

NEW MINES.

Reported Discoveries in the Panamint Range.

It is rumored that some good paying mines have been discovered in the Panamint mountains and that the men who obtained the first information regarding the mines are quietly working in that region locating claims. It is said that some months ago an old Indian told a man named Carter, of Riverside, of some ledges situated where no white man had ever been. Carter went with the Indian and found that the tale of the Indian was true. Carter imparted his information to R. E. Taylor, a banker of South Riverside, to a man named C. M. Tomlin, of Riverside, and another man named Nolan. These four went to the location of the ledges and located several claims. They then shipped provisions to the spot and engaged two youths, named Steve Arnold and F. J. Withers, to work on the claim; and as an incentive to make them work, gave them a couple of adjoining claims, and then went back to Riverside. These young men worked a few days on their employers' claims, and then tried to run away, which they found to be equally as good. They respected their own account, and located several more claims, and later on they left for civilization, when they told of the find. It appears that they bonded a three-fifths interest in their claims and that General Rollins and others became interested in the same. General Rollins has gone to the location of the mines and will be back, it is said, shortly. The latest reports were to the effect that Taylor et al. had sent a number of men to their claims to open them up and build a road, but reliable information in regard to the mines is hard to obtain, and those who know anything about them are very close mouthed, preferring to keep a mysterious silence. Mr. S. S. Sisson returned from there yesterday, but would not talk regarding the mines. It is rumored, however, that the ore ranges from $80 to $250 free gold per ton. The mines, it is said, are fifteen miles south of Old Panamint, and looks out upon Death Valley.

HELD UNDER BONDS.

He Did Not Have Dynamite, But It Was Vitriol.

Charles Hibbert, the dynamiter, was sentenced yesterday, by Justice Savage, to supply a bond of $800, for six months, that he would not do anything dangerous. As he could not provide such a bond, he will have to go to the County Jail for that period. Hibbert is an Englishman, and at the time of his arrest he was man-of-all-work on the place of A. C. Fellers, who lives on the corner of Walnut and Flower streets. His own account of the case is that Mr. Fellers did not pay him much of anything, and did not give him enough to eat. His ideas of the last point seem a little out of harmony with those that generally prevail in this locality. At the jail he complained very bitterly of the scarcity of rations, and the slim allowance in the number of meals. At home, in England, he said he was always accustomed to have six meals a day instead of a paltry three. Mr. Fellers says that he treated Hibbert as well as could be expected, and was very much astonished one day last month when the Englishman broke out into open rebellion. Finding him disposed to be ugly, Mr. Fellers told him that he was discharged, and he would find another man to take his place. Thereupon the man flew into a rage and said that he would dispose of Mr. Fellers, his family, house and lot even with a bottle of dynamite which he had in his pocket. Hibbert had done some work on the flower beds, and he said he did not propose to allow that to remain for the satisfaction of his former employer. He would throw down this bottle of dynamite and blow the whole business sky-high. An officer was sent for and Hibbert was arrested. On trial he made his own defense, and said that all he had in the bottle was blue vitriol.

THE POUND-KEEPER.

He Has to Pay Costs for Catching the Wrong Dog.

The Pound-keeper, Mr. O'Farrell, is having all kinds of difficulties. A short time ago he discovered that his deputies were making a regular business of stealing animals from the pound before they were legally held in pawn and over and selling them, thus rendering him liable for damages. Yesterday the case of Faunt vs. O'Farrell was argued and submitted in Justice Lockwood's court and a verdict found for the plaintiff with costs. Faunt was the owner of a valuable setter, which some one of O'Farrell's deputies captured in spite of the fact that all the requirements of the ordinance respecting dogs had been complied with. Mr. Faunt promptly brought suit for the recovery of the animal. When O'Farrell heard how the case stood he returned the dog, but declined to pay the costs of the suit. Yesterday the court decided that he must pay the costs, which he did, much to the disgust of his lawyer, who wanted to appeal the case to a higher court. There was a lively discussion, in the midst of which the lawyer threatened to "kick" the attorney on the other side, and finally offered him $1 in cash if he would go out on the street and fight him, Marquis of Queensberry rules, without gloves. At this point Constable Fred Smith roared wrath and proposed to kick the belligerent attorney down the stairs of the building. The flight of steps is a short one, but the lawyer declined to carry the quarrel any further, and the fight did not come off.

Charged With Rape.

Information was filed yesterday charging Isander Rojas, a farm hand on the Santa Anita, with rape. The woman in the case is Pauline Wiegand, who also works on the same ranch. The two were walking along the road toward the ranch, near San Gabriel, on the 9th day of last month. It was apparently a lonely spot and Rojas is said to have caught the woman and thrown her down. A Mrs. Sweitzer heard the woman's cries and hurried to her assistance, whereupon Rojas ran away. He was captured soon afterwards, and was examined before the San Gabriel Justice of the Peace. As a result of the examination he was held to answer to the Superior Court on the charge.

The Vines.

Mr. W. G. McPherson, Jr., one of the raisin-growers of the Santa Ana valley, was in the city yesterday. He said that most of the vines in the part of the country he hails from have been grubbed out, but that the ranchers are sorry now that they acted so hastily. Thirteen acres which Mr. McPherson did not sacrifice are looking bright and clear now, and the traces of the disease are fast disappearing. Mr. Hays, who did not tear up his large vine yard, between Orange and Anaheim, reports that the vines are looking much better now than they have for some time past.

THE CITIZENS' COMMITTEE.

Will Meet and Take Action This Morning.

There was a strong feeling of sympathy expressed by the citizens, yesterday, for the sufferers at Johnstown, Pa., and a number of them favored an organized relief committee for the collection of funds. The Council, at the suggestion of Mayor Hazard, yesterday afternoon appointed a committee, consisting of one citizen from each ward, to devise a plan for collecting funds. This committee will meet in the Council chamber at 9 o'clock this morning and take active steps in the matter. Colonel I. R. Dunkelberger, who is on the committee, suggested that it would be a good idea to ship a carload of choice California fruit to Philadelphia, where it could be sold at auction for the benefit of the sufferers. He thought that the fruit in the first instance would cost about $1,200, and that it would sell for from $10,000 to $12,000. He will probably propose this plan to the committee this morning.

Unknown Owners' Names.

The Supervisors yesterday reconsidered their action whereby they gave the Abstract and Title Insurance Company the contract for furnishing the names of the unknown owners of property to the County Assessor. They decided to advertise for bids, and thus give the other abstract companies a chance to compete. The bids will be opened by the Supervisors on the 7th of June.

The Shevonos.

The feast of Shevonos begins this evening, and will be celebrated by the Israelites all over the globe, in commemoration of the law of Sinai. In this city the services at the Synagogue will be conducted by the Rev. A. Blum, commencing at 7:30 P. M. During the evening service the rite of confirmation will be administered to eleven children. There will also be service on Wednesday, at 10 A. M.

Through to Tucson.

Yesterday the Southern Pacific made duplex connection with the new wire that has been stretched between Tucson and this city. A repeating instrument was at once fixed up and placed in charge of "Lightning" Irving. By the new arrangement dispatches can now be sent through from San Francisco to Tucson.
