GRAND FORKS PARTY WILL GO TO EUROPE THE MIDDLE OF JUNE

When many American people begin their migration to European places this summer, Grand Forks will have her delegation of tourists, too, among those who will spend the summer abroad. Miss Adelaide Okell has announced that she will conduct a party of nine young women on an extended trip through Europe, touching a great many points of interest in the Old World. The primary purpose of the excursion is to aid in a broader musical development in the young people of the party, most of whom have studied under Miss Okell. Seven of the party of nine will leave Grand Forks, and will meet the other two at New York City. Sailing on a Cunard Line steamer about the middle of June, they will go first to Paris where they will visit the beauty spots of the greatest city of France. From there, they will go to Nimes and to Monte Carlo, finally taking the Corniche Drive along the famous French Riviera, from where their itinerary leads them into Italy. In Italy, they will stop first at Genoa, going then, by steamer, to Naples, from where they will go to Sorrento to view the Blue Grotto. Leaving Sorrento, they will go over the famous Amalfi Drive, perhaps the best known drive in all Europe. They will visit the historic Mount Vesuvius at Pompeii, and will attend concerts at Florence, Venice and Milan. In Switzerland, they will stop at Zermatt, Geneva, Interlaken, Lucerne, and Sellsberg. Leaving Switzerland, the party expects to go to Munich and from Munich to Oberammergau, where the Passion Play will be enacted daily during the entire summer. Miss Okell has personal acquaintance with Mr. and Mrs. Anton Lang and their family, all of whom will take part in the Passion Play, and she and her party have been invited to be guests at the home of the Langs during their stay at Oberammergau. Anton Lang takes the role of the Christus in the Passion, and because this will be the last year that he will carry the role, unusual interest attaches to the presentation at this time. Miss Okell is familiar with Germany, having studied there a number of years, and the young women in her group will find her knowledge of the country a great advantage. They will stop at Dresden, at Berlin, at Heidelberg, at Weimar and at Eisenach, visiting the place where Miss Okell studied under the famous Madame Correnio. Weimar is the home of Goethe, and of Schiller, and will be of special interest to the local party since their interests abroad are largely musical. It is in this territory that the well-known Wartburg castle is located. It is here the scene of the opera, "Tannhauser," is laid

"Tinker Bob" Stories

by Carlyle H. Holcomb

THE UGLIEST CREATURE OF THE JUNGLE

"Tinker Bob, the King of the Forest, was anxious to get on farther in the Jungle Land because he thought it must be getting toward Spring. He knew that Willie Chuck had been out weeks past to look the weather over; and he knew that the time was short, after Willie came out, till Jerry the Jay, and Red Robin would come. It would never do for him to stay in the jungles till the leaves came out on the trees of the Great Forest. While he was thinking about these things, Tim, the little Elephant, called in that familiar voice. "Rumph, I know what you want to see." "What is it you know?" asked Tinker Bob. "If there is anything here that I haven't seen I want to see it now." "All right, I will show you where the folks live that you have not seen. You will not want to see them long, said Tim. "You can't tell, I may want to see them a long time. Come, show me where they are." Tim and Silky and the King started away toward the hillside. They went in the same direction that the Zebra went. "I hope you are not going to show me a herd of those fellows with many stripes," said Tinker Bob. "Rumph," cried Tim as he walked a little faster. "These fellows don't have any stripes. They are the ugliest looking creatures in the whole Jungle Land." "Well, if they can be any uglier than that fellow we saw in the river with his baby on his back he will surely be an ugly looking fellow." "Oh my, this creature is so ugly that it makes me sick to look at him. I hope it will not make you ill to see him," said Tim. "Well, if it makes me sick I'll call Dr. Giraffee," said Tinker Bob. Silky began to laugh to think of the King being cared for by Dr. Giraffee. He laughed so hard that he nearly lost his hold of Tim's tusk. "Woof," came a voice from behind a clump of bushes. It even started Tim himself. He wasn't expecting to find any creature so soon.

"Woof, woof," came another sound. This was followed by a dozen more sounds just like it.

"What in the world?" cried Tinker

Bob. Then he saw the creatures themselves. Tim was about right. They were the ugliest looking folks Tinker had seen in the jungles. There was one big fellow who seemed to be the leader. He had a broad nose, out of each side of his mouth extended, two large tusks, and all over his head seemed to be large warts. His head and his back were covered with bristly hairs. Can you guess who this ugly looking fellow was?

Banquet For Student Club At "Y" Tonight

The annual banquet of the High School Student club will be held in the gymnasium of the Y. W. C. A. this evening, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Aita Witzel of the high school faculty has arranged an interesting program of toasts which will center about the word "club." The president of the organization, Miss Ruth Gauke, will be toastmistress, taking for the subject of her brief address "The Welfare of the Club," and the responses will be in the form of a play on the letters which spell the word "club." Miss Marion Dixon will talk on the first letter, "C," developing her topic from the standpoint of what one may "see" by looking into the past of the local club.

"U" will be the key for a short talk by Miss Dorothy Solow, who will show the possibility of the club's branching out, as an "ell" on a building. Miss Ruth Dahl, faculty member, will build her address about the letter "L," making for her point, the place of "you," the individual, in the organization. "F" furnishes the suggestion for a talk by Miss Ruth Schlaberg, who will advise that members at all times "be" sensible. Miss Dorothy Heitman, with the aid of a large "club," will lead the club yells, and between courses, club songs will be sung.

The banquet on Monday will be the first since the year 1916. Patterned after well-known house clubs at other state universities and colleges, the "Wheeters" a club of North Dakota university girls has been recently organized. Formed with the intention of having a club house on the campus next year, the girls have now secured a club room on University avenue, where they hold regular meetings which are preceded by informal dinners. The purpose of the club is to enable out-of-town students to enjoy the comforts and the social life that they might have in their homes.

Clubs of a similar nature elsewhere are the "Keweenaw House club" at Berkeley, (California) university, and the "Mortar Board," and "Quadrangler" clubs at the University of Chicago. Although the local organization is in no sense a Greek letter society or a secret organization, it is not opposed to fraternities, and aims to co-operate with the Baptist sororities in promoting better college spirit and friendships.

The Baptist Ladies Aid takes the following rather unusual method of announcing a hard time party to be given next Friday evening, March 17, in the parlors of the church:

In the Baptist church, at 8 o'clock, on Friday, the seventeenth. Ye good folks all, both old and young, are urged to mind the date: For that is the time that Division One of the Baptist Ladies Aid Are going to give a social, and all their plans are made.

It's to be a "Hard Times" social—quite appropriate now—you'll agree. So wear your oldest pinafore or overalls, and see. Just how much fun we all can have when we get together and play; There'll be a program too; and cats; and not a cent to pay.

Mrs. C. D. Locklin had a group of youngsters at her home in the Getzian block on Saturday afternoon in celebration of the second birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Betty Caroline. Mrs. Locklin used a green and white color scheme in decorating small tables at which the guests were seated. A birthday cake with the feature of most interest. The guests were Dorothy Reed, Jean Smith, Virginia Connors, Frances Leonard, Beverly Cadwell, Elaine Davidson, Marjorie Anderson, Junior Anderson and Caron McGonegal.

The girls of the Delta Zeta sorority entertained their mothers on Saturday afternoon in an informal manner. There were fifty guests, and the hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock. A short program was given for entertainment, and at the close of the afternoon, refreshments were served.

Mrs. J. G. Sinclair, 1515 Belmont avenue left for Chicago last evening where she was called by the serious illness of her father, Dr. J. L. Hancock.

and in this castle, Luther wrote his translation of the Bible. Leaving Germany, the party will take the boat trip down the Rhine to Cologne, and then into Brussels and Antwerp, Belgium. They will then sail to Scotland, through the Trossachs to Glasgow, going from Glasgow to London, where they expect to remain a number of days. They will visit Oxford, Stratford, viewing that part of England which Shakespeare has immortalized. They will also go on a coaching trip through the English Lakes and will tour the Robin-hood country, including Sherwood Forest. They expect to visit Newstead Abbey, the home of Byron, and the dukeries of Nottinghamshire, seeing also the three famous cathedrals of Lincoln, Litchfield and Peterborough. According to present plans, they will sail for New York the latter part of September, after a three months' stay abroad.

On Thursday, March 16, the Pro-Cathedral Club will present "The Heart of a Shamrock," a three-act play, in the auditorium of St. Michael's church, for the benefit of the parochial school. Francis Webb takes the role of "The Shamrock," and he is being supported by Miss Frances Davis, Miss Florence Williams, Miss Laura Nuss, Miss Josephine Lobsinger, Gerald Monley, Earle Law, and Howard Monley. The play is under the direction of M. J. McLaughlin.

Between acts, the orchestra of St. James Academy will entertain with Irish music, and Clarence O'Connor and Lawrence Lynch will sing. Master Frederick Monley will contribute a stunt to the program, also. Celebrating her fifteenth birthday anniversary, Miss Lucile Wilson, was hostess to sixteen of her friends in her home, 885 Belmont avenue, on Saturday evening. Card playing furnished the pastime, and later in the evening, Mrs. H. H. Wilson was assisted in serving luncheon by Mrs. E. G. Allen. Yellow jonquils centered the tables, and St. Patrick's appointments were used.
