The Early Autumn.
The county lanes are bright with bloom,
And gentle airs come stealing through
Laden with nature's wild perfume
Of balm and mint and honey dew,
And o'er the summer's radiant flush
Lies early autumn's dreamy hush.

In wayside nooks the asters gleam
And frost flowers dance above the sod,
While, lapsing by, the silent stream
Reflects the hue of golden rod,
That flower which lights a dusky day
With something of the sun god's ray.

The grape vine clammers o'er the hedge,
In golden festoons, sunbeams burn
Like torches in a distant ledge,
O'er lights the lane at every turn
And ivy riots everywhere
Its blood red banners on the air.

A purple mist of fragrant mint
Borders the fences, drifts out
Of fostering corners, and its tint
As half of cheer and half of doubt,
Is like a dear delightful haze
Which robes the hills, these autumn days.

And strange wild growths are strange-ly met;
Odd things but little prized of yore,
Like some old jewel well reset,
Takes on a worth unseen before,
As dock in spring, a graceless weed,
Is brilliant in its autumn hue.

The crickets and the katydid
Pipe low their sad prophetic tune
Though air pulse warm the leaves
Amid,
As played around the heart of June,
So minor strains break on the heart.

Fortelling as the year departs,
The sweet old story of the year,
Is spinning onward to its close,
Yet sounds as welcome on the ear
As in the time of opening rose
May life for all as sweetly wane
As comes the autumn time again.

Ladies Auxiliary of Y. M. C. A. To Give Reception on Friday

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. have sent out letters to the mothers of the boys enrolled in the association, as an invitation for them to attend the informal reception to be given at the association building from 3 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and to become members of the auxiliary. While the letters have been only sent to the mothers of the boys, any woman of the city is most cordially invited to come and learn more about the work of the auxiliary. In former years, the work of the women has been limited to giving social affairs for the men and older boys, but this year much is being planned for the younger boys, those of 10 and 12 years of age. The committee in charge of the affairs are as follows: Reception, Mrs. Harry H. Tuttle, Mrs. F. C. Masee, Mrs. Leslie Stinson, Mrs. Louis Rohde, Mrs. F. W. Schellberg, Mrs. J. P. Read, Mrs. A. N. Briggs and Mrs. L. H. Carter; refreshments, Mrs. H. K. Gelst, Mrs. D.

V. Moore, Mrs. Charles Schuyler and Mrs. J. H. McNeil. Mrs. T. J. Smith and Mrs. F. E. Lurton will pour. The music committee consists of Mrs. Paul B. Griffith and Mrs. C. E. Garvin. The wording of the letter is as follows: "With the new equipment of the dining room and kitchen of the Y. M. C. A., the need for the women's auxiliary has been increased, this equipment makes possible the taking care of all the association's social work within the association. In order to be able to do this work without its being a burden to a few, a greatly enlarged auxiliary is desired. "As an opportunity for the mothers to become acquainted with the work of the auxiliary, an informal reception will be held at the association rooms from 3 until 5 o'clock. We would be pleased to have you present and to assist the association in this form of work for its men and boys. "There are no dues or fees. Membership being for service only."
