

THE SHERMANS.

How "Old Tecump" Refused a Kingly Crown.

HE WOULDN'T BE PRESIDENT.

Mrs. Sherman's Funeral—Senator Sherman Favors Canadian Annexation.

[Associated Press Dispatches to the Herald.] New York, December 1.—The North American Review for December contains a remarkable article by General W. T. Sherman, entitled, "The Hon. James G. Blaine," in which among other things these two remarkable letters are for the first time given to the public. Mr. Sherman says:

In the year of our Lord 1884, there was to be a sharp contest for the nomination in Chicago of the Presidential candidate of the Republican party. The press and people generally believed that Mr. Blaine wanted it, and everybody turned to him as the man best qualified to execute the policy and to accomplish the result aimed at. Still abnegating himself he wrote to me from Washington this letter:

BLAINE'S LETTER. [Confidential, strictly and absolutely so.] WASHINGTON, May 25, 1884.

My DEAR GENERAL—This letter requests no answer. After reading it file it away in your most secret drawer or give it to the flames. At the approaching convention at Chicago it is more than possible—it is indeed not improbable—that you may be nominated for the Presidency. If so you must stand your ground, accept the responsibility and assume the duties of the place to which you will surely be chosen if a candidate. You must not look upon it as the work of politicians; if it comes to you it will come as a grand swell of popular demand, and you can more refuse than you could have refused to obey orders when you were a lieutenant in the army. If it comes to you at all, it will come as a call of patriotism. It would in such an event injure your great name as much to decline it as it would for you to seek it. Your historic record, full as it is, would be rendered still more glorious by such an administration as you would be able to give the country. Do not say a word in advance of the convention, no matter who may ask you. You are with your friends, who will jealously guard your honor and renown. Your friend, JAMES G. BLAINE.

SHERMAN'S ANSWER.

To this letter I replied as follows:

St. Louis, Mo., May 28, 1884. Hon. James G. Blaine, Washington D. C. My DEAR FRIEND—I have received your letter of the 25th and shall consider it as absolutely confidential, not intimating even to any member of my family that I have heard from you, and though you did not expect an answer I hope you will not construe one as unwarranted. I have had a great many letters from all points of the compass to a similar effect, one or two of which I have answered frankly, but the great mass are unwise. I ought not to submit myself to the cheap ridicule of declining what is not offered me, but it is only fair to many able men who rightfully aspire to the high honor of being President of the United States to let them know that I am not and must not be construed as a rival. In every man's life occurs an epoch when he must choose his own career, and when he may not throw off his responsibility. Mine occurred in Louisiana when, in 1861, alone in the midst of a people blinded by a supposed wrong, I resolved to stand by the Union as long as a fragment of it survived on which to cling. Since then, through faction, tempest, war and peace, my career has been all my family and friends could ask. We are now in a good house of our own choice, with reasonable provisions for old age, surrounded by kind and admiring friends, in a community where Catholicism is held in respect and veneration, and where my children will naturally grow up in contact with industrious and frugal people. You have known and appreciated Mrs. Sherman from childhood, have always known each and all members of my family and can understand without explanation from me how their thoughts and feelings should and ought to influence my action. I will not in any event entertain or accept the nomination as candidate for President by the Chicago Republican Convention, or any other convention for reasons personal to myself.

He Saw Others Succeed.

I claim that the Civil war, in which I simply did a man's fair share of work, so perfectly accomplished peace, that military men have an absolute right to rest and demand that men who have been schooled in the arts and practices of peace shall now do their work unusually well. Any senator can step from his chair at the capitol into the White House and fulfill the office of President with more skill and success than Grant, Sherman or Sheridan, who were soldiers by education and nature, who filled well their office when the country was in danger, but were not schooled in the practice by which the civil authorities are, and should be governed. I claim that our experiment since 1865 demonstrates the truth of this, my proposition. Therefore I say that patriotism does not demand of me what I construe as a sacrifice of judgment, of inclination and of self-interest. I have my personal affairs in a state of absolute safety and comfort. I owe no man a cent; have no expensive habits; envy no man his wealth or power; have no complications or indirect liabilities, and would account myself a fool, a madman, an ass to embark anew at 65 years of age, in a career that may become at any moment the limpest tassel, by the perjury, defalcation, dishonesty and neglect of any single one of a hundred thousand subordinates, utterly unknown to the President of the United States, not to say anything of the eternal wrorming by a vast host of impetuous friends and old military subordinates. Even as it is I am tortured by charitable appeals of the poor, distressed pensioners, but as President these would be multiplied beyond a man's endurance. I remember well the experience of Generals Jackson, Harrison, Taylor, Grant, Hayes and Garfield. All were elected because of their military services, and I am warned, not encouraged by their experiences. The civilians of the United States should and must buffet with this thankless office, and leave us old soldiers to enjoy the peace we fought for, and which we think we earned.

With profound respect, your friend,

WILLIAM T. SHERMAN.

These letters prove absolutely that Mr. Blaine, although qualified, waived to me personally the nomination which the

ASHES TO ASHES.

Mrs. General Sherman Buried With Simple Honors.

St. Louis, December 1.—At an early hour this morning the friends of the late Mrs. General Sherman began to assemble at the Union depot to receive the funeral party. The train entered the depot at 7:45. The special car was detached and the friends of the family entered it and paid their respects to the mourners. After breakfasting at the depot the funeral party returned to the private car and remained until the time for the funeral cortege to move.

The pall-bearers were Major-General John Pope, Brigadier-General John B. Henderson, General John W. Noble, Major Henry Hitchcock, James E. Teatman, F. A. Drew, Theophile Parin and D. R. Francis. There were two wagon loads of floral offerings at the hearse when the coffin was placed therein.

Senator Sherman Favors a Political Union.

New York, December 1.—In an interview with the Sun's Washington correspondent, Senator Sherman, speaking of a union between Canada and the United States, said: "My belief in the future common destiny of the two English-speaking nations of America never wavered. I was led to form it by my failure to find a less radical remedy than a political union between the two countries. The fisheries dispute and the question of the right of free transit of American goods over Canadian railways are types of the disputes that have vexed the two nations for a century, and will continue to disturb them so long as the present conditions exist. To get rid of these questions we must get rid of the frontier. I studied the proposal for a commercial reciprocity, only to be convinced that it was illusory and impracticable. A political union is another thing. The advantage it offers are more equal. Canada would gain all the advantages reciprocity promises her, the advantages of political consolidation with Canada to the United States would not be less probable and obvious; if less immediate, they will become greater in the long run. The political advantages of a union are emphasized by the present troubles over the Fisheries, railroad transit and canal tolls. These and other occasions of border disputes would be removed, and the most grave provocative of dispute and irritation would be taken out of our diplomatic relations."

Sherman continued by saying that the state of public feeling was ripe for the serious consideration of the question in both countries. On the Canadian side, favorable feeling is strongest in Manitoba and the Northwest. In this country the only opposition would come from the East, but the preponderance of power lies west of the Alleghenies and in the South, and both these great sections are favorable to the movement.

Trespassed on the Public Domain.

CARSON, Nev., November 30.—The suit of the United States Government vs. Bailey was decided by Judge Sabin, of the United States District Court, to-day. Bailey fenced a large tract of public land in Eureka county that neglected entering it. M. G. Cavanaugh took up a homestead on the fenced tract. The Court decided that Bailey had no right to fence public land, that he had no title in the regular way, and that Cavanaugh was entitled to an unobstructed right of way to his homestead. Bailey was fined $50 and sentenced to five days in the Eureka County Jail.
