The man lived long enough to cry out that he had killed himself, staggering a few feet and falling dead. He had no relatives in this country, but was given a respectable funeral by his friends.

Miserable Roads—Heavy Winds—News Notes.

SANTA ANA, Feb. 15.—Business men complain, and justly too, that they are losing much of the trade of the country west of the river on account of the miserable condition of the roads leading into this city from that country.

The population west of the river is a large one and the residents very progressive. No section of the country is increasing more rapidly in population and wealth than the Garden Grove and Westminster districts, the trade of which should center at the county seat.

Yesterday large ponds of water and mud could be seen as now only dry, crusty places, as the wind, which has been blowing in no uncertain way from the north for the last 48 hours, has effectively dried the damp places up.

Old Boreas has turned himself loose in all his fury and the way the wind has been whistling through this valley is a caution. No damage to the orange crop is reported, although the blow has been the hardest one for many months past.

AN ONION'S STRENGTH.

A case of onion throwing and the dire results which followed is reported from Vernon, where Justice Quinn holds court. A complaint of battery was filed in his court the other day by a citizen of the neighborhood, in which he charged a neighbor with battery.

The onion was thrown at the plaintiff's head and inflicted quite a painful contusion. The full strength of an onion in the Vernon district must be known to appreciate how serious an offense was committed.

It is no uncommon thing in that district to see onions that are not only strong when applied to the olfactory nerves, but are in reality deadly weapons on account of their size.

The thrower was arrested and the trial set. Before the date fixed an attempt was made to square the thing, but Justice Quinn said it could not be.

Antonio Combelia was tried in the police court yesterday afternoon for breaking in the plate glass window in Hunter's candy store on First street, between Main and Spring streets.

There is a justice of the peace at Covina, in this county, who assumed extra judicial functions a day or two ago, which has resulted in a complaint being filed against him before an Assize justice.
