

THE GREAT ISSUE.

Pith and Point of the Political Battle.

THE PRESS AND PLATFORM. Democratic Doctrine on Tariff Reform as Taught by the Great Leaders East and West.

A. J. STREETER, the Presidential candidate of the Union Labor party, who has been making a canvass for himself in the Western States, has a letter in the Chicago News, which is summarized as follows: Mr. Steeter thinks that from what he saw in Indiana the State would probably give Cleveland a majority; Illinois is doubtful on the Presidential ticket and surely Democratic on the State ticket, because of the Labor vote; while he regards Iowa as a doubtful State, with the chances in favor of the Democrats. He closes by saying, "In my opinion this campaign will be a Waterloo for the Republican party."

Connecticut cast 137,233 votes in the last Presidential election. It is claimed that there will be 15,000 new voters this year, of which the Democrats will get two-thirds, Cleveland's plurality was 1,284 four years ago. The Butler vote was 1,684, which we will get this year, which will offset all Mugwump losses. The "pay-envelope" method of intimidation has injured rather than helped the High-Tax intimidators in the "Nutmeg" Commonwealth. The heaviest fight is being made against Vance and Granger, the Democratic Congressman from the First and Fourth Districts. The State will go for Cleveland by anywhere from 3,000 up, but Fry-the-Fat Foster may get in his work on the "Democratic Hessian" Congressman.

The following is an extract from a private letter written two days ago by Hon. I. D. G. Nelson, State House Commissioner of Indiana, who resides at Indianapolis. Mr. Nelson is an old citizen of Indiana, has had a wide experience in the politics of that State, and is regarded as an exceedingly safe and conservative observer of political affairs. He writes: "But there does seem to be a change in the political condition of parties that is shown more in the temper of parties than in any other way perhaps. The Republicans are irritable—get mad almost any joke—while the Democrats are in fine feather, and have been especially so for the past few days; and yesterday the thing culminated. It has been a well understood fact that the labor vote was very largely in favor of, or at least, unfavorable to Harrison, and if the Democrats could hold it the State was certain for Cleveland. I have had serious fears that they couldn't do this; but if there were any doubts, yesterday's election decided it. For the past two weeks the Republicans have been making extensive preparations for a great labor demonstration, to take place yesterday. It was expected to have 50,000 or more labor representatives from this and other States. It was a beautiful day—but the crowd did not come, and the procession of all trades numbered 1,575 in line, according to a joint account of a Democrat and a Republican. Judge Jordan, who has had the sole charge of the appointment and distribution of speakers, told me a day or two ago that the tide had been running in favor of Democracy for the past week in a most satisfactory way, which, if continued at the same rate until the election, would give them the State by 20,000 or more. But with all this Indiana is among the doubtful States, and it must not be forgotten that a few votes in each township would change the result. And then with a Negro vote of between 17,000 and 20,000, there cannot be absolute certainty."

Fred Douglass' Opinion. If Fred Douglass is a prophet, or even the great grand-son of a prophet, the days of the g. o. p. are numbered. The New York World reported the eloquent Negro orator the other day in this fashion: "While waiting at the Grand Central depot to take the 9:50 A. M. train for Buffalo, Tuesday, Frederick Douglass, the colored leader, made some very significant admissions concerning the contest of affairs in Indiana. He was conversing with Charles T. Davis, and said: "I have recently returned from a thorough canvass of the Hoosier State, and I am satisfied that it will be impossible to carry the State for Harrison in the coming election. Mr. Harrison's position on the labor question while in the Senate and his utterance that a dollar a day was enough for any laboring man has antagonized all organized labor in that State, and in addition to that antagonism of the labor interests the Democrats are thoroughly organized and in earnest. We found that all our efforts on the tariff question have been neutralized, and have been of little or no avail. "In regard to the State of New York," Mr. Douglass continued, "we have made strenuous efforts in the western part of the State and we are talking of coming to the Harlem with 10,000 for Harrison; but in my opinion we shall not reach the Harlem with 45,000, and I see little or no hope for carrying the State of New York. In fact, I individually have abandoned all hope of carrying the State."

Mr. Douglass said that he would not weep if Harrison were defeated, nor would he rejoice if the Democrats were successful. He thought the country would be safe in any event. This conversation was conducted in the presence of James B. Becka, a Supervisor of the Pension Bureau at Washington.

Adam Forepaugh's Bets. Adam Forepaugh arrived home in Philadelphia in his private car at 6 o'clock this morning. The circus closed its season of six months at Albuona on Saturday night. It was one of the most successful seasons the show has ever known. During the six months that Adam Forepaugh has been away from home he has traveled all over the country, and from his observations of the political situation he has bet so far $18,000 that Cleveland will be re-elected, and he wants to bet some more. He is willing to risk $25,000 in the aggregate on the result of the Presidential campaign. Mr. Forepaugh sat in his luxuriously-appointed parlor to-night and talked about his bets. He said: "I have wagered over $18,000 on Cleveland. The last bet of $18,000 was made on Saturday. I have been traveling about all over the country for the past six months, and I have had my eyes and ears open, and I have seen and heard enough to convince me that Mr. Cleveland will have a walk-over. I think I have had a better opportunity to study the political situation all over the country than people who are settled in one place. I wouldn't risk $18,000 on Cleveland if I hadn't pretty good reasons for believing that I was going to win. Cleveland will carry Indiana and he'll sweep New York State."

As the prospects for defeating Mr.

Cleveland grow small it is noticeable that the New York Tribune and other Blaine organs begin to withdraw their champion and push poor Mr. Harrison to the foreground. If there should be a Republican triumph it would be a Blaine victory; but a Republican reverse would be a Harrison defeat.—(Philadelphia Record, (Dem.)

Harrison on the Irish. John A. Wilson, being first duly sworn, deposes and says that he is a dealer in nursery stock in Bloomington, McLean county, Ill.; that he is of Irish descent, and also an ex-Federal soldier in the Mexican war; that a few days before the Presidential election in the year 1876 he attended a Republican meeting, held on a street in the Durlay Theatre of Bloomington, Ill., and that Ben Harrison, the present Republican Presidential candidate, addressed that meeting; that Ben Harrison, during the course of his address, spoke highly of many nationalities, except the Irish people; that at this point someone interrupted Harrison and asked about the Irish and the services of Meagher, Sheridan, Shields, Mulligan, and the others; that Harrison then in answer to this question that the Irish were only fit to shoot dirt and fill the penitentiaries; affiant further says he cannot now remember all the abusive language Ben Harrison then used about the Irish, but affiant is sure of what he does claim to remember. Affiant further says that the man who raised the question was put out of the hall.

Cleveland on the Irish. It needed not the statute, which is now the law of the land declaring that "all naturalized citizens while in foreign lands are entitled to and shall receive from this government the same protection of persons and property which is accorded to native-born citizens," to voice the policy of our nation. In all lands where the semblance of liberty is preserved, the right of a person arrested to a speedy accusation and trial, or ought to be a fundamental law, as it is a rule of civilization. At any rate, we hold it to be so, and this is one of the rights which we undertake to guarantee to any native-born or naturalized citizen of ours, whether he be imprisoned by order of the Czar of Russia or under the pretext of a law administered for the benefit of the landed aristocracy of England.—[From his speech at St. James Hall, Buffalo, April 9, 1882, demanding the liberation of American citizens imprisoned abroad.
