder failing to respond to the call a second alarm was turned in which brought No. 5 down from St. Anthony's hill. No. 1 and hook and ladder was finally apprised of the fire by messenger arriving with No. 5. By this time the entire upper floor which was stored with wooden ware, was in flames. Everything burned wrong. The thermometer registering only 8 above zero everything was frozen, slippery and dangerous in the extreme. The new Hayes' extension ladder became so clogged with ice in the machinery parts that the greatest difficulty was observed in its use. The fire was rapidly gaining headway and all valuables had long since been piled in the streets. By half past eleven the fire was under control, though still burning fiercely. A heavy five foot wall protected Merrell, Sahlgard & Fawings wholesale drug house. Had the flames reached there the whole block would undoubtedly have been swept away.

Losses and insurances are as follows: Nicola & Dean are the heaviest losers $50,000 being a rough estimate at present, writing. They carried an insurance of 61,500, as follows: Lancashire of England $5,000; Commercial Union of England $10,000; German American of New York $5,000; American Central of St. Louis, $5,500; West Chester of New York $5,000; Girard of Philadelphia $3,500; traders of Chicago $5,000; Boston Underwriters of Boston $5,000; Phoenix of London $10,000; Metropolis of Paris $7,500; total on Nicola & Dean's stock $61,500. St. Paul fire and marine, furniture and fixtures $1,000.

Maxfield and Seabey's loss will be light covered by an insurance of $7,500 in the St. Paul fire and marine, and the New Hampshire of Manchester, N. H.

The Minneapolis and St. Louis ticket offices that occupied a corner on the ground floor will lose but little, everything being safely removed. They held an insurance of $500 in the St. Paul fire and marine. The building destroyed was recently purchased by Chas. Lockhart of Pittsburg, and valued at $25,000. The insurance is $15,000, of which the St. Paul fire and marine has $5,000, and the City of London company $2,000.

The Butter Makers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 6.—The tenth annual convention of the national butter egg and cheese association opened this forenoon. President Belknap, of Boston, delivered the annual address, in which he enlarged upon the growing industry of dairy products. He was followed by R. F. Van Valkenburg, of New York, chairman of the committee on statistics, who gave some interesting facts concerning the shipments of butter, cheese and eggs from New York for the year ending Nov. 30th, 1882. Receipts of eastern butter at New York 631,651 packages at an average weight of 70 pounds per package and 29 1/2 cents per pound; the total weight being 1,304,361,705 pounds; receipts of western butter for the same time was 712,977 packages at an average weight of 50 pounds per package and 28 cents per pound, giving a total of 9,981,678 pounds. Total exports of butter for the year was 7,800,886 pounds at an estimated value of $1,606,149.49.

Receipts of eastern cheese for the year ending Nov. 30 were 110,113,304 pounds at an average of 11 cents per pound, giving $4,211,246.34; receipts of western cheese 20,291,095 pounds at an average of 9 cents, giving $1,826,205.62. Receipts of eggs for same time were 40,163,196 dozen at an average price of 23 cents, making $9,237,535.08.

Total value of butter, cheese and eggs received at New York for the year was $46,201,462.06.

Lloyd Iseman, of New York, followed with an interesting account of the manner of getting statistics and calling the attention of congress to the matter.

The report of the treasurer of legislative committee showed that expenditures exceeded receipts by $686.95. Great surprise was expressed at this result, it being stated that the bulk of the outlay was occasioned by the prosecution of oleomargarine dealers.

A paper on eggs was read in the afternoon session by Samuel Sabin, of Philadelphia, followed by a discussion on the best methods of making creamery butter. This was followed by D. A. Schoch, of Orangeville, Ill., determining the value of cream by amount of production in butter by weight instead of by measure. His estimate of the comparative value of different creams are carried out by miniature weighing churns.

C. C. Herell, of Rockford, Ill., recommended the establishment of a system of experienced stations to bring about uniformity of methods in butter making.

At the evening session Major Pangborn,

The Butter Makers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 6.—The tenth annual convention of the national butter egg and cheese association opened this forenoon. President Belknap, of Boston, delivered the annual address, in which he enlarged upon the growing industry of dairy products. He was followed by R. F. Van Valkenburg, of New York, chairman of the committee on statistics, who gave some interesting facts concerning the shipments of butter, cheese and eggs from New York for the year ending Nov. 30th, 1882. Receipts of eastern butter at New York 631,651 packages at an average weight of 70 pounds per package and 29 1/2 cents per pound; the total weight being 1,304,361,705 pounds; receipts of western butter for the same time was 712,977 packages at an average weight of 50 pounds per package and 28 cents per pound, giving a total of 9,981,678 pounds. Total exports of butter for the year was 7,800,886 pounds at an estimated value of $1,606,149.49.

Receipts of eastern cheese for the year ending Nov. 30 were 110,113,304 pounds at an average of 11 cents per pound, giving $4,211,246.34; receipts of western cheese 20,291,095 pounds at an average of 9 cents, giving $1,826,205.62. Receipts of eggs for same time were 40,163,196 dozen at an average price of 23 cents, making $9,237,535.08.

Total value of butter, cheese and eggs received at New York for the year was $46,201,462.06.

Lloyd Iseman, of New York, followed with an interesting account of the manner of getting statistics and calling the attention of congress to the matter.

The report of the treasurer of legislative committee showed that expenditures exceeded receipts by $686.95. Great surprise was expressed at this result, it being stated that the bulk of the outlay was occasioned by the prosecution of oleomargarine dealers.

A paper on eggs was read in the afternoon session by Samuel Sabin, of Philadelphia, followed by a discussion on the best methods of making creamery butter. This was followed by D. A. Schoch, of Orangeville, Ill., determining the value of cream by amount of production in butter by weight instead of by measure. His estimate of the comparative value of different creams are carried out by miniature weighing churns.

C. C. Herell, of Rockford, Ill., recommended the establishment of a system of experienced stations to bring about uniformity of methods in butter making.

At the evening session Major Pangborn,

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The order suspending under Inspector Pollock revoked and he ordered to report for duty. Secretary Teller has modified instructions, registers, receivers and surveyors. General issued report of 22nd to read as follows: No application by an association of persons for patent to two pieces. Claims to be allowed must not embrace more than one hundred and sixty acres and not less than $500 worth of work must be shown to have been expended upon it for the benefit. Each separate location embraced in such application undivided becomes a purchaser and the possessor of several separate claims of 20 acres each or less. He may be permitted to include in his application for patent any number such claims contiguous to each other not exceeding an aggregate of 160 acres, but upon or for the benefit of each original town or location so embraced he or his grantees must have expended the sum of $500 improvements.

It has been suggested, and with considerable force too, that it would be a good plan to send some of our representative democrats down to Washington this winter to present the matter of a division of the territory to the democratic members of Congress; and in connection with this suggestion, the names of Anton Klaus and E. K. McGinnis have been suggested as good men to send for that position. In addition to these the Alert would suggest J. W. Goodrich and J. A. Atkinson. The Alert would also suggest that Burleigh county join with this county in the scheme by sending down representative democrats from that county. Mr. Keller informs the Alert that Stutsman and Burleigh are the only two counties in North Dakota which have democratic organizations in working order. The plan we think is a good one and would probably be a great advantage to the desired division of the territory, which is the one thing we in North Dakota want. We certainly do not want the territory in its entirety admitted as a state, and when divided it is a matter of no concern to us whether the southern part is admitted or not. While we can understand why the democratic members might object to admission we cannot see any reason for objection to division and we do not believe there is.

The American eagle will probably have to claw the French and bring them to a proper respect for the rights and dignity of our nation. The Monitor Universel published at Paris declares "the American navy is so reduced by speculation that the United States recently had to back down to Chili," and further it says "France could ruin every American port." France might be as badly mistaken as when she undertook to "ruin" old Emperor William's Kingdom. It is a humiliating fact, however, that our navy is in a debilitated condition, and that it is in part due to speculation, but still we are not so poorly provided for in this respect as French journalists may imagine. If they want to test the matter let them step on the American Eagle's tail.
