A Memorial.
(James Whitcomb Riley died July 22.)
The hand is stilled, the graphic pen Will never write for the children again;

Of Uncle Sidney 'nen Elizabeth Ann, Orphan Annie 'nen the Raggedy Man, Riley wrote as few can write,
With eager joy and pure delight;
No wonder children love him so,
And sob and cry that he should go, He'd pry the outer husks apart, Touch the core of the childish heart Till it would beat in perfect time, Singing a measure to its rhyme.
Children laugh with frolicsome glee, Their hearts a-throb with ecstasy, As they read his poems o'er and o'er, Stored with treasures of youthful lore, Childhood memories, simple in truth, Wayward ways of growing youth.
His poems always will be read,
For Riley, the beloved, is not dead, But lives beyond the golden gate, Where, with the angels, he will wait Till every child in this broad land Will go to him and hold his hand And beg for his stories all over again, That dropped like dew from his magic pen.

Riley is crowned "The Children's Friend,"
And his children's stories never end.

Rheumatism is one of the most frequent ills with which mankind suffers, but like a great many other diseases it is produced by a germ. This germ usually makes its entrance into the human body by way of the mouth or the disease is often complicated by the presence of other germs. Cure of diseased mouths will often prove a cure for rheumatism. Prevention of diseased mouth conditions usually prevent it.—Adv.

TWO ARRESTED AS RESULT OF EXPLOSION cision, but the shrapnel on the barges was packed vertically and to this was attributed the fact that there was no loss of life. The flames on these barges and two others which drifted past the island were extinguished by municipal fireboats and men who played streams from the shore.

It was officially announced that the damage to all federal buildings in this city and harbor, Brooklyn, Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., was not more than $50,000. Earlier reports had placed the estimated damage at Ellis island alone at $1,000,000.

In Manhattan, Brooklyn and in New Jersey towns, the streets were strewn with glass. Many thousand windows broken. The modern structures apparently suffered the least damage. Police reserves were warning through this city, detailed to prevent the looting of goods exposed in shattered windows, particularly in the jewelry district in Malden and.

Estimates of the damage probably cannot be definitely made for many days. The Lehigh Valley and the National Storage company was worth $7,000, 000. Part of this was wrecked and much Lehigh Valley and Central railroad of New Jersey property, together with piers, were destroyed.

Railroad Losses Heavily.
The Lehigh Valley railroad in a formal statement announced that the property included 40,000 tons of raw sugar, valued at $1,000,000, and thirteen storage warehouses owned by the National Storage company, six piers, the railroad, and company and leased to other companies, were destroyed.

The statement said the evidence showed that the fire started on a barge owned by the Lehigh Valley Storage company and moored alongside a railroad pier, "expressly against orders," and the flames, after burning for one hour and sweeping practices such as the fire then spreading to cars loaded with shrapnel, sugar, salt and pork, and the contents, not explosives, of the burned warehouses. No total estimate of the loss was included in this summary.

Bedloe island, on which stands the penitentiary, nearest the Blackton peninsula, received the brunt of the explosion. The statue and all buildings on the island suffered damage.
The body of a victim of the explosion was picked up about 22, was

GREAT BRITAIN WARNED OF MANY SERIOUS CON-SEQUENCES OF BLACKLIST

It appears to his majesty's government expedient to do so.

"The possibility of undesired injury to American citizens from such measures as the blacklisting of citizens of all the nations not involved in war, of serious and incalculable interruptions of American trade are without limit.
It has been pointed out on behalf of his majesty's government that these measures were aimed only at the enemies of Great Britain and would be adopted and enforced with regard to the rights of neutrals and with the least possible detriment to neutral trade, but it is evident that they are inevitably and essentially injurious to the rights of neutrals of all the nations not involved in war.
The government of the United States begs to remind the government of his majesty that citizens of the United States are entirely within the rights in attempting to trade with the people or the government of any of the nations now at war, subject only to well-defined international practices and understandings which the government of the United States deems the government of Great Britain to have lightly and too frequently disregarded. There are well known remedies and penalties for breaches of blockade where the blockade is real and in fact operative, but in the blacklisting, for every neutral act by whomsoever attempted. The government of the United States cannot consent to see the remedies and penalties altered or extended at the will of a single power or group of powers to the injury of its own citizens or in violation of its own rights. Conspicuous among the principles which the civilized nations of the world have accepted for the safe-guarding of the rights of neutrals is the just and honorable principle that neutrals may not be condemned nor their goods confiscated except upon fair adjudication and after an opportunity to be heard in the prize court elsewhere. Such safeguards the blacklist brushes aside. It condemns without hearing, without notice and in advance. It is manifestly in violation of the question that the government of the United States should acquiesce in such methods or application of punishment of its citizens.

Whatever may be said with regard to the legality in view of the internal obligation of the act of parliament upon which the practice of the blacklist as now employed by his majesty's government is understood to be based,
the government of the United States is constrained to regard that practice as inconsistent with that true justice.

CUTICURA HEALED
ECZEMA IN 30 DAYS
Had Been on Hand Three Months, Irritated Causing Constant Pain.

"I was affected with eczema on my left wrist. It began in pimples and skin was red and sore, and crusted and scaled. The pimples got white and itched causing constant pain, and looked awful bad.
"I began to treat it and it spread over half my wrist and the side of my hand. It had been on my hand about three months when I commenced to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days it was better, and in thirty days I was healed sound and well." (Signed) Chas. O. Baker, Shoals, Ind., April 22, 1916.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are not only most valuable for the treatment of eczema, but also for itching and roughness, dandruff and irritated scalp, but their great mission is to prevent such conditions. Cuticura Soap used exclusively for the toilet and Cuticura Ointment occasionally as needed guard the skin and scalp in most cases against any troubles of this kind.

The New Fall Models in LADIES' SUITS

Are Now on Display

These new models show many style changes. The style tendency of the fall models is for longer coats; the large high-low collar that buttons up snug around the neck or can be worn turned down in the cape effect.

The skirts are somewhat wider, giving the flare effect. Fur trimming will be used on many of the suits.

On account of the strikes in Eastern factories the rapidly advancing prices and the approaching scarcity of the most desirable materials, we advise early buying, which will assure you of the best garments priced on lower cost of manufacture.

sincere amity and impartial fitness which should characterize the dealings of friendly governments with one another. The spirit of reciprocal trade between the United States and Great Britain the privilege long accorded to the nations of each according to their ships and cargoes, to be served each by the other's merchan-tise very seriously impaired by arbitrary and sweeping practices such as this. There is no purpose or inclination on the part of the government of the United States to shield American citizens or business houses in any way from the legitimate consequences of unneutral acts or practices; it is quite willing that they should suffer the appropriate penalties which international law and the usage of nations have sanctioned; but his Britannic majesty's government cannot expect
to consent to see its citizens put on an exparte blacklist without calling the attention of his majesty's government, in the gravest terms, to the many serious consequences to neutral rights and neutral relations which such an act must necessarily involve.
It hopes and believes that his majesty's government in its natural absorption in a single pressing object of policy, has acted without a full realization of the many undesired and undesirable results that might ensue.

EXCUSABLE NEGLIGENCE.
Attorney for Plaintiff—You have testified that your conduct toward your wife was always affectionate and punctilious. Now, isn't it a fact that you left the house one morning without kissing her goodbye?
Perkins (who is defending a separation suit on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment)—Yes, sir.
Attorney (triumphantly)—Ah, I thought so. Now will you tell us why you left your wife without kissing her goodbye?
Perkins—Because she had just hit me in the mouth with a flatiron, and my ocular apparatus was temporarily disabled.—Judge.

SIMPLICITY OF IT.
Speaking with a young lady, a gentleman mentioned that he had failed to keep abreast of the scientific advance of the age. "For instance," he said, "I don't know at all how the incandescent electric light is produced."
"Oh, it is very simple," said the lady.
"You just press a button and the light appears at once."—Christian Register.

PRACTICED IT.

Clerk—Do you believe in preparedness?
Clubbleigh—Sure! I never go home late without having an excuse all framed up.—Boston Evening Transcript.
