DEVASTATED BY FLAMES.

A Terrible Conflagration at Fargo, N. D.

Fully One-Half of the Town Laid in Ashes.

The Financial Loss Estimated at $3,000,000.

Over Three Thousand People Homeless. The Fire Still Raging at Midnight. Fatal Flames in San Francisco.

By the Associated Press. MINNEAPOLIS, June 7.—A special to the Tribune from Moorhead says: Half of Fargo is in ashes. Fire started at 3 o'clock in a restaurant on Second street, a strong wind blowing. At 4 o'clock the fire had reached the Great Northern tracks, ten blocks north, gutting the entire district three blocks east to Broadway. A strong fight was made to prevent the flames crossing to the west side of Broadway, but by 4 o'clock they had crossed in several places. The telegraph wires were all burned so it is impossible to reach Grand Forks or Hillsboro to ask for help. Probably 2000 people are homeless. The fire has just crossed the river to the Moorhead side at the Fargo roller mills, which will be burned. Among the principal firms already burned are: Herzan, dry goods; Crane's restaurant; Magill, farm machinery; Northern Pacific elevator buildings; Western Union telegraph office; Morton, real estate; Red River Valley National bank; Daily Forum; Merchants' State bank; opera house; Tyler, real estate; the plants of McCormick and Walter A. Wood; the Minnesota Chief; the John Deering implement warehouse; Cole's livery; Grand hotel; Fleming's drug store; Veder & Lewis' grocery; Christian's drug store; Sheridan hotel; Appel Brothers; Minneapolis Dry Goods company; Logan's studio; American iron works; Continental house; Van Brunt's implement warehouse. A strong wind made the fire travel so quickly that hardly anything was saved. The flames went through brick buildings as easily as wadded paper. The loss will be over $1,000,000 as practically the whole business district of the city is gutted already. THE FIRE STILL BURNING. At 10 o'clock tonight the fire is still burning in a couple dozen places. The wind has changed to the north and is driving the flames back on the burned district. A block in the middle of the city from Robert street and Front street south, four blocks wide and ten blocks long is a blackened plain of ashes with not a dozen buildings standing. A fierce south wind drove the flames like a prairie fire. Brick buildings seemed to melt away into heaps of crumbling sand, and it was impossible to force enough water through the mains to fight the fire. A conservative estimate of the loss at 10 o'clock is $3,000,000, with not to exceed one quarter insurance. There is plenty of help now, Grand Forks, Wabpeten and Casselton having sent hose companies. THREE THOUSAND PEOPLE HOMELESS. Over 3000 people are tonight homeless, and it is impossible to verify the reports of accidents. James F. Lynn, the 8-year-old son of a former alderman, is reported burnt; also three children. Photographer Gilbert and an unknown man were shut off from the third story of the Chapin block, while trying to save some property. Practically only one hotel is left in town. The fire burnt all around it, but so far it has been saved. Only one restaurant is left in town. The Moorhead hotel is already full. A large number of people will sleep in the court house and school houses on the south side. President Hill wired to open the Grand Pacific hotel at Moorhead. The Tremont. Only two grocery stores are left in town. HOW THE FIRE STARTED. The fire was started by hot ashes from the Gem restaurant thrown out behind, igniting some loose papers back of Hoseman's dry goods store. Somebody left the front door open and inside of two minutes the wind drove the flames through the buildings and out of the roof. In the next 15 minutes the flames ran two blocks west taking brick buildings and all, then jumped across the street to McGillis' big machinery warehouse. North and east of this for two blocks each way are big machinery depots, mostly two story wooden buildings, and at this time of year filled to the roof with a year's supply of farm machinery for North Dakota. First on one roof and then on another tongues of flame broke out, as the swirling fire flakes settled on the shingles. In one of half an hour the whole space of four blocks was a whirling flame, the property consumed being valued at $1,250,000. The only machinery houses saved are Walter A. Wood's and the Monitor press mill. THE FIREMEN POWERLESS. The firemen tried to confine the flames to the south of Northern Pacific avenue, but failed. The opera house block was soon burned, while the Grand hotel was burning to the east. The flames shot over Front street, burning bars and then the Fargo Forum office. The printers had just time to lock the forms while the office forces kept back the flames. It had been expected that the three-story brick building of the Red River National bank would arrest the flames, but it went in 15 minutes. The fire burned rapidly up the east side of Broadway, and was confined to that side of the street. It then went through the residence district north of the Great Northern track, making a clear track. Five blocks wide and 10 blocks long, while isolated fires could be seen over a mile north, caused by flying cinders. The wind shifted again and the flames caught the Minneapolis and

BURIED TREASURE.

A Rich Find in a Street of the City of Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 7.—A few days ago some old and rusty documents were found here by which it was learned that treasure, consisting of gold coin and jewelry, amounting in value to $2,000,000, is buried in a street in this city. Documents bearing official marks state that the wealth was secreted by order of Emperor Maximilian. The discovery of these documents produced a sensation, and preparations were at once made for unearthing the treasure. Only a small portion of the treasure was recovered, when work was temporarily interrupted by a flow of water into the cavity.

SLUGGED INTO SUBMISSION. Laborers Driven from Work by Riotous Strikers.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Hostilities began again this afternoon along the line of the drainage canal near Lemont. Strikers assembled in mobs and not only put to flight a number of men who had gone to work, but raised a new standard, $2 a day for 10 hours work now being their demand. There was no bloodshed today, but the strike seems likely now to assume serious proportions. Every man found at work by the strikers today was forced out, and at one or two points, where the men evinced reluctance to leave their job, they were promptly slugged into submission.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

Four Members of a Picnic Party Drowned. SPRING VALLEY, Minn., June 7.—A sad accident befell a picnic party who went for a day's outing at Kummer's Springs, about six miles northeast of here. Luther Turner, Otto Stevens and daughter and Mrs. Morrow, in Turner's carriage, went to the spring for water. They had driven alongside of the spring, which is very deep, and they tumbled, being frightened, jumped off the bank and upset all into the water, drowning them and the team.

A RIOT IN NICARAGUA.

THE REVOLUTIONIST ARMY ENTERS THE CAPITAL. A Clash Occurs Between the Soldiers and Police—A Number of Each Killed—Minister Baker Chooed.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, June 7.—In a clash between the police and revolutionist army which resulted in the capture of the city, a riot broke out in front of the police station, a shot was fired into the ranks. The soldiers were angry and fired into the policemen. Five policemen fell dead in the street. There was a cross-fire between the soldiers and police, and several soldiers were killed. Many spectators who were watching the parade of the army and cheering it on the way were killed and wounded. The police were suppressed, and the army resumed its march. When the head of the column was passing the United States legation, and the American minister was seen in front, General Zavala shouted: "Long live Minister Baker, the worthy representative of the American nation!" This sentiment was wildly cheered by the crowd. CONGRESSIONAL OPINION. Congressmen Poled on Three Financial Questions. NEW YORK, June 7.—The world presents the answer of the majority of the members of the next congress to these three questions: 1. Do you, with the present information, favor the repeal of the Sherman silver law? 2. Do you favor an income tax? 3. Do you favor the repeal of the state bank tax? To the first question 86 representatives say practically "Yes," while only 18 say "No." Of the rest many who qualify their answer show plainly that their inclinations favor repeal. On the income tax, 45 say squarely they favor it and 42 do not. On the state bank tax question opinion is almost as one-sided as in regard to the Sherman bill. Many regard it entirely, but 60 say they are positively against repealing the tax, while only 30 favor repeal. DIED IN THE DESERT. An Old Arizona Prospector's Death Reported. YUMA, Ariz., June 7.—John W. Baker, an old prospector from Clifton, Ariz., has just come in and brings the news that Conrad Davis, a well-known miner from the same place, had perished on the desert near Mile Springs, California, on the old stage road, 30 miles west of Ehrenberg. They started out May 28th to prospect, and separated on reaching a spot showing mineral. At night Davis did not return. Baker searched for him for five days, tracking him to the sand hills, where a sand storm had covered his tracks. They left here May 22d. Both are well-known miners on the coast. Quo Warranto Proceedings. CHICAGO, June 7.—Quo warranto proceedings were begun in the circuit court today by the attorney-general of the state against the Total Abstinence League association of America. The suit is to forfeit its charter on the ground of fraud and violation of law, the company having failed to set aside a part of the one-third assessments to create a reserve fund to guarantee the policies. FIRST TO ENTER THE FIELD

Gov. McKinley's Boom for the Presidency Begun.

He Will Be Re-nominated for Governor To-day.

An Early Start in the Presidential Campaign of '93.

Ohio Republicans Meet to Nominate a State Ticket—The Star Political Convention of the Year in Session.

By the Associated Press. COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Tomorrow's sun will see the beginning of a new race for the presidency. Before the Ohio Republican state convention adjourns for the day the first candidate will be fairly in the field. His name is William McKinley. Tonight, at least that is the outlook, barring an earthquake or some other equally unexpected, for it seems well understood that McKinley's renomination tomorrow, which promises to be by acclamation, is only the start of a campaign for the highest honor in the gift of the nation. Whatever opposition there may have been here has apparently failed to organize its forces against the famous governor, or with a chivalry worthy of the occasion has been unwilling to take such an ungracious part. The latter hypothesis finds some confirmation in the fact that no name, not even that of McKinley, wrought a greater whirlwind of applause in the convention today than that of McKinley's old-time rival, ex-Governor Foraker. The mention of Foraker's name created great enthusiasm, which found vent in the wildest cheering. It was a picturesque beginning of the star political convention of the year. RIVAL LEADERS ABSENT. The Republican state convention met here this afternoon for the purpose of nominating a state ticket and firing the first gun in the renewal of the fight after the national defeat. The rival leaders, Sherman and Foraker, were absent, though their friends were on the ground to see that no undue advantage was taken of the fact that their respective captains were not there. It seemed probable in advance of action that the present officers would be renominated. In Governor McKinley's case it was that if successful in the race it would make him the logical candidate for president in the next campaign. The temporary chairman, ex-Congressman Grover, on assuming his duties, delivered an extended address, chiefly devoted to the tariff, giving probably the keynote for the platform for McKinley as the presidential candidate. He dwelt on the wisdom of the McKinley bill, the number of articles which came in free under it, while at the same time protecting American industries, and declared if the Democrats attempted to pass an ad valorem tariff he would have to make a rate of 30 per cent all round, leaving nothing on the free list. He attributed the present hard times not so much to the silver problem as to the apprehension that the Democrats will carry out their pledge in regard to repealing the tariff. He declared that protection and reciprocity were the twin courses in American prosperity. A LETTER FROM JOHN SHERMAN. Senator Sherman, writing from Washington, said matters of business prevented his intended presence at the convention. He added that he had scrupulously abstained from any interference in the selection of candidates and the adoption of principles, believing this duty could be best performed by the delegates assembled in the convention. He said fortunately public opinion seems to have centered in favor of the renomination of the candidates selected two years ago, giving a special good word for Governor McKinley. The letter touches on desirable legislation for Ohio and concludes with a review of the achievements of the Republican party, declaring that he had engrafted its principles on the laws of the country to the latter's great advantage as a free and prosperous nation. In contrast with this he said the Democratic party and the Democrat president could not agree or formulate a single affirmative measure of public policy nor even agree on how and where to attack any measure of the Republican party. In view of this, it should be the pride and pleasure of the Ohio Republican party to take the lead in this coming election in reviving the enthusiasm of the old times. A Boy Horribly Injured. HANFORD, Cal., June 7.—The horses attached to a hay wagon ran away today and plunged upon the sidewalk in front of the Mills block, wrecking the wagon and fatally injuring an eight-year-old boy, a son of James Box, owner of the team. The boy was on the seat when the horses started, and he fell under the wreck of the wagon on the sidewalk and had his ribs broken and was nearly disemboweled. A Young Lady Suicides. SALINAS, Cal., June 7.—Iva McLean, aged 17, daughter of Dr. D. G. McLean, committed suicide this morning. She first attempted to take her life by taking laudanum and afterward sent a ball through her head with a revolver, death occurring in five hours. She wrote a letter to her father and one to a young man in this place, but their contents have not yet become known. For sunburn and tresses use only Perfecta Face Cream; sale and pure. ON A CARPET OF PANSIES.

Flowers Strewn in Infanta Eulalia's Path.

Today the Princess Will Visit the World's Fair.

An Elaborate Programme for Her Entertainment.

Mayor Harrison and the Exposition Officials Doing the Honors in Grand Style—Official Photographers in Trouble.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 7.—Princess Eulalia will make her first visit to the world's Columbian exposition tomorrow. She will be the guest of the exposition officials, who have prepared an elaborate programme for her entertainment. Everything is in order at the White city for her reception. Flags and banners and streamers of every nation will float from every conceivable pinnacle of the great buildings, and everything about the fair will take on a holiday appearance of a most decided kind. When the princess arrives at the Administration building, where she is to take breakfast, she will alight from her carriage on a carpet of pansies. These beautiful blossoms will be strewn along her pathway from the carriage to the breakfast room. After breakfast the party will proceed to Mrs. Palmer's room, where the committee on ceremonies of the board of lady managers will be in attendance to receive them. The Spanish section in the woman's building will then be visited and a general tour of the grounds made in carriages. Mayor Harrison this morning tendered a breakfast to the princess, several world's fair officials, and one or two private citizens. A reception to which a considerable number of private citizens was invited, followed. About 2 p. m., after the reception of the invited guests, the princess was driven back to the Palmer house, where she rested until evening. Then she went to dine at the home of Frederic Higginbotham, of the world's fair, not over 20 persons being present at the dinner. The princess remained at the Higginbotham mansion until 10 p. m. WORLD'S FAIR NOTES. In Trouble. CHICAGO, June 7.—A man named Arnold and Harlow Higginbotham, who secured a concession as the official and only photographers on the grounds at a salary of $2000 a year and 10 per cent on all work, which meant about $25,000, have succeeded by their officiousness in getting themselves tangled up with the council of administration, and will probably be disciplined. They went so far as to declare that the representatives of the press and photographers could not make sketches on the grounds, and yesterday one of these artists was arrested and taken before Arnold, who was constituted a magistrate for the occasion, and ritely ignored the permit issued to the artist by Director-General Davis. When information of this reached the director-general he was wroth, and the matter was referred to the council of administration, which will interview Arnold. This is not the most serious matter about these naughty photographers. The imperial German commissioners made complaint against them today to the effect that Arnold refused to return to them negatives of photographs taken at paintings in the German section of the fine arts gallery. The United States government signed an agreement that all negatives of photographs or other exhibits should be returned to the commissioners. This agreement, however, had no effect on Arnold, the matter was laid before the council of administration. The day was bright and beautiful in every way. The fair, in its fresh foliage and flowers with its buildings and decorations all twinkles more beautiful than it will at any later period during its existence. People began to swarm through the gates early, and by 10 o'clock it was estimated that 25,000 had been admitted, and it was believed the number for the day would be fully 100,000. THE DUKE OF VERAGUA. His Six Weeks in Chicago Were the Happiest of His Life. CHICAGO, June 7.—The duke of Veragua and party left this city late this evening for the Pennsylvania road for Columbus, O. The ducal party was escorted to the depot by mounted policemen and cavalrymen, and before leaving the hotel the ladies of the party were presented with bouquets. Before leaving the Auditorium, the duke said: "The six weeks I have spent in Chicago have been the happiest of my life. I can never forget the reception I have had at the hands of the people, and never can repay the debt I owe them." The ducal party will be received at Columbus tomorrow morning by a military and civil procession, including thousands of school children, and for two days will be the guests of the city. From there a trip will be made to Niagara Falls and then the party will return to New York. UNITED BREWERS. The Beer-Makers Meet in Chicago—In-teresting Reports. CHICAGO, June 7.—President Ellis Wainwright of the United States Brewers' association called the thirty-third annual convention to order here today. The delegates were welcomed by Ernest Fecker, secretary of the Chicago and Milwaukee Brewers' association, and President Wainwright replied for the
