AN INDEX TO YESTERDAY.

BY TELEGRAPH—Opening of the Columbian exposition... LOCAL—The park commission's meeting...

NEIGHBORING TOWNS—Long Beach notes... A GREAT ACTOR PASSING AWAY.

THE SPECTACLE OF SEVEN COUNCILMEN voting to set aside the street superintendent's report upon a street which he pronounces "one of the best in the city"...

IT IS NOT A LITTLE SINGULAR that the council should record a two-thirds vote in favor of paying that demand of Justice Lockwood, of $140, after two courts had decided that the J. P. was entitled to no compensation whatever.

WE ARE BEING TREATED in municipal matters to the old fashioned game of thimbering, "now you see it and now you don't." There is no question of the fact that there is a square Democratic demand for recognition of the sweeping Democratic victory that was recorded at the late municipal election.

people who elected him his fall will be great indeed. In fact, he will come down with such a thud that it will be remarkably like that of Lucifer, who, in the language of the sweet bard of Avon, as recorded in a charming soliloquy of Cardinal Wolsey, fell never to rise again.

THE NEVADA SOUTHERN, ITS PRESENT AND PROSPECTS. For some days past, Mr. Isaac E. Blake, the president of the Nevada Southern railway, has been sojourning in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

Mr. Blake personally is a king amongst men. Of immense stature and frame, he presents the striking and always acceptable combination of great geniality and force.

The dispatches announce that Edwin Booth is passing away, and that there is now no hope of his recovery. Mr. Booth belonged to a family of actors, all of whom distinguished themselves in their profession.

THE LOS ANGELES CLUB AGAIN in the City—The Game Tomorrow. The Angels returned to Los Angeles yesterday afternoon at 12:30, and are feeling in fine trim for the opening series with Oakland, beginning Wednesday afternoon.

THE ONLY SUCCESS. Nine lots remaining of the 152 in the Adams street Homestead, $395 per lot, $10 installment, without interest.

It ended, and he returned to his home near Baltimore, where he died soon afterwards. Edwin remained in California, and played in a number of stock companies.

Edwin remained in California, and played in a number of stock companies. He appeared at Maguire's Opera House, at the Metropolitan and at the American theaters, where he played lines of secondary roles, but evincing much promise.

There is no one now to fill the place Edwin Booth will leave vacant. We have young tragedians of great promise, but it will take years for them to develop—if they ever do—into successful rivals for a place in the American drama with the great actor who has "treated his hour upon the stage" and will now be heard no more.

SOME PROSAC SUGGESTIONS.

It admits of great doubt as to whether any one is justified in spending much money in going to see the Chicago exposition, and for a number of reasons. We predicate this declaration on actual experience.

AND THE COUNTESS LAUGHED sweetly and picked up a half-smoked cigarette with a pair of curling tongs and resumed her talk. "The great trouble with the dear, sweet boy is that he is too easily led. I am satisfied he was deeply in love with me, but his relatives could too easily persuade him. His guardian, I understand, has been rather severe on him, and as a consequence of the influence brought to bear on him, he has chosen to deny our engagement."

"STILL, I AM THE COUNTESS."

A Stern Chase That Was a Long Chase.

Countess Vera Hastings de Henroit at Last Unearthed.

She Did Not Come to Blackmail John Bradbury—Some Spicy Charges by the Blonde Beauty—Will Not Be Bluffed.

"I came to Los Angeles because I loved Mallory. I loved him fondly, the dear boy!" So spoke the Countess de Henroit to a Herald reporter last night. The reporter found her, after a long search, at 104 South Los Angeles street, at Mrs. Williams' apartment house.

The countess is a rather petite person of the beauit de diable order. Her yellow hair was twisted into an empire knot on the top of her head last night, and she wore an artistic tea gown of pale lavender silk. Of course she wore the historic black pearl ring.

"I came here to see Mallory, as I always call the dear boy, and to explain to him that I was not responsible for what has been published, but that they had originated in the brain of a young cocaine fiend at the Palace hotel who had caused me a great deal of trouble.

SO MUCH HAS BEEN SAID about Mr. Bradbury lavishing jewels on me that it is time my story was told. Mr. Bradbury certainly gave me SOUVENIRS OF OUR LOVE, but the world does not know that I lavished jewels on him, and that he wears a magnificent pair of gold chain suspenders studded with rubies and diamonds.

"I have paid my own bills at the Palace and elsewhere, and not only that, but I have paid Mr. Bradbury's bills also at the Palace for meals. I have never received any money from him, but on the contrary, I have loaned him money, and there are people here in the trouble with Mr. Bradbury was—and one of my pet names for him was "Trouble"—that he was constantly hectoring that he was the lover of the Viscountess de Henroit. I have bundles of telegrams from him, in which he signs himself "Trouble," and called me his own sweetheart, the sweetest one on earth."

I am satisfied he was deeply in love with me, but his relatives could too easily persuade him. His guardian, I understand, has been rather severe on him, and as a consequence of the influence brought to bear on him, he has chosen to deny our engagement."

"I was never told to leave the Palace hotel. All of my things are in my apartments there now, and I shall return there for a few days and then leave for Mexico. I first met Mr. Bradbury in Paris, and he could testify to my social standing there. I brought letters to her people in San Francisco, and as I have money of my own, there is no earthly reason why I should resort to such a vile business as blackmail. I considered that Mr. Bradbury made a distinction by coming to my room after midnight, at the Hollenbeck but I was not to blame for it. I was very fond of John then, and my life has been blasted by what has been said. I still insist that

A CASE OF ROBBERY.

Thieves Who Took Stereotype Metal from the Herald's Press Room. The Herald office appears to be unfortunate in being located near the central police station for it is the particular object of thieves, who probably feel there is safety in the contiguity to the neighboring headquarters of detectives.

THE KATER'S HOMEWARD JOURNEY. Rome, May 1.—The German emperor and empress began their homeward journey this evening.

AMUSEMENTS

LOS ANGELES THEATRE.—The Prodigal Father, which will be given its initial performance in this city on Thursday evening, is spoken of as a very pleasing entertainment. The company is composed of some of the best known people, such as George Danham, Blanche Chapman and many others of equal note.

A large audience attended the concert of the Ideal Guitars and Banjo club last night. The programme was not too long and in several instances was of superior talent. The club was assisted by outside talent. As it was a tolerant audience the crudities in several of the selections were kindly received.

The selection, Love's Dream After the Ball, by Czibulka, rendered by Messrs. O. H. Boye and C. S. De Lano, was robbed of much of its beauty by an injudicious and loud rendition of the guitar accompaniment on the part of Mr. De Lano.

Professor De Lano's selection, a military galop, was given with as much spirit as is possible on a banjo. The other selections by the club were generally well played and were Valse La Trojani, Smith, Tambour Battant, Ohenet, and the Wayfarer, a waltz by Stewart. This latter was the poorest instrumental selection on the programme.

THE CHURCH OF THE UNITY.—The Unity club social tomorrow promises to be the most successful of the season. The musical and literary part of the entertainment will be of the best kind. Miss Naomi Alfre, the noted reader, will appear in two of her choice selections; the Late Quartette will be heard in some classical morceaux; Miss Cora Foy will read, and songs will be given by Miss Bernice Tolmes and Mrs. Nellie Morford. As this will be the closing entertainment of the Unity club course, the members are desirous of meeting all friends of the movement, and will give them a hearty welcome in their usual hospitable style.

Look Around and see the women who are using Pearline. It's easy to pick them out. They're brighter, fresher, more cheerful than the women who have spent twice as much time in the rub, rub, rub, of the old way. Why shouldn't they be? Washing with Pearline is easy.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled. If your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back.
