

CITY TAX COLLECTOR WADE.

His Residence Claimed to Be in Another County.

How He Was a Citizen of Rialto for a Year and Four Months.

He and His Family Resided There; His Business Was There, and His Household Goods Are Said to Be There Now.

The question as to whether or not R. D. Wade, city tax collector by the decision of a small plurality of the voters at the recent municipal election, is legally entitled to the position is one that should receive some attention from the proper authorities.

The Herald has taken some pains to look into the matter, and finds the facts of sufficient importance to demand a thorough investigation and a final settlement of the matter by the courts. Mr. Wade is well known in Los Angeles, having resided here a number of years, but he, like the great majority of our citizens, has not lived here always. The reasonable supposition would be, that he, like other people, when they sever all business connections with a community in which they have resided, and remove themselves, their family and effects to another community, and there engage in business, had changed residence and become a citizen of the latter place.

Acting upon this supposition, the Herald presents these facts, and questions Mr. Wade's legal right to the position he now holds.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Semi-Tropic Land and Water company, held on the 8th day of April, 1891, at the company's office in Rialto, San Bernardino county, Mr. Wade was, by resolution, duly offered and adopted, elected superintendent of that company's affairs at a salary of $150 per month. The resolution also prescribes as his duties among other things that he have charge of the engaging of all employees and the direction as to their labor. Also to see that water was furnished to those entitled to it at the proper time and to generally superintend the active operations of the company. The company's property and business is all in San Bernardino county and his duties were such as to require his constant presence there. He entered upon the discharge of his duties as such superintendent on the 15th day of April, 1891, and continued constantly in that position until the 10th day of August, 1892, one year and four months lacking five days, and he would have been there yet drawing his salary from that corporation instead of the city of Los Angeles had it not been for the purchase of the property of the company from Major Bonbrake, Howes, Merrill and others by McDonald, Sheldon and others, the latter reorganizing the company, assuming the management of affairs and relieving Mr. Wade on the 10th day of August, 1892.

During the time that Mr. Wade was in the employ of this company he purchased of them in the name of Mrs. Emily Snoddy, presumably a relation, a tract of land in Rialto, payments for the same being made by him or charged against his salary accounts. He also purchased in the neighboring town of Ontario a dwelling house and removed it to the Rialto property, repaired and made additions to it, furnished and occupied it as a residence with his entire family and effects. He took an active interest in all the affairs of the little town, and was regarded by all as a good and permanent citizen. He was a good man in the position, and no doubt regarded it as virtually a life job, as the company's holdings embraced 2000 or more acres of land, several town sites and water companies that it will require many years to dispose of to private owners, and the idea of disposing of the entire business in a block all at one time probably never occurred to him or any of the company prior to within a few weeks of the transfer that let them all out.

Mr. Wade did not move his family to this city for some time after the 10th of August, and there is a doubt as to whether he was here 90 days previous to the 5th of December, at which time he was elected to the office of city tax collector.

But there is no doubt of some things, and that is that he did not leave San Bernardino county before the 10th of August, but that he registered in this county on the 28th day of September, to vote at the general election, held on the 8th day of November; that one requirement of the statute is a residence of 90 days in the county next preceding the election. Mr. Wade was presumably not a resident of Los Angeles county 90 days preceding the general election, is supposedly consequently illegally registered and cast an illegal ballot at said election.

As to what constitutes a temporary or an absolute residence it would seem that the abundance of evidence is in favor of Rialto, where is located his home containing his household effects, as the absolute and permanent residence, as against the rented rooms in a furnished lodging house in this city, at present occupied by him and his family.

The matter to be determined is whether or not a resident of San Bernardino county can remove to Los Angeles within 90 days preceding a general election, register and vote here, be elected to an office, establish his right thereto as a citizen upon his own declaration, unsupported by the facts in the case. It is probable that the city treasurer will be enjoined from paying the salary warrants of himself and deputies until the matter is determined by the courts.

ATTORNEYS' OPINIONS.

Several attorneys were asked by a Herald reporter yesterday about the merits of the points raised in regard to Mr. Wade's case, and they one and all said that in event of the intent of the gentleman to make his residence at Rialto being shown, it would be very difficult for him to show that he is legally entitled to hold the office, which he has been elected. If he has made statements to people in Rialto to the effect that he expected to make his home amongst them they will come home to him. The fact that he moved his family there and returned at so late a date to Los Angeles will all be facts that will militate against him in the case.

JOHN SONTAG'S FATHER.

He Pays South Riverside a Visit En Route to Temescal.

The step-father of John and George Sontag, the train robbers, was seen on the streets of South Riverside yesterday morning, says Friday's Press of that city. He was recognized by a resident of that place who used to be acquainted with Mr. Sontag and the boys, John and George Constant, while they were living in Mankato, Minn., Mr. Sontag keeping a hotel at that place.

Mr. Sontag and his companion, a man of about 50 or 60 years, came from the direction of Los Angeles, and after taking breakfast at the bakery and restaurant and inquiring the road to Temescal, left in that direction. Their outfit consisted of a horse and buggy, with a complete camping outfit. The horse showed hard driving. There is no doubt about its being Mr. Sontag, as Mr. Sontag was well acquainted with the family in the east. The supposition is that Mr. Sontag is driving through to Lower California to see his son John and Chris Evans.

AROUND THE WORLD.

The Arrival Here of Two Notable American Bicyclists.

W. L. Sachtleben and J. G. Allen, jr., the two plucky Americans who have been making a tour on bicycles around the world for the past two years, arrived in the city yesterday morning from the north.

A delegation of local wheelmen went out to escort the gentlemen into the city but missed them. A road run will be given, complimentary to them, today. The ride will be through Pasadena, Santa Anita and Azusa to Monrovia, returning by nearly the same route. Lunch will be taken at Monrovia. The Alhambra and Azusa wheelmen will meet the party on the road. All wheelmen are invited to join in the run, which will start from the Athletic club rooms at 9 o'clock this morning.

Not from a Financial Standpoint.

"I do not recommend Chamberlain's Cough remedy from a financial standpoint, for we have others in stock on which we make a larger profit," says Al Maggini, a prominent druggist of Braddock, Penn., "but because many of our customers have spoken of it in the highest praise. We sell more of it than of any similar preparation we have in the store." For sale by C. F. Heinzeman, 222 N. Main, druggist.

INVOLVING THE PROBATE LAWS.

A Supreme Court Decision on the Estate of C. P. Haas.

Pretty Mrs. Tischehauser Sent Back to Jail by Judge Shaw.

A Wedding Right After a Divorce. Notes on Cases in the Courts. New Suits That Were Filed Yesterday.

Deputy Supreme Court Clerk Ashmore received an opinion of the supreme court yesterday in a case in which points in probate law are involved of considerable interest. The case was that of an appeal in the matter of the estate of Christian P. Haas, deceased, and the court says: "This is an appeal by the executor, James F. Mooney, from an order settling his annual account. When the executor filed his account a legatee under the will objected thereto, upon the ground that he had a large sum of money and also other personal property in his possession, which was the property of the estate and for which he had not accounted. In answer to these objections the executor set out that he was the duly appointed, qualified and acting guardian of Ella V. Haas, a minor; that said property was her property and he held it as such guardian, and had returned it to the court in his inventory and appraisal of her estate, and he thereupon objected to the court hearing and determining these matters, upon the ground that as a court of probate it had no jurisdiction thereof. The court proceeded to a trial of the issues raised by the pleadings; made findings of fact to the effect that this property was the property of the estate, and by the decree charged the same to the executor in his account.

In the present status of this case the executor occupies a position which is not at all pleasant to him, viewed from a pecuniary standpoint, for he is now charged with this property in the estate of his ward, and also in the estate of the deceased Haas; and for that reason he has such an interest in the final determination of the appeal as to justify his appearance in this court. But his two positions of trust are in direct antagonism upon the question of property rights involved in this proceeding, and it were not for the prospective personal liability against him in one or the other of these estates he should not be heard here at all, for in representing both trusts he would necessarily misrepresent one.

The minor Ella V. Haas was not a party to the proceedings in the trial court and not a party to the appeal, although the decree of that court which is before us holds this property to be the property of the estate. The necessary effect of this decree is to declare that she has no title therein, for the question of her title was the only issue involved. The executor was not in a position to represent the ward at the trial of that issue for the reasons already stated; and the affirmation by the court of the judgment of the trial court would in no degree quiet the title to this property as between the respective claimants.

The issues raised by the objections of the legatee to the account, and the answer of the executor to such objections directly involved the question as to where the legal title to this personal property rested, and that was an issue the probate court had no power to hear and determine. There are many matters relating to the estates of deceased persons of which the probate court has no jurisdiction, and the determination of the question of title to property is essentially one of them. When it became apparent from the pleadings that matters of title to property were at issue, such matters should have been left to other courts for determination, care being exercised that all parties interested should be fairly and fully represented at the trial.

We think the judgment of the court was one beyond its power, and for that reason let it be reversed and the cause remanded."

The opinion is by Justice Garoutte, Justices Paterson and Harrison concurring.

JUDGE VAN DYKE'S OPINION.

The Supreme Court Pays Him an Unusual Compliment.

An opinion was also received in the case of Henry W. King et al., respondents, vs. J. T. Sheward, appellant, in which the supreme court quotes the judgment of the superior court in full as its opinion, and affirms the judgment. The case was one in regard to a difference arising from a loss on the return of some goods from J. T. Sheward to the firm in Chicago, Henry W. King et al., and the judgment of the superior court was against Mr. Sheward. This judgment is affirmed. The original judgment in the case was rendered by Judge Van Dyke in department No. 4 of the superior court of this city.

HRECIACH RELEASED.

The Conclusion of an Interesting Contempt Case.

Several days ago Judge Shaw fined M. Hreciach $100 and five days in jail for contempt of court in saying about the court that he would "see it in h—!" before he would obey the order made in his partnership controversy about a restaurant where a receiver was appointed. Hreciach was taken by his counsel on habeas corpus proceedings before Judges Clark and Van Dyke, Judge Shaw also sitting with them, and it was claimed that the contempt judgment was not legal on various grounds. It was urged that the contempt was committed outside the presence of the court, and that he had not cited the defendant before him in proper form.

An opinion was filed by Judge Clark and Judge Van Dyke yesterday, signed also by Judge Shaw, in which the judgment of Judge Shaw was sustained. The opinion was quite lengthy. Its leading idea was that the facts as to the contempt were correct, and that the courts would not disturb a judgment of that kind for a mere irregularity.

The defendant appeared before Judge Shaw during the day and apologized for his remarks, stating that they were made under a misapprehension of the facts in connection with the statements made to him by the receiver of the restaurant business. Upon this statement Judge Shaw admitted the balance of the sentence, Hreciach having been in jail pending the disposition of the habeas corpus proceedings, and the defendant was discharged.

MRS. TISCHAUSER REMANDED.

Judge Shaw Cannot See That She Was Justified in Throwing Stones.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Elizabeth Tischehauser came before Judge Shaw on habeas corpus proceedings for her release from the county jail, instituted by her attorney, Hugh J. Crawford. She was sent to jail by Justice Bartholomew, not being able to give the $500 bond to keep the peace required by him in a case of threats brought against her by Mrs. Martha Hebler.

The case was presented to Judge Shaw, and he remanded the poor woman to jail, not being able to do anything else under the facts in the case.

The troubles between these two families have frequently been before the courts and have excited various comments amongst those who know them. In case Mrs. Tischehauser is unable to give the bond she will be obliged to stay in jail for some time. The families reside close together, and there is a disturbing element in their relations which leads to periodical outbreaks of feeling, in which, so far, Mrs. Tischehauser seems to have had the worst of it.

Close Upon the Divorce.

Yesterday Judge Clark granted Mrs. Sarah French a divorce from her husband, Arthur A. French, upon the ground of desertion. During the afternoon, and not very long after the judgment of the court had been pronounced, John M. Clyman, a gentleman giving his age as 57 years, while Mrs. French is 38, secured a marriage license from the county clerk, and the two were soon after united in the bonds of matrimony.

Court Notes.

Judge Smith heard the appeal case of Viellier Cenatust yesterday, from a judgment of the justice court, and modified it from $20 to $10.

Albert Slack, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of embezzling a cow, was discharged by Judge Smith yesterday. It seems that Slack told a man who built a fence for him that he could have the cow in payment, and afterwards the cow was not forthcoming, whereupon the man had him arrested for embezzlement.

A hearing in the case of E. Fimbres, convicted by Justice Owens of firing a revolver on First street, was continued by Judge Smith yesterday until February 15th.

A number of the interminable Chinese fan tan appeal cases came up before Judge Smith yesterday, and time was allowed respondents in which to file briefs.

J. Albertus was before Judge Smith yesterday, he being accused of assault, the case being on appeal from justice court, and after evidence the case was taken under advisement by the court.

Hearing on the demurrer in the Cland L. Hill cases was continued by Judge Smith yesterday until January 23d.

Judge Van Dyke yesterday gave judgment for plaintiffs for $2509.45 in the foreclosure suit of Dr. Le Moyne Willis et al. vs. Adams et al.

A judgment of foreclosure for $2620.98 was rendered by Judge Van Dyke yesterday in the case of the Porter Land and Water company vs. Hensler et al.

The case of Glassell et al. vs. Verdugo et al. was argued and submitted before Judge Van Dyke yesterday. The case involved valuable water rights above Glendale.

Judge McKinley yesterday rendered judgments for plaintiffs as prayed for in the cases of J. Weber vs. C. B. Wilson, J. Weber vs. E. R. Doan et al., and J. W. Weber vs. A. H. Sanborn et al.

An additional order was made by Judge McKinley yesterday in the case of H. Schiebler vs. H. Behnen et al., suit upon a promissory note. The order was that the special verdict being inconsistent with the general verdict, in that interest was not allowed by the general verdict on the $212 partial payment on the note, the clerk should enter judgment for plaintiff for $648.57, less $212.22, with interest at the rate of 10 per cent from July 12, 1892.

New Suits Filed.

Suit was commenced yesterday by G. F. Chevalier vs. F. R. Ellis and company. It was a suit to recover judgment for $361.50 on account of goods sold.

Patrick Conroy's Will.

Yesterday's Herald contained a report in the above matter, which should be corrected so as to state that the later will names no one as beneficiary, and differs principally from the first will in that it omits the names of the two sisters as executrices, and names instead Martin D. O'Curran of Denver and Michael F. O'Dea of Los Angeles. No question has been raised as to its genuineness, it having been written entirely in his own hand while sick at Roosevelt hospital, in New York, and dated August 8, 1892.

MASHERS OUT IN FORCE.

These Gentry Should Receive the Attention of the Police.

The street corner "mashers" were out in full force yesterday—Saturday being tacitly considered by these bipeds as the principal flirting day of the week. These fellows live by some mysterious manner unknown to respectable people.

Some of them are confidence operators, who lay in wait for the stranger, make his acquaintance under some plausible pretext, and either borrow money from him, "rope" him against a dice game, or into one of the numerous poker games, and even against some female adventures. In either event the stranger is robbed, and the flashily-dressed masher and confidence operator gets his percentage.

These professional loafers stand upon the principal street corners, insulting by their leers and vulgar remarks every young lady who passes. Any stylish lady who passes is sure to attract their attention, and the fellows have the audacity to tip their hats, with the view of indulging in a flirtation.

No woman with any self-respect would, of course, pay the slightest attention to these vermin. Knowing that ladies do not like notoriety, and that complaints are not likely to be made to the police, these fellows feel secure. They are more contemptible and more deserving of punishment than the drunken vagrants who hang around the corner of First and Main streets.

These well dressed fellows are clearly vagrants and should be treated as such. The police should ferret them out and run them in.

THEY CAN WED.
