

BERLIN HINTS RUSSIA AT ODDS WITH BRITAIN

Intimates Resignation of Premier Followed Stormy Sessions of Duma. Speeches of the Opposition Leaders Touching on Situation cut out by Censors

Berlin, Nov. 27.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—Interesting details have been received from Petrograd in reports regarding the happenings preceding the resignation of Premier Sturmer, says the Overseas News agency today.

"The Petrograd and Moscow newspapers of November 17 and 18 present virtually nothing but headlines and black columns. According to the headlines the newspapers carried reports regarding the meetings of the duma which reports had been suppressed by the censor. The military censor is declared, prohibited even reports of remarks made in the lobby, while the official news agency gave out extracts from speeches delivered by members of the extreme conservative right wing.

Apparently the president of the duma, M. Rodzianko, covered by the military authorities, withheld the official minutes from publication while the military censor suppressed in particular speeches by Paul M. Milukoff, leader of the Constitutional Democrats, and by the Socialist member, Tchidze. M. Rodzianko, however, finally announced to the newspaper men that he was not withholding the reports and that the suppression was altogether due to the censor.

"During the second day's meeting, M. Shugovnikov, leader of the Nationalists is declared to have stated: 'I am by no means a professional opponent of the government, but it is impossible to stand any longer what this government dares to do. We must tell the truth. Parliament is only guilty insofar as it has permitted this government to drag Russia to the verge of catastrophe. The war minister congratulates Milukoff.

"During the meeting of the duma the ministers also met. Premier Sturmer suggested that two duma members be dismissed but to this M. Chouvaloff, the minister of war, and M. Grigorovitch objected. The same two ministers appear in the report of the debate the next day while the others remained away. As the two ministers entered the extreme Nationalist member, M. Markoff, had just finished Professor Milukoff. M. Markoff's speech, it appears, also was suppressed by the censor because its publication would disclose to the public the contents of Professor Milukoff's speech. Both the ministers after M. Markoff had ended are said to have descended into the hall of parliament and shaken hands with the professor. War Minister Grigorovitch when asked whether he spoke in the name of the government, is quoted as answering that he spoke in the interests of the national defense made it necessary to work together with the duma, these words creating a sensation among the members of the assembly.

"The members of the duma after debate resumed to answer the questions of the government only when the political situation was cleared up. Meanwhile Premier Sturmer's resignation explained the expected attitude of the two ministers.

It has been reported through Stockholm, according to a Berlin dispatch of November 27, that the Russian government is preparing to bring proceedings against Professor Milukoff for his speech at the opening of the duma in which he spoke of the Anglo-Russian relations.

BUCHAREST MAY BE TAKEN SOON

Von Falkenhayn Claims city will be Uncomfortable place When Firing Stars.

Kernstadt, Transylvania, Nov. 27.—(Via Berlin and wireless to Sayville.)—At a luncheon which General von Falkenhayn, commander of the forces on the northern Rumanian front, gave today to a small group of neutral correspondents he remarked to the Associated Press representative that although "nothing in this world is so certain that one dare predict anything with safety" Bucharest will be taken in a matter of days. He said that the Germans get their guns trained on it.

Although General von Falkenhayn declined absolutely to commit himself to any prediction as to when this might occur and even questioned the purely military advantage of possession of Bucharest with its thousands of inhabitants, he said that it could be accomplished by gradually decimating the Rumanian army, he left not the slightest doubt, in the minds of his hearers that he considered it a possibility of the immediate future. General von Falkenhayn was reticent as to the probable length of the Rumanian campaign on the ground that the continued spring-like weather might hasten the end while even one sharp frost could spell death to it.

Although refusing to assume the role of prophet he appeared supremely confident of the ultimate result. He said that Rumanian soldiers the highest compliments upon their desperate bravery and disheartened stories of cowardice or inefficiency on the part of the Rumanian officers.

Three Boys Suffocated Playing in Freight Car

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Three boys all under 11, were suffocated in a box car in the Pennsylvania railroad yards today. They were identified as children living in the neighborhood of the tracks who climbed into the car to play, the police believe. A fire was started accidentally and they were unable to get out.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—That factions in Chicago's little Italy are engaged in a bloody war seemed apparent to the police today upon investigation of the murder of Joseph Diolavri, a grocer who was shot and killed while standing on a busy corner in the Italian district.

ROUGH RIDERS ADOPT VARSITY

Norwich Furnished Many of Nation's Leaders and Gets New Commons.

New York, Nov. 27.—Preliminary plans for the "Rough Riders" of Spanish war fame to build and endow a "commons hall" at Norwich university, Northfield, Vermont, were announced here last night. The university, a military school founded in 1819, which was the alma mater of Admiral Dewey, Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy under President Lincoln, two modern governors of different states; fifty-two generals in the regular army; six rear admirals; two cabinet officers, and three ministers to foreign countries, recently was "adopted" by the Rough Riders.

At the outbreak of the Spanish war it is said, 80 per cent of the graduates and former cadets of Norwich volunteered for service. The proposed new building will cost $100,000.

FIELD OF HONOR DEATH PLACE OF MRS. BOISSEVAIN

National Suffrage Worker Died for Woman's Suffrage Cause.

Body to be Sent East For Burial—Had Busy and Successful Career.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 27.—That Mrs. Inez Millholland Boissevain died on the field of honor just as truly as the soldiers in France, was the tribute paid to the memory of the suffrage worker in a statement given out today by an Anne Martin of this city, national chairman of the woman's party.

"Mrs. Boissevain gave her life for the freedom of women and for the welfare of her country," said Miss Martin. "She rose from a sick bed to keep every one of her Nevada engagements during her recent tour. She did the same thing in California. She died on the field of honor just as truly as any soldier in France."

Death Occurred Saturday. Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 27.—Mrs. Inez Millholland Boissevain died here Saturday night, shortly before midnight. She was stricken suddenly while addressing an audience in the city during the suffrage campaign for ten weeks in a local hospital. Her illness was diagnosed as aplastic anemia and blood transfusion was resorted to in attempts to improve her condition but without any result. She was followed by a set-back.

The funeral will be held in New York, where the family resides. Deceased was one of the most prominent and active workers for equal suffrage. She was a social welfare worker, an advocate of socialism and a practicing lawyer. She was a member of the Henry Ford "peace party" but quit it because its policies were not to her liking. She was a graduate of Vassar and while there took part in many activities, but always shunned the social life. She was a worker among the poor and at one time served as probation officer in Foughkeepsie. Following this she went to London, where the joint Pankhurst suffragettes and was once arrested for an address she made.

In the 1908 presidential campaign she gained fame as "the girl who broke up the Taft parade." She received her degree in law at the New York university law school in 1912. She always took an active part in politics, fighting throughout for "woman's rights." In 1912 she began the practice of law.

In July 1915 she married Eugene Boissevain, a wealthy Hollander, to whom she had been introduced by William Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy. The wedding occurred in London, where she returned to this country and resumed the practice of law.

PACIFIST PLAN IS CHIMERICAL

Germans Would Insist on Holding Occupied Territory, says Paris Temps.

Paris, Nov. 27.—The thousands of words sent each day by wireless across the Atlantic by the Teutons against the systematic designs the German is pursuing in this war, says the Temps in its leader on "the new pacifist campaign," which says: "All that does not prevent discussion of the German as to the objects of the war in an entirely different tone. A great majority of the German people and the most influential parties have not abandoned the idea of annexation, with military and economic guarantees that would produce a most iniquitous and insupportable map but occupied territories, which encourage them to believe that peace concluded under the present conditions would still bring them appreciable advantages; hence these initiatives to American pacifists are aimed and developed by the entire Germanophile press.

"American humanitarian pacifists are pursuing a chimerical, because they live far from the trench to form a clear idea of what Germany wants and of the methods by which she seeks to realize her plans of conquest and aggrandizement.

VILLA CARRIES FIGHTING INTO CHIHUAHUA CITY

Carranza Officials Insist That He Was Driven Off.

Wire Communication With Juarez Broken—Await Final Result.

Juarez, Mexico, Nov. 27.—Although Carranza officials here expressed the conviction today that Villa's desperate efforts to take Chihuahua City, the capital of Chihuahua, had been defeated, the last news received directly from the battlefield indicated that the bandits, during the fighting Saturday, carried the conflict into the city proper, where they finally were ejected after heavy losses on both sides. Wire communication between Chihuahua City and Juarez, broken yesterday by the bandits Saturday, has not been restored.

The final result of the fighting between Villa's bandit army and the de facto government troops may be unknown for some time. Carranza officials today said they received no confirmation of the report that Villa released prisoners in Chihuahua prison when he was driven from the city. American army officers at El Paso received this report last night.

Searching parties worked all night when Miss O'Leary's parents began investigation on her failure to return home in the evening. In Waugusseten of the air hole and the boy's hat in the water were the first intimation that the two had drowned.

ARMY AVIATORS WITH PERSHING IN TIGHT PLACES

Thrilling Experiences recounted by Uncle Sam's Daring Birdmen.

Field Headquarters American Punitive Expedition in Mexico (Correspondence of the Associated Press). "Get there and back" is the motto of the puny but brave aero squadron. Censorship restrictions have placed an almost impenetrable hedge about the army aviators, but it may be said the squadron has lived up to its motto.

Flights are not begun at sea level, where the propeller blades can grip the air, but at a height of 5,200 to 7,000 feet, where the clouds thinned and sun-baked plains plus the altitude, combined to produce air currents and pockets that are a constant source of peril.

In one case a pilot went through that nightmare of all aviators, a spiral nose dive. The machine was spiraling at an altitude of 5,000 feet, which is more than 10,000 above sea level, when it struck an air pocket. Clouds obscured the pilot's vision and he had no idea where he was. When he realized that manipulation of his controls produced no effect, he glanced at his compass. It was turned sideways, indicating that his plane was falling with its wings at right angles to the earth. Carefully he rechecked his controls, fearing that too quick a reverse would crumple the planes. Several times he did that. At last he felt them take hold.

Just then, the clouds thinned and he saw the earth not more than 500 feet beneath him. He had fallen like a plummet at least 4,000 feet.

Another pilot at an altitude of several thousand feet early one morning noticed a sheet of flame shoot from the hood of his machine. Startled, he began to veer down, seeking a place to land. He throttled down the motor and the flame receded. When he gave the engine gas a few moments later to regain momentum, the flame reappeared. Several times this occurred. Finally, he glided to earth and got out to inspect the aeroplane. Everything seemed in good shape. There were no signs of fire. The flame he had seen had been the rays of the early morning sun gleaming on the highly polished, red blades of his propeller.
