GERMAN TALK OF COMPLETE VICTORY ABSENT

(Continued from Page 1.) neutrals have suffered virtually as much as we have. In June, the British lost two ships without warning; the other allies lost one without warning and neutrals lost five, including three without warning. The figures for July show the British lost two that were not warned and neutrals lost one without warning and neutrals 24. To September 24, the British lost five vessels without warning and neutrals 26. "Eighty-one British lives were lost during the period covered above. During August and September Norway lost 33 ships, with a total tonnage of 47,000 tons; Sweden lost 11, Denmark 7, Holland 3, Spain 5, and Greece 6."

Sweet or Sour. I was down in the orchard yesterday. Where the autumn fruitage grows, Where the peach and apple and plum trees Stand in long irregular rows. I passed underneath the fragrant boughs, Where the juicy pippins hung And I saw how little the place had changed Since the time when I was young. I saw the wine in the damson's heart, Glean under the purple mist And I knew which side the nectarine The sun had so often kissed. Rich globes of yellow, red and green That hung in their leafy bowers, But I could not tell till I tasted them, Which ones were sweet or sour. I was there when the buds began to blow, In the beautiful month of May, And the promise which glowed in the orchard then Is more than fulfilled today. But o'er what a wonderful mystery hangs, O'er even the fate of a flower, For one may develop the fruit that is sweet And the other may prove to be sour. The sun may kiss them again and again, And the breezes from Scandinavia blow But they never can change their hearts, Nor turn from the way they were meant to grow. With the coming of October, the womenfolk of the city begin to turn their attention to their club meetings, which have been discontinued during the summer months. The Entree Club, which is always one of the first to take up work after the summer recess, will meet at the home of Mrs. Albert T. Vollweiler, 729 South Third street, at 3 o'clock, Monday afternoon. The club program has been changed a little for this year's work and the topics to be discussed at each meeting will relate to Modern Drama and American Art. The first paper at Monday's meeting will be "The Evolution of Modern Drama" and will be read by Mrs. E. A. Bixler, "Forerunner, Moliere" is the title of a paper to be read by Mrs. Vollweiler. The usual social hour will be enjoyed after the program. The second meeting of the P. E. O. Sisterhood will be held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. M. Gillette, 1524 University avenue. Mrs. H. E. Simpson will have charge of the program which will be on the "Evolution of Modern Drama." Following the reading of the paper a general discussion will be held. The Sisterhood is taking up the study of the history and development of North Dakota at their meetings this year. The Civic League also will resume their meetings on Monday, and they will be held in the auditorium of the public library. On Thursday afternoon, the members of the Thursday Musical club will gather at the home of Mrs. M. G. Olson, 101 Reeves avenue.
