ANSCHLAG DEAD.

He Committed Suicide in His Cell.

HOW HE HID THE POISON.

He Takes Strychnine Which He Had Concealed in a Piece of Tobacco.

At half-past 11 o'clock last night, or shortly before, Anschlag took poison which he had been carefully hiding in a plug of tobacco. As has been the case ever since the day of the execution was set, a death watch has been kept on the condemned man and his every movement has been carefully scrutinized.

At that time everything was taken from him and he was watched with which he was given him reached him without a prior examination. Even the bouquets which were sent him yesterday were carefully scrutinized by Jailer Russell, who was determined that nothing should happen to cheat the law of its victim.

HIS STATEMENT.

Anschlag spent the day yesterday as he had spent most of his time for the last week, weeping and reading the Scriptures. Several ladies sent him flowers and when the reporters were admitted to see him in the evening he was seated at a table with writing on a large sheet of foolscap. When the jailer inquired as to the purpose of his labors with the pen he was at first unwilling to answer, but at last said it was a final statement to be read after his death.

After Anschlag's death no trace could be found of the paper, although a close search was made. It was noted on his person nor anywhere in the cell that could be ascertained.

Anschlag last night desired that his thanks should be extended to Sheriff Keys, Deputy Sheriff Russell and his deputies, and Judge Cheney for their kindness toward him. He said that he would astonish everybody by his courage to-day, and that he is no coward. He asked to be allowed to speak a few minutes from the scaffold and said he was willing to pay the penalty. The only thing he regretted was the pain that his actions had given to his relatives. He desired that none of his friends should visit him again as the pain it gave him to meet them was very great. It was thought last night, however, that these statements were made to dispel any suspicion that he might take his own life.

THINGS TO BE DONE.

Local Affairs Which the "Herald" Thinks Important. To get the Government building under way. There is money to go on with the work. There is great need of the building. Its erection will keep up the current of prosperity in the city. Get the work begun.

To build the big hotel. Next week a party of Eastern capitalists will arrive here to look into the matter. Let it be seen to that they do not go back without putting their hands to this work. The matter should be taken up by the citizens in general, and all sort of aid and encouragement should be held out so as to induce, to force these people to take up the great enterprise and get several hundred men at once at the work.

To aid in all ways the starting of vigorous work on the railroad to Salt Lake. Let the new Chamber of Commerce take this matter up en amore. It looks as if it was in a fair way to go now. It is stated that no bonus in the way of money is asked for; but all the exploiters desire is to obtain certain rights of way. A very liberal policy ought to be pursued by the city and county officials in dealing with such questions. Railroads are the great feeders of cities. They are the arteries through which the life-blood of commerce flows. These corporations may be a little grasping at times, but there can be no prosperity without them. While it is proper that certain restrictions be held over the roads that traverse a large city, the trammels should not be excessively binding. Help the Salt Lake road to come here. It will help us all. Let the Chamber of Commerce join to get it proper franchises and rights to enable it to reach tidewater at Rattlesnake Island and Alamosa Bay.

To establish here an Army Headquarters. It is understood that the officers of this department will shortly be obliged to vacate the St. Vincent property. It will be difficult to find suitable quarters for these gentlemen. What the Government ought to do, and what it would do were the matter properly put before the authorities, is to establish army headquarters, with proper buildings, in Los Angeles. The need of troops in Arizona will not be of very long duration, but that there will always be an army post in Southern California does not admit of discussion. There should be a reservation here like the Potosi in San Francisco. Los Angeles is the proper place for it. Good work will be done at Washington will get the headquarters permanently established here. There is much talk in army circles about establishing two branch military schools. West Point will always be the parent academy; but the officers favor the establishing of a branch in the valley of the Mississippi and another on the Pacific Coast. Let us move for this.

THE END.

Death of Joe Bresson, an Old Fireman. Joseph Bresson, who was taken sick about four months ago, died at the Sisters Hospital in this city yesterday, aged 59 years. Mr. Bresson has lived in Los Angeles nearly all the time since 1863, and was universally known and liked by all the old timers. He came to this coast in 1851 with General Albert Sidney Johnston's Utah military expedition, and shortly afterwards arrived in this State. He was married in San Luis Obispo in 1862, and came to Los Angeles shortly afterward. He was in the employ of General F. Banning for several years, and removed in 1867 to Arizona, where his funeral will take place from Garrett & Neitzke's undertaking parlors at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, and the members of the Department, the Exempt Firemen and his many friends will attend to the last sad tribute to one whom they loved and esteemed in life for his many manly and sterling qualities.
