HE STANDS BY THE GEARY ACT.

Judge Ross Orders Warrants Issued Under Its Provisions.

A Concise but Meaty Opinion Which Covers the Case.

He Has No Judicial Knowledge of the Incapacity of the Applicant to Pay the Cost of Deportation of the Chinese.

Some months ago, an application was made to United States Commissioner Van Dyke for a warrant for the arrest of a Chinese, the application being made by members of the trades union under the registration clause of the Geary law.

The United States commissioner refused to grant the warrant, and the matter was taken before Judge Ross.

Yesterday the judge delivered an opinion authorizing the issuance of warrants for the arrest of Chinamen under section 6 of the Geary law, the warrants to be granted when the complaints and verification are in due form.

The following opinion was the result of an application for a warrant for the arrest of Ah Wong. W. F. Linter made the application under section 6.

The decision is as follows: An application having been made to me as judge of the United States district court for the Southern district of California, based upon a complaint to which the applicant asks to be sworn, for the issuance of a warrant for the arrest of one Ah Wong, charged with a violation of the sixth section of the act of congress, entitled, "An act to prevent the coming of Chinese persons into the United States," approved May 5, 1892, and commonly known as the Geary act.

That section of that act was involved in the case of Yong Que Ting vs. United States, 159 U. S., 698, and its validity sustained by the supreme court; and there is also in force, as decided by the district court for this district on the 30th day of June, 1893, in the case of United States vs. Wong Dep Ken, section 13 of an act entitled "An act to prohibit the coming of Chinese laborers into the United States," approved September 13, 1888 (25 U. S. Stat., p. 476), a part of which section reads as follows:

"That any Chinese person, or person of Chinese descent, found unlawfully in the United States, or its territories, may be arrested upon a warrant issued upon a complaint, under oath, filed by any party on behalf of the United States, by any justice, judge or commissioner of any United States court, returnable before any justice, judge or commissioner of a United States court, or before any United States court, and when convicted upon a hearing, and found and adjudged to be unlawfully in the United States, or to remain in the United States, such person shall be removed from the United States to the country whence he came. But any Chinese person convicted before a commissioner of a United States court may, within 10 days from such conviction appeal to the judge of the district court for the district."

I, therefore, while much regretting that the application has been made to me, feel it my duty under my oath of office and in view of the obligations resting upon me to administer the laws of the United States in all cases properly brought before me, to award the warrant upon a verification of the complaint in the absence of any judicial knowledge that the department of the government charged with the execution of the provisions of the act of May 5, 1892, is not provided with the means to carry out its provisions. Were I so advised, I would not hesitate to refuse the warrant, for it is plain that the executive department of the government cannot execute the orders of the judges directing the deportation of Chinamen who failed to register pursuant to the provisions of section 6 of the act of May 5, 1892, unless congress gives it the money with which to send them away.

Without the necessary funds the executive department would be, naturally, powerless; and no judge, in my opinion, should order into custody for deportation any Chinaman whom he judicially knows cannot be deported by the executive department for want of the necessary means. Such a course would not only strongly tend to embarrass the administration, but it is pertinent to ask what, in that event, would become of such Chinamen? They could not be put in the penitentiary at hard labor, as provided by section 4 of the Geary act, for the reasons given in the recent opinion of the district court of this district in the case of United States vs. Wong Dep Ken, and any unreasonable detention of them by the officers would doubtless entitle them to discharge on a writ of habeas corpus. In the case last mentioned the defendant was found and adjudged to be unlawfully in the United States, and was therefore deported, and was deported by the executive department, and nothing to the contrary appearing, it is to be presumed that the same department is possessed of similar means for the deportation of any other Chinaman or Chinamen legally found and adjudged to be unlawfully in this country, and for that reason legally ordered to be deported. For these reasons, upon the proper verification of the complaint, the warrant for the arrest of the person complained of must be issued.

ROSS, District Judge.

TAKING GREAT CHANCES.
How Chances Are Taken by Los Angeles Business Men.

A week ago a firm in this city decided to sell off $10,000 worth of stock by reducing prices so low as to realize that amount within 10 days. The sale had only been going on seven days when that amount of cash was realized, as the public saw the benefit to be derived by ordering their clothes at once at Gordon Bros., tailors. The success of the sale is wonderful. They are enabled to clear out their over stock, even if they have to sell at a sacrifice. It will pay in the end, as each man that orders a pair of pantaloons or a suit gets entire satisfaction, no matter how low goods are sold, and they are sure to call again for their next clothes at Gordon Bros., 118 South Spring street.

THEIR BILL THROWN OUT.
Auditor Teale Rejects a Committee's Junketing Demands.

City Auditor Teale has respectfully declined to audit the demands of Messrs. Pepper, Trask and Patty, members of the board of education—otherwise known as the "junketing committee"—for their expenses in visiting the north to investigate heating and ventilating systems. The auditor returned the demands wholly on legal grounds, and will refuse to approve them.

It is understood that the board of education will pass the demands over the auditor's head at the meeting next Saturday evening.
