Gaulke-Hanson Nuptials Saturday

The home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Gaulke, 1102 Belmont avenue, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening when Gail Maude, their youngest daughter, became the bride of John Thomas Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hanson of Roben, S. D. The Rev. George Henry of the M. E. church performed the ceremony at 5 o'clock before an improvised altar of palms and smilax, flanked with yellow and white chrysanthemums and tall cathedral candles. Miss Mabel Seim sang "At Dawn" by Cadman, and for a wedding march Miss Laura Myhre sounded the bridal chorus. Little Jean Brown, a flower girl, scattered petals in the bride's pathway, and ribbons forming a circle for the bridal party were stretched by Misses Ruth Gaulke, Genevieve Vold, Marjorie Kavanagh, Gemilla Riordan, Martha Crabbe and Vera Diabrow. Carl E. Mjovius and Cameron McKay, the groom's fraternity brothers, were the ushers. The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was fashioned of white satin crepe with side cascades of beautiful lace. Her tulle veil, which hung to the hem of her gown, was caught with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of brides' roses and bouvardia. Miss Elizabeth Gaulke, as her sister's maid of honor, wore an old rose taffeta topknot and carried Russell roses. Clifford Danielson, a fraternity brother of the groom, was best man. An informal reception followed the ceremony and in the dining room, where Mrs. G. A. Abbott presided, a buffet supper was served. Misses Vera Diabrow and Imogene Perry poured. Mr. and Mrs. Hanson left on Sunday to make their home in Thompson, N. D., where the groom is principal of the school this winter. He is a graduate of the state university and a former North Dakota football captain. His fraternity is Sigma Chi. The bride, who is also a North Dakota graduate, is a member of the Delta Gamma sorority and Phi Beta Kappa society. Mrs. H. J. Reiland of Missoula, Mont., an aunt of the bride; Miss Emily Hanson of Velben, S. D., the groom's sister, and a number of sorority sisters of the bride were out of town guests at the wedding. Miss Lydia O'Brien, principal of the Humbolt, Minn., school, was the thanksgiving guest of friends in East Grand Forks. Miss O'Brien formerly made her home in East Grand Forks and this city.

BLACK LACE MAKES THIS DINNER GOWN

Lace will always be the fabric for gowns for dress wear. At least lace will always stand for luxury, good taste and fineness in dress. From ancient times laces have meant lovely robes and costly garments. Although during the past generation or two other fabrics have rather routed lace from first place, it is not because the modern machine-made frock is too poorly made and roughly handled to use real lace. Real lace frocks, however, are just as valued now as they ever were. They are making a strong bid for first place as dinner frocks this season. Pictured here is a lovely straight line dinner frock of black Chantilly lace made over a black satin foundation. An interesting touch of color is added by the flaming red poppy at the girdle. A long waistline and upper arm covering, which is in no way a sleeve, are notable features of the gown. The armholes and neckline are bound in satin.

The Entre Nous club met this afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. W. Dennis, 902 Walnut street. The club members answered roll call to the question, "What Have I to Be Thankful for?" Domestic topics were discussed in interesting manner in papers presented by Mrs. C. L. LaMasuer, Mrs. J. E. Hetherington and Mrs. L. C. Harrington.

"Tinker Bob" Stories by Carlisle H. Holcomb

SILKY JUMPS FOR A RABBIT—BUT—

"Well Sir," said Silky, the money to Three Less, the Muskral, "if the King of the Forest goes to the great jungles of the far-away forest I shall go too. You don't think that I will stay here, do you?" "You have no business going with the King everywhere he goes. If the King takes anyone he will take one of the forest dwellers who live here, this isn't your home anyway. You came from the land far South and here you are trying to tell me that you know more about what the King of the Forest is going to do than I do. Why have I lived here all of my natural life? I know the King will not take you with him." "I don't know who gave you so much knowledge. I suppose you think that the King will take you. He would be a funny King to take such a fellow as you are along. You are even afraid to travel by day. If he took you along he would have to do all of his traveling by night. Then he couldn't see anything. That would be a fine way to travel." "I think if he takes anyone from the forest he will take me," this was the voice of Jack, the Rabbit. "The King is a friend of mine. If you don't jump into the briar patch and no one else even Red Fox can find me. I think a fellow must know something more than to climb a tree, or to run." "You talk about running, why, I can catch you anywhere, you can't run half so fast as you think. I can catch you before you ever think of jumping into the briar patch. If you don't believe it just you go ahead and I'll catch you right now. You are no runner. You just think that because you can fool Red Fox and some of the other folk. You wouldn't last long in the land of Jungles." "If you think you are so smart."

Silky, the Monkey, went after him at top speed.

Just you try to catch me right now, I'll show you that there is something in my brain beside something in my legs." Then Jack, the Rabbit, started to run as fast as he could. Silky, the Monkey, went after him at top speed. Jack turned the corners and Silky could hardly keep track of him. He jumped over logs and around trees and through the bushes and at times Silky lost sight of him. He had a good idea of something that was a bigger task than he thought. He made a great effort anyway, and at last he thought of what the King had said about Jack running in a circle so he waited for him and thought he would spring out and catch him as he came along. Suddenly he saw the grass move and he thought it was Jack. He sprang and held tight to the fellow till he discovered to his sorrow that it was Major Pole Cat instead of Jack, the Rabbit. Then he ran for the river. Tomorrow—Silky Practices the Golden Rule.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

The first European movie star has arrived in Hollywood on a "reciprocity visit." For the past few months American film celebrities have been flocking to Europe and so it is not surprising to find at least one European film star in the American motion picture center. She is Alma Taylor, said to be the most popular star of England and often referred to as the "British Mary Pickford." Miss Taylor will study American movie production during her stay here. At present she is observing in the Marshall Nellan studios in Hollywood and she claims she is learning much from that well-known American producer.

Miss Alma Taylor.

Announcement that Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks will co-star in a picture which they are now making plans to produce in England, has just been made by A. C. Berman, general manager of the United Artists' corporation, who has just returned from a consultation with the stars in Paris. Work on the picture is to start early in January, it is reported.

On completion of the production he is now directing at the Ince studios, John Griffith Wray expects to take a yachting cruise down the coast of Mexico during the winter. While away from the studio he will also complete the legitimate stage play he is writing.

Ret. Ingram and Alice Terry, who has played the lead in his productions, were quietly married at a historic Spanish house in Pasadena, Cal., by the pastor of the Hollywood Methodist church. Their honeymoon will probably be spent abroad. Norma Talhadge's arrival in Los Angeles, where she is scheduled to make her future pictures, will be a notable event. Among those at the depot to meet her will be the mayor of Los Angeles, the city council and various world-wide film celebrities. Before starting his new picture after his return from Europe, Charles Chaplin has gone for an outing trip into the California mountains with a party of friends. A five-year contract, by the terms of which he will become a star, is about to be signed by Rudolph Val-

A number of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority alumnae who spent the week-end in the city, left Sunday night for their homes. Others left this morning.
