

BANGS SECURES REVERSAL ORDER

Decision of United States Court is Reversed by Court of Appeals.

Telegrams received yesterday by Attorney George A. Bangs from the clerk of the United States circuit court of appeals at Denver, Colo., announce the reversal of the judgment of the United States court at Fargo by which Arthur J. Gillette was convicted under the Mann act of white slavery on July 2, 1915.

It is claimed that Mr. Gillette had been employed by the state's attorney of Traill county to investigate violations of the prohibition and bawdy house laws at Galesburg and other points of that county, and as a result a house had been closed and several of the inmates were convicted. The term of court at which their trials were to take place convened at Hillsboro before Judge Pollock on Monday, March 9, 1914, and on the preceding Saturday, March 7, one of the girls filed complaint before the United States district attorney charging Gillette with having taken her to Moorhead where he bought her a supper and liquid refreshments for purposes in violation of the Mann act, and the preliminary examination was held on the day on which the trials were to be begun at Hillsboro.

Mr. Gillette was tried twice. The first time the jury disagreed, standing 11 to 1 for acquittal. There were four counts to the indictment and at the last trial the jury convicted on one count and Mr. Gillette was discharged on the other three. He was sentenced to a year and six months in the penitentiary. An appeal was made to the United States circuit court of appeals where the case was argued by George A. Bangs for the defendant at St. Paul, on May 3 of the present year, resulting in the present verdict.

Fortiori, Having Lost Its Ma, It Adopts Passing Car.

When a young colt, nickering pleadingly, galloped wildly down DeMers avenue from the east side in the wake of an automobile, spectators rubbed their eyes first in disbelief and then in astonishment at the paradoxical display of equine affection.

"Chug-chug" went the car, in maternal fashion. "Whinney" answered the coil affectionately. But the car did not stop, and the coil was without his dinner.

The riddle was solved when a distracted mare attached singly to a vehicle swung around the corner in quest of her offspring. After the family reunion was over, the coil proceeded to his dinner with many gustatory manifestations of delight.

LAST SHOOT OF SEASON IS BEING HELD TODAY

Local Shooters Will Cross Guns This Afternoon and Evening at Final Event in Successful Season.

The East Grand Forks Gun Club will meet this afternoon and evening for its last shoot of the season at the local traps. Local sports will be present in a goodly number, and some excellent shooting of the birds is expected.

The club, which numbers thirty members, has spent a highly successful season. The present is the culmination of the season's shooting at the traps, and nearly all are in prime condition for a journey into the fields at the opening of the season, which occurs Thursday.

While chickens are not as plentiful as in past years, due to the wet and backward season, it is said they are present in fair numbers, and that some good shooting may be had.

DIRECTORS WILL HOLD MEETING

Executives of the Northern Packing Plant Will Make Plans at First Session.

Arrangements are now being made for a meeting of the board of directors of the Northern Packing company to be held within the next few days when officers will be elected and a contract will be drawn up with the general manager who will be named at that time.

Details have not been completed for the establishing of the big plant in Grand Forks, but it is expected by the members of the board that the new enterprise will begin operations early next fall. It is not known as yet just where the plant will be located, but these matters are now being arranged and it is expected that a complete announcement will be made in the near future.

It is probable that the date for the first meeting of the board of directors since the articles of incorporation were filed, will be announced within the next couple of days. Minor details are now being arranged and the reports of the active members of the board will be made at this session.

Until after the first meeting of the board, no definite plans will be given out.

BID MADE FOR EQUITY PLANT

Secretary of Commercial Club Presents Arguments Before Directors.

C. W. Graves, secretary of the Grand Forks Commercial club, has returned to this city from Valley City, where he attended a meeting Monday of the board of directors of the Equity Packing Co. Mr. Graves urged the directors to select Grand Forks as the location for the new plant which will be erected in the near future in North Dakota.

Fargo, Minot, Mandan and Valley City also had representatives at the meeting and all presented arguments in an effort to have the city which they represented, selected as the most suitable location for the new enterprise. The arguments of all the representatives were heard and it is expected that the board of directors will make a report in the near future, naming the city which they believe will be the most suitable for the new plant.

Every possible effort is being put forth by the local Commercial club to obtain the Equity plant, as the establishment of this industry here combined with the Northern Packing plant, which is now assured, would make this city the largest packing center in the northwestern states here are excellent, it is believed that the directors will give the proposition presented by this city, a serious consideration.

The members of the Equity board of directors are: C. J. Lee of Valley City, chairman, P. M. Casey of Lisbon and Anthony Walworth of Minot.

MISS ELLA FULTON RETURNS FROM EAST

Dean of Women Has Interesting Summer With Former U. N. D. People and Other Friends.

Miss Ella L. Fulton, dean of women at the University of North Dakota, has returned to Grand Forks after spending the summer with friends in the east.

Miss Fulton first went to Syracuse, N. Y., where she was a guest at the home of her brother, Rev. C. A. Fulton, pastor of the first Baptist church of that city. She also had the pleasure of renewing her acquaintances with Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Dunlap. Dr. Dunlap is director of athletics at the University of Syracuse and is having great success there. He formerly held a similar position at the University of North Dakota, leaving here in 1912.

Miss Fulton spent several days at Cornell university, and then proceeded to Chautauque, N. Y., where she stayed for a month. Here she had the privilege of hearing the poet, J. W. Foley, formerly of North Dakota, appear in recital of many of his poems. Her vacation was completed at Jamestown, in the same state, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Clark, formerly of Grand Forks. She returned to Grand Forks somewhat earlier than was her original intention, fearing detention because of the threatened railway strike.

George Eastman, Founder of the Famous Kodak Company, Visits in City; Surprised Over Development

HAS NOT BEEN IN NORTH DAKOTA FOR TWENTY YEARS—HE DECLARES TO ENJOY HUNTING IN STATE.

George Eastman, of kodak fame, fourer and president of the Eastman Kodak Co., and party in Mr. Eastman's private car Rocket were in Grand Forks for two hours this morning, arriving on Great Northern train No. 9. The party was composed of Mr. Eastman, Dr. E. W. Mulligan, eminent surgeon; James S. Watson, director in the Eastman company, and F. S. Macomber, a prominent corporation lawyer, all of Rochester, N. Y.

The Rocket left at 8.30 for Riga, a small station fourteen miles west of Tower, where the gentlemen will spend a week's chicken shooting with friends, whence they leave for the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming, where they will spend two weeks fishing and shooting big game, returning directly to Rochester.

Mr. Eastman, who had just arisen from his bed and was suffering from a cold, was interviewed by a Herald reporter.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," he smilingly quoted when asked as to his destination, "and this is the first real vacation I have had in years."

He expressed keen surprise at the rapid development of the state and the prosperous growth of Grand Forks.

"It has been twenty years since I have been in North Dakota. Then it was a vast, comparatively treeless plain, surrendered almost entirely to the grazing of cattle. In a few short years I find a wonderful transition. Dairy herds have assumed the range stock. Handsome homes have taken the place of claim shacks. Agriculture has come into its own, and the state gives every evidence of fulfilling its destiny."

Speaking of the progress accomplished in Grand Forks in twenty years, he declared, "In the measure progress by decades. Here, it is measured year by year. What it takes the east years to realize you have accomplished here in a matter of months. There is no better evidence of its brain and brawn. Perhaps it is in a measure due to the virility of your atmosphere, which I find truly invigorating."

Regarding political questions, Mr. Eastman was silent.

"I want to relax, and not to be tied to political," he said. "The recently threatened railroad strike he refused to discuss, but he stated he was more than glad that some way had been found to prevent transportation and industrial tie-up that was just to both the railroad and its employees.

"Small arsenals, complete camping outfits and saddles completed the party's equipment."

TRAFFIC IS NORMAL AGAIN

According to the statement of local railway officials this morning, freight traffic is again normal at shipping points on the Dakota division.

Prior to the revocation of the strike order there was an unusually heavy traffic in all kinds of commodities not put on the embargo. With the imposition of embargo on perishables and livestock on Wednesday of last week, shipments of these goods naturally ceased and commitments did not return to normal volume upon the partial lifting of the embargo on Friday.

Monday there was a noticeable increase in the shipments of perishables. The accumulation of goods had not reached such a volume as to hamper convenient disposition, however, and today conditions are very nearly normal again.

DING! DONG!

THE SCHOOL BELL IS CALLING

and in a few short days the children will be off to school. Today you are wondering if you will have Mary's dress finished; or Tommy must have some new shoes.

The beginning of school is quite as much terror to many mothers as it is to the children—there is this to make and that to provide; there are hundreds of things to do, so the mother is plunged into the midst of a hurricane of sewing to get Jack and Jill ready for school.

That used to be the way, and in some families still prevails, but the modern way, the efficient way is to bring the little folks to our store a few days before school and fit them out complete, at a much less expense, and without the many annoyances of summer sewing days. The problem is thus easily solved.
