HUNDRED FATHOMS DEEP.

Twenty-eight Miners Find an Untimely Grave.

Buried Alive in the Very Bowels of the Earth.

There They Must Remain Till Gabriel Blows His Horn.

A Whole River of Water and Tons of Earth Cave in on the Unfortunate Men—Every Aneurism Escape Cut Off.

By the Associated Press. CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sept. 29.—The Mansfield mine, the only producer of Bessemer steel ore in Crystal Falls district, located six miles from here, caved in at 9 o'clock last night, burying 28 workmen and destroying $600,000 worth of property. The Mansfield working levels ran directly under the Michigan river and parallel with it for several hundred feet. The first level was 35 feet below the bottom of the river. The five lower levels ran parallel with the first, the bottom being 428 feet below the surface of the water. The five upper levels were stopped in the progress of the work, leaving only timbers and pillars of ore to support the mighty weight of the river and floors above. The accident is supposed to have been caused by the giving away of the timbers on the fifth level, allowing the above to follow, and at last the river to pour in upon the fated men.

Forty-eight men descended the shaft last night. Twenty escaped and 28 perished. The bodies will never be recovered. Most of the survivors were at work on the bottom level, which had not been stopped out, and consequently did not cave when the levels above fell. The men heard the crash of the cave and started for the ladder way. All but four on the level reached the surface before the torrent of water came down the shaft and cut off the avenue of escape.

Tony Buljeto, the skip-tender, was standing with Frank Rocko, the night boss, at the shaft on the fourth level. They heard the crash and realized what was coming. Rocko went into the drift to inform his men of the danger, and did not return. Buljeto came to the surface in the skip alone. Andrew Sullivan, another night boss, was on the sixth level at the time of the accident. He called his men to follow him quickly. All but four men on this level reached the ladderway in safety. As they ascended, however, they were nearly suffocated, so great was the air pressure caused by the water pouring down the shaft. They were able to breathe only at each landing place, and came to the surface more dead than alive.

Miner Inspector Roberts says his deputy has been employed in the mine and has given the work daily attention. He also says he visited the mine personally at required intervals and the required amount of timber had been placed in position by the company. "It is a clear demonstration," said he, "that the timbering system of mining cannot be employed in that sort of ground. The company has taken all the necessary precautions in the conduct of the work."

The last miners are: Samuel Peters, married; James Strong, married; W. H. Pierce, married; Frank Becker, Sam Johnson, Swan Johnson, Mike Harrington, Al Terrasani, Frank Johnson, Shelton Zodra, Peter Turcy, Nicolio Fontana, Charles Kohl, married; John Kostrom, Baz, Torusali, John Kirruppa, John Randsale, John Warner, Oscar Lundquist, Chiric Aranzolo, Antonio Stefano, August Colonna, O. Constanti, Vigile Sodra, Celesti Nazzi.

The Mansfield mine was developed about six years ago and worked continuously since. It is estimated that 2000 tons of ore were in sight when the accident occurred. Today it is a worthless pit, only marked by a small bay caused by the sinking from the natural bed of the Michigan river, by the cave.

The death of 28 men marked the end of the Mansfield mine, for unless the river is forced to seek another channel, this rich deposit of iron ore can never be worked again. Eight of the victims have families of children, fatherless and about half the remaining survived parents. What measures, if any, can be taken to rescue the bodies of the dead, has not yet been determined.

Sunk to Deep Water. VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Sept. 29.—The weather bureau official at Gayhead reports having sighted a large steam yacht ashore on the west end of Cattybunk island this afternoon, apparently bilged. A later report from Gayhead states that the yacht suddenly disappeared last night. She apparently sank in deep water.

A NATIVE OUTBREAK.

The Matabelles Raiding the Settlements in South Africa. CAPETOWN, Sept. 29.—The Matabelles are raiding in force 60 miles west of Fort Salisbury. A number of settlers have been killed and property rased. At all the forts all the available men are being armed, equipped and drilled for war. In addition to killing settlers, the Matabelles are said to be committing most atrocious acts toward women and children, and the indignation of the settlers is supposed to a terrible degree. The outlook is very serious.

THOSE WINE AWARDS.

CALIFORNIA AND ENGLAND WILL NOT ACCEPT THEM.

A London Wine Merchant Appointed to Examine and Report on the Comparative Excellence of the Vintages. CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—California and Great Britain have refused to abide by the decision of the judges of award on wine exhibited, so far as the comparative excellence of the vintages is concerned, and have appointed Charles F. Oldham, a London wine merchant, to examine and report here. He will take all the necessary notes here, but will not finish his report until he returns to London. Charles A. Watson, who has charge of the California exhibit, took this step with the approval of Governor Markham.

The weather was cloudy and cool today. There was no special feature at the world's fair today, but tomorrow, Irish day, will be made notable by parades, speech-making, etc. The total admissions today were 182,958, of which 151,387 were paid.

SETTLERS ALARMED.

Indians Getting Troublesome in Eastern Montana. HOT SPRINGS, S. D., Sept. 29.—Information has just been received here from Zeibach county to the effect that a party of four or five Indians, who were returning from a hunting expedition in Montana, stopped at Thomas Beverly's, near the Cheyenne river, while he was away, and ransacked the house in his wife's presence, frightening her. They were about to leave with their luggage, when Beverly returned. He pronounced upon an Indian and struck with a Winchester, probably injuring him seriously. The Indians left and afterwards gutted the store of the postmaster at Creston. Many bands of Indians are notified of from their reservation lately and these pillagers have aroused the fears of the settlers.

Distress Among Strikers.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Advices from all parts of the country indicate that the keenest distress exists among the striking coal miners and their families, and the further stoppage of many large mills has occurred owing to the lack of fuel. Several newspapers have begun subscriptions for the relief of the distressed miners.

American Interference at Rio de Janeiro.

American Goods and Persons Will Be Protected.

A Protest Against Further Bombardment of the City.

Many Non-Combatants Killed and Much Property Destroyed—Commander Picking's Prisoner—Several Rebel Victories.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 29.—A private dispatch received here from Rio de Janeiro by a prominent firm engaged heavily in Brazilian trade gives the following important information: The American minister yesterday instructed the commander of the United States steamer Charleston to protect American goods in barges in the bay from seizure by the revolting squadron. He also telegraphed the government at Washington, advising the United States to vigorously protest against the further bombardment of Rio de Janeiro. Many non-combatants have been killed and much property destroyed by the repeated firing on the city. The United States government has instructed Minister Thompson to make every possible effort to protect American persons and property, and that all the moral force of the government should be exerted to prevent further destruction and bloodshed.

AN AMERICAN PRISONER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Commander Picking of the United States cruiser Charleston, at Rio de Janeiro, telegraphed the navy department today, regarding the arrest of a man named Boynton, supposed to be an American, by an English man-of-war. Boynton, who was commanding a tugboat in the harbor at Rio, was illegally flying the flag of Great Britain. Upon arresting him, the commander of the English warship turned him over to Commander Picking. The latter searched the tug and found a huge torpedo, which it is supposed was intended to be used against the rebels. Commander Picking asked Secretary Herbert what he should do with the offender. The secretary replied: "Hold the man until further orders."

SANTA CATHARINA CAPTURED.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—It is announced that the fortified island of Santa Catharina, Brazil, has surrendered to the rebels. The surrender of Santa Catharina is looked upon as an important victory for the rebels, as it is contiguous to Rio Grande do Sul, which is now seriously threatened. The rebel squadron, which went south from Santos, after failing to effect a landing there, but leaving a war vessel to blockade that port, has been off the island of Santa Catharina for some time, and the surrender of D'Espetro, on its west coast, was announced but not believed, some days ago. The rebels are now said to be in full possession of the island which is well watered. It is capable of being made a most important harbor; and having a superb bay where the rebel ships can provision and refit, will serve as a base from which the rebels will direct inland operations, as the rebel commander intends to carry on the war on land, and gradually, if possible, gather together an army strong enough to meet President Peixoto's forces in a pitched battle. Peixoto is said to be greatly annoyed and alarmed at this fresh success upon the part of the rebels.

NOT THE RIGHT MAN.

AXEL SORESENSEN THOUGHT TO BE THE VICTIM OF A CONSPIRACY. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—It is quite thoroughly demonstrated that Axel Sorensen, the sailor whose name was on a valise found filled with dynamite, did not explode the bomb in front of Curtin's boarding house last Saturday night. The clerk at the hotel at which the valise was left says Sorensen is not the man who left it there, and it is thought his name was put on the valise as a trick to throw the police off the track of the real dynamite fiend. Although the chief of police is confident of Sorensen's innocence, he will be held to await further developments.

A Boy Burglar Sentenced.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 29.—A. G. Hartley, a boy burglar who has burglarized several places of business recently, was today sentenced by the superior court to one year in San Quentin.

IDAHO JUSTICE.

Two Highwaymen Punished for Robbing a Chinaman. Boise, Idaho, Sept. 29.—News comes from Mountain Home that a few days ago a Chinaman was held up by two men and robbed of $200. The highwaymen were recognized and arrested, their names being Clark and Shirley. Shirley was released for the reason that the victim could not identify him, owing to his being masked at the time of the robbery. Citizens then took hold of the matter. They took Shirley out and suspended him from a tree. After being well choked he was let down. He then disclosed where half of the money was. After being suspended again he said that of the other $100 he paid a lawyer $50 to defend him and the constable $20 to let his partner out of jail. The remainder was spent about town. The Chinaman was glad to recover half of his money. Clark and Shirley were invited to leave town.

A QUINTUPLE HANGING.

Five Negroes Executed on the Same Gallows at Mt. Vernon, Ga. Mr. VERNON, Ga., Sept. 29.—At noon today five negroes were hanged on the same scaffold at the same time, in public. A thousand people witnessed the execution. All the negroes were from the turpentine farms of North Carolina. Hiram Jacobs, Lucien Mannet and Hire Brownington paid the penalty for the murder of Alexander Peterson, a rich merchant, and robbing his safe. Last July, Gordon killed a 5-year-old colored girl. Strickland murdered another negro.

GOOD DETECTIVE WORK.

THE LYTLE CREEK CANON MYSTERY CLEARED UP.

The Decomposed Body Identified as the Remains of Frank Geary—Tom Cochrane Charged With Murdering Him.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 29.—[Special to the Herald.]—About three weeks ago the decomposed remains of a man were found in Lytle Creek canon by a party of surveyors. The coroner who was notified made a thorough investigation, but could not learn the dead man's identity or how he came to his death. Several days later a shotgun owned by Frank Geary, who owns a claim near Grapeland, was found about 300 feet from where the body was first viewed. A key in the dead man's pocket exactly fitted a peculiar lock on his cabin door. The officers believing the man was murdered, commenced to make a thorough investigation. E. F. Pourade, a deputy under Sheriff James P. Booth of this county, was detailed, and succeeded so far that tonight he landed Tom Cochrane in jail on the charge of murdering Frank Geary. Several articles known to have been in Geary's possession were found in the cabin of Cochrane, and the officer says he has a clear case against the prisoner. Cochrane seemed quite surprised when placed under arrest, and on his arrival at the county jail appeared very much excited. Mr. Pourade informed the Herald representative that there were several others residing near Cochrane in Lytle creek canon who are supposed to be implicated in the tragedy. They will be taken into custody before tomorrow, as they are all known to the authorities. Some splendid work has been done in clearing up the affair, as it looked a hopeless case from the beginning.

THE ACCIDENT THEORY.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The body of a man supposed to have been murdered, found in Lytle Creek canon a few days ago, proves to have been that of Frank Geary, of Grapeland. A key found on the body of the deceased fits his door, and his shotgun was found in the bushes near by. Every indication points to the fact that Geary was hunting on horseback in the woods; his horse becoming unmanageable, started to run. Geary's gun then caught in some bushes and was discharged, the charge penetrating his head. His horse then dashed to a precipice, and stopping suddenly, threw the body into a gulch, where it was found in a decomposed condition. The horse made its way home and was taken care of by neighbors.

ONLY ONE IMPEDIMENT.

A Compromise on the Repeal Bill Probable.

Cleveland the Only Obstacle in the Way.

Democratic Repeal Senators Have Given Up the Fight.

Senator Morgan Makes a Speech in Opposition to Repeat That Has the True Ring—Congressional Proceedings.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Democratic repeal senators have practically given up the idea that the Sherman law can be repealed unconditionally, and have after numerous conferences decided upon a compromise which they believe will end the long fight and secure the passage of a bill to relieve the present situation by the end of next week. Senator Gorman and other Democratic repeal senators are actively engaged in arranging the terms of compromise, and tonight it is believed they have succeeded. It involves concessions on both sides—repeal of the purchase clause, the coinage of a specified amount, two or two and a half millions per month until the total silver coinage is $700,000,000, then the coinage of all the bullion in the treasury, and the sale of gold bonds to increase the gold reserve to an amount which is deemed sufficient to insure the maintenance of gold and silver at a parity. When the proposition was submitted to Secretary Carlisle last night, he insisted upon the latter provision to the agreement. The general understanding tonight is that the silver Republican senators agree to the compromise. The only thing in the way of the programme now seems to be the president.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Senator Morgan Makes the Speech of the Session on Silver. WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—In the senate today Cameron of Pennsylvania presented the petition from Philadelphia manufacturers, asking legislation to retain the protective tariff and the integrity of silver as a money metal, heretofore sent in these despatches. He said the signature represented $75,000,000 capital and a yearly product of $150,000,000. The repeal bill was then taken up. Harris (Conn.) of Tennessee spoke against it. He declared that it practically meant a gold standard, as thereafter silver would only be used as fractional currency. He favored the coinage of all American silver, but hoped Sherman would join him in recommitting the Bland-Allison act and going back to that amount of coinage, if not more. Sherman said he believed the continued purchase of silver, either under the Bland-Allison act or the act of 1890 would eventually drive gold from circulation and bring about a gold standard. Free coinage would have the same result, so he favored the abandonment of the system.

Continuing, Harris quoted from a speech by Voorhees last February, in which he said he would vote to take up the Sherman bill some day prior to that but for the fact that the passage would undoubtedly demoralize silver and leave it supported by no one word of legislation. Harris, continuing, said: "I think it an outrage for men like myself and others absolutely to sweep from under the silver currency every vestige of law. That is not what we meant at Chicago. At that time Voorhees said that, while he would vote for the repeal of the Sherman act, it was in connection with something better. What the Senator from Indiana (Voorhees) shall have passed the bill, as probably he will, he may find himself utterly powerless to enact any other law for the use of silver. This is a trap in which I do not intend to be caught."

Harris, in conclusion, said he would accept any reasonable compromise. Morgan of Alabama then addressed the senate. He began by discussing the probability of securing a treaty with Great Britain on the silver question which he said was very remote. A new international agreement in respect to monetary matters was impossible of execution and almost impossible of contemplation in a legal sense. In this critical period it would not do to offer such hopes as a solution of the trouble. Referring to the repeal bill, Morgan said: "Why this haste? Congress would do better to undertake to secure something within the view of constitutional power. We had better again declare our independence of Great Britain and maintain it, than to undertake, by treaty, to give Great Britain the right to legislate for our people in the way of government ought to legislate for its people."

Allison observed that the United States had four times attempted to secure an international agreement. "Yes," said Morgan, "and the senator is now back from a recent conference and it agreed that nothing could be done. After four of these disappointments we want independence. We must be independent of Great Britain. The repealer know there is need of haste. They fear the decision of the supreme court of the United States on a case pending before that court, case No. 15-149, entitled Geo. S. Morris, et al. vs. Charles Foster, secretary of the treasurer" (the silver brick case). After talking for two hours Morgan suddenly diverged from the legal argument that he had intended to make, and without limitation still existed and said: "No man, whatever his powers may be, can exonerate me from the discharge of my duty to grant to the people all their constitutional rights, nor can any man crowd me into silence when I choose to speak. This is an arena in which I have the honor to be

FATAL FIRES.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—Two men were burned to death in a fire here this morning; one was a white man named W. H. Foster.
