turn them over for decision to courts-martial. Thus common-law crimes, which would have the right of jury trial in the civil courts are turned over to the tender mercies of courts-martial and tried behind closed doors.

Then again, there is no certainty of speedy trial of accused persons in Russia. The record is replete with instances in which persons charged with crime have languished for five, eight and as many as twenty years before trial.

One feature of the treaty just confirmed by the United States senate is that an attempt against the life of the czar or any member of his family shall not be considered a political offense, and therefore the fugitive so charged shall be delivered up.

We should never forget that when we permit the subject of another nation to enter our country, the jurisdiction of our laws and our system of jurisprudence cover and protect him.

A public street is a piece of land continuously segregated from the reality of individuals and given over to the use of the general public in order to enable them to transact their business with the least possible wear and tear of shoe leather.

On the other hand, however, the effect of extradition with Russia would be to send back from the United States Russians not necessarily guilty to a country where many of the fundamental principles of civilized jurisprudence are disregarded, and where official authority and administrative license have usurped to a great extent the places of justice and law.

Now another building is being erected next to the city hall and a portion of the middle of the street is usurped for the purpose of brick dumps and mortar beds, obliging foot travelers to go as far out into the streets as at the Bradbury block.

We make this suggestion to the council because we are satisfied that the street superintendent is giving too much room to building contractors. No foot passenger should be asked to step off a sidewalk to facilitate the construction of any building less than three stories high. In English cities as part of the middle of the street can be appropriated at all and only the sidewalk in case of a four-story building. There the streets are made for the people, which is a correct principle.

The inspectors of the board of health found fifteen buildings in Chinatown that are in an indescribably filthy condition, and so permeated with the foulness of disease-breeding rottenness as to be a menace to the health of the whole city.

ABOUT HOLES IN THE GROUND

Mines and Mining in Southern California.

Considerable Development Going on in the Peninsula.

Activity in San Diego County Mines—Placer Digging on Old Baldy—A Sale at Pinesate—New Finds in the Argus District.

Reports from Lower California, says the San Diego Union, during the past few days indicate that the mining industry has taken on new life. The placers at Juarez, in which several San Diego men are interested, are attracting general attention throughout the northern part of the peninsula, and this from the fact that the gold there is of a superior quality as well as because of the extent of the diggings.

The Zaragoza gold mine, in the district of the same name, has turned out surprisingly well, and it is reported that the owners, Messrs. Corrales and Castro, are negotiating for the sale of the property to Mr. A. West of this city.

Edwards Bros. have begun sinking a new shaft on the Montezuma mine, at Alamo, leased from W. E. Howard of San Diego.

SENATOR STANFORD.

He Talks About the Chinese and Railways.

Senator Stanford was interviewed on Saturday's San Francisco Chronicle, the substance of which is as follows:

The senator's attention was called to the following paragraph printed in yesterday morning's Chronicle giving the proposed plan of proceeding:

Early tomorrow morning an unregistered Chinese will be arrested in New York. His case will be heard, and if the circuit judge orders that he be deported an appeal will be taken to the supreme court.

"I would like to know how they will do it," said Senator Stanford. "Congress has made no appropriation for paying the passage of these people back to China, and transportation companies are not going to do it for nothing. It is estimated that of the 130,000 Chinese in the United States, 70,000 of them are in California. It costs $600 a piece in fare to send them back from here. You see what a sum of money it will take."

"They can talk about deporting them but, as I said, the steamships will not do it for nothing. I know one steamship line, the one I am president of, the Occidental and Oriental company, that will not do it. There are a good many things to consider in this. I apprehend, too, that the Chinese Six companies has good talent advising it. The men in it know what they are doing."

Turning from this to subjects analogous to it, Senator Stanford said that this was a state of wonderful resources, and that there was room and work to do for all who were here, with a thousand industries lying dormant.

"In one year," said he, "these 80,000 agricultural laborers in California I speak of produced as a part of their labor, 12,000 tons of wheat, enough to make bread for 12,000,000 people."

He said the opportunities for making money were increasing instead of diminishing, and that with the immense amount of cheap material of all kinds, and with cheap power for removing them, we were entering such an area of progress as had never before been known.

The senator talked of Palo Alto university and what he hoped to accomplish. If it was to be like any other school, he said, there would have been no use in establishing it.

"I am here to build myself up," said the senator. "I find that this air on my farm is a little better than I have been able to find anywhere else, and here I will remain all the summer. Yes, in regard to that proposed deporting of the Chinese, it is just as well to consider the matter very closely, because it is a serious thing. The transportation itself is a very important question. It is only one of the many which must be faced."

The Vanderbilt District. The rich mineral resources of this county are beginning to count to the front. The new mining center known as Vanderbilt is said by the Needles Eye to be a wonderful discovery, and has more ore treasured up in its rocky hills than any other part of the glorious state of California, and the developing hand of capital is now working out to obtain a large percentage of it.
