Many persons telephoned police headquarters, that they had seen the automobile in which the bandits fled from the scene of the battle and that it was traveling at great speed. TURKEY MAY GET TREATY ON SATURDAY

Report to This Effect Issued Today at Near East Conference.

Lausanne, Dec. 19.—(By The Associated Press.)—It was reported this afternoon that a complete draft of the peace treaty drawn up as a result of the deliberations of the Near East conference here today would be presented to the Turkish Saturday.

Today's session of the conference dealing with the question of the straits was adjourned at 2 p. m., until tomorrow, without an agreement having been reached.

The British delegates were conciliatory during the discussions, but the Russian representatives maintained an attitude of opposition.

Last Session On Straits. Lord Curzon announced that the discussions were dragging and that his meeting must be the last for consideration of the straits problem.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Russia made an offer during the day to draw up a complete draft of the straits convention. He argued that the American statements as to the attitude of the United States on the question of the straits should be interpreted to mean that only warships on errands of mercy could go through the straits to the Black Sea. The American representatives did not reply to the soviet minister.

Both M. Tchitcherin and Ismet Pasha offered new suggestions concerning control of the straits. Ismet was mild and accepted in principle most of the proposals, but the allied powers, but Tchitcherin was hostile and demanded that the Russian proposals be considered at length by the sub-committee along with the new Turkish proposals.

Lord Curzon denied this request, saying it was impossible to continue the deliberations indefinitely. He asserted that the proposals had been made to the Russians by providing in the allied proposals that no fleet shall be admitted to the Black sea which is stronger than the strongest navy possessed by any Black sea power.

Marsh Says Solution Of Agricultural Problem Depends On Passage Of Norris Bill; Vote Expected Today On Right Of Way Proposals; John S. Williams, Mississippi Senator, Denounces Shipping Bill And Farm Credits Measure.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Hearings on rural credits legislation before the senate banking committee neared an end today with members of the committee predicting that a comprehensive bill embodying features of several of the farm relief measures now pending would be ready for submission to the senate early next week.

At today's committee session Sen. C. Marsh, who said he represented the people's reconstruction league, composed of progressive farmer and labor organizations, said he believed the present agricultural situation lay in passage of the Norris government corporation bill, rather than in the extension of farm credit.

What agriculture needs, he said, "is not credits, but higher prices and legislation which will divorce the farmers from the Wall street owned and controlled federal reserve system." He also charged that the committee was not permitting the farmers to lay their side of the case before it adequately but was giving a hearing to all bankers' representatives who want to appear.

Right of Way Fight. Washington, Dec. 19.—Supporters of the administration shipping bill and members of an alliance between opponents of the measure and proponents of the government-owned shipping agency, struggled for dominance in the senate Monday without definite results.

The issue was embodied in the motion of Senator Norris, of Nebraska, chairman of the agricultural committee to lay aside the ship bill and to take up the senator's own measure to create a government-owned shipping agency to buy and sell farm products.

Renewed efforts for a vote on the question were to be made today with prospects favoring a vote before adjournment.

For Credits Bill. Demanding that the shipping bill be laid aside was made during the session by Senator Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho and Senator Fletcher of Florida, leader of the Democratic opposition to the measure.

Senator Williams, Mississippi, announced he would not vote on the shipping bill, because, he said, he would consider himself "disgraced either way." He said he had not thought it was within the realm of human ingenuity to frame a bill worse than the ship subsidy bill, but that Senator Norris, by his measure "had accomplished the impossible."

Senator Borah urged casting aside the ship bill in favor of another relief as a matter of justice, declaring that "ship subsidy can wait" until the next session of congress, but that the American farmer with another crop season approaching could not wait. He warned his Republican colleagues that they had "trifled long enough with that seven million majority" and asserted that it was time that legislation and measures to relieve the agricultural situation were slighted at the present session of congress, the Republican farmer with another crop season approaching could not wait.

Both M. Tchitcherin and Ismet Pasha offered new suggestions concerning control of the straits. Ismet was mild and accepted in principle most of the proposals, but the allied powers, but Tchitcherin was hostile and demanded that the Russian proposals be considered at length by the sub-committee along with the new Turkish proposals.
