VIGILANT AND VALKYRIE.

The Cup Defender Wins the First Race.

She Beats the Britisher Home With Ease.

The Center-Boarder In Every Way the Best Sailer.

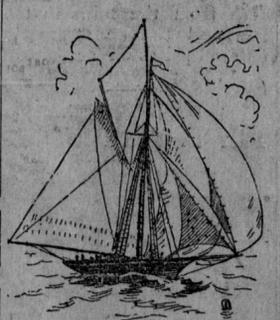

Superior Yachtmanship of the English Crew—It Was a Magnificent Contest From Start to Finish.

By the Associated Press. New York, Oct. 7.—Bowling along under a fair wind the American cup defender Vigilant crossed the line at the Sandy Hook lightship at 3:30 this afternoon, the winner in the first of the international races for the America's cup. The Valkyrie arrived home almost eight minutes later, and both were at once taken in tow by their respective tenders and hurried to the anchorage off Bay Ridge. It was a magnificent contest from a naval point of view, and demonstrated, for the day at least, the superiority of the center-boarder over the cutter, as well as the superior yachtmanship of the men who handled the English boat. There was only one thing lacking, and that was wind. Never more than a light wind prevailed, and sometimes it was scarcely more than a puff.

Vigilant.

When the committee in charge of the race decided that the course should begin with a lee run to east-northeast before a west-northwest wind, a signal was run up to announce the fact. This was at 11 a. m. The skippers in charge of the racers, having accepted the conditions of the weather and the judgment of the committee, began to skirish for a favorable position above the line. The preparatory gun was fired sharply at 11:15, and when the starting gun was touched off, there was only a question of about 150 feet between the two yachts, the Valkyrie having the lead. The wind was blowing at the rate of about seven miles an hour, and the cutter kept on increasing her lead. At the end of a mile she was a good two lengths ahead. The Valkyrie increased her lead at least one more length during the first two miles. From that point up to the distance of four and a half miles the Vigilant held her own. Then a change came. Suddenly the Vigilant caught a slant in wind, although the Valkyrie was not touched by it, and within 15 minutes she was fully a quarter of a mile in the lead. In another quarter of an hour the American boat not only held her lead, but increased it to a full mile before she sailed five miles. About this time the wind hauled away round to the south southwest, necessitating some changes in the sails. The Valkyrie remained at her mile distance and could not gain an inch. Half an hour later the wind shifted again, and once more the spinners were rigged. The Valkyrie could not improve her position, but on the contrary dropped off.

Valkyrie.

The Vigilant went on ahead and did not stop till the end of the outward journey. The American boat made the turn or the outer mark amid the greatest enthusiasm. The wind was now about west, and it became a question of long reach. It is on the reach that the cutter is supposed to be at her best. During the reach, however, with all things equal, the Vigilant actually gained on the cutter. For sunburn and freckles use only Perfecta Face Cream; safe and sure. For sale by A. E. off to leeward, while the centerboard was holding her head at the wind. The Valkyrie caught a light wind and picked up probably a quarter of a mile. Up to the end of the course there was no incident. The Vigilant crossed the line on the same tack, while Valkyrie, having sagged away to leeward, had to go about before she could cross. At 4:10 the two boats, with excruciatingly formed a crescent. Thousands of spectators braved immersion and clambered to every coigne of vantage. They showed joy in their countenances as the Vigilant crept steadily nearer the swinging lightship. Their joy burst into dived gracefully through the waves, and long before the screaming of the whistles told that the royal battle was ended a hundred thousand tongues proclaimed in true American record that as yet the queen of center-boarders and cutters had never had still the speed and strength to beat the name of the cup defender in reality.

The regatta committee of the New York Yacht club gave out the following table of figures: Start, actual time, Vigilant, 11:25:30; Valkyrie, 11:25:25. Turning the outer mark, Vigilant, 1:50:55; Valkyrie, 1:49:55. Finish, Vigilant, 3:30:47; Valkyrie, 3:35:23. Elapsed time, Vigilant, 4:05:27; Valkyrie, 4:13:23. Corrected time, Vigilant, 4:05:27; Valkyrie, 4:11:35. Thus the Vigilant won by 5 minutes and 43 seconds over the corrected and official time. It will be seen that the Valkyrie gained on the stretch home, as she was 8 minutes and 6 seconds behind when the outer mark was turned, and 7 minutes 30 seconds at the finish, in actual time.

MORE STORM VICTIMS.

ANOTHER DEVASTATED DISTRICT IN LOUISIANA.

A Fishing Settlement on Lake Borgne Wiped Out—Terrible Suffering Among the Survivors—Killed Pouring In.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 7.—From fishermen arriving in the city today it is learned that another section of the state suffered the same fate as the unfortunate Cheniere. It is the district known as the Louisiana marshes on Lake Borgne, near Bayou Muscalo. A number of fishermen banded together and erected a cluster of cabins convenient to the oyster beds. The cabins are now gone and the occupants unaccounted for with a few exceptions. Not a vestige of a house remains in the vicinity, and the shore for miles is littered with wreckage of lumber and other craft, while along the beach are to be seen bodies of sailors and others. Since Sunday night the survivors have suffered greatly from lack of food and clothing and shelter. Supplies are flowing in from all sides, and several boats have gone today and will go on Monday to the stricken scene with rations and raiment. Coroner Henry of Plaquemine parish, reached the city today and said it is impossible to picture the situation in his parish where the death list is long. Men, women and children are starving and hundreds of corpses lie on the river banks.

THEY REFUSE TO RESIGN.

Peixoto and His Officers Defy Admiral Mello.

The Rebel Chief's Ultimatum Disregarded.

Bombardment of Rio Resumed by the Insurgents.

Foreign Representatives Interfere to Save the City—Cable Compelled to Remove His Batteries From the Capital.

By the Associated Press. New York, Oct. 7.—The World's Buenos Ayres special says: Admiral Mello, commander-in-chief of the Brazilian revolutionary fleet, has given the members of the Peixoto government forty-eight hours in which to resign. Popular feeling against the government is strong in Rio de Janeiro. The diplomatic corps has threatened to land force if the government fails to protect life and property. Bombardment has been resumed, and it is reported there is great loss of life and property.

FURTHER CONFIRMATION.

The Herald's Montevideo special says: Dispatches from Rio Janeiro received today confirm the report sent yesterday that Admiral Mello ordered President Peixoto to withdraw his forces and abandon the city within 48 hours, or he would renew the bombardment. Peixoto, however, announced his intention of carrying on the fight until victorious or vanquished, and also expressed confidence in his ability to crush the insurgent squadron.

BATTERIES REMOVED.

RIO JANEIRO, Oct. 7.—Acting on the advice of the diplomatic corps, the government has ordered the removal of all batteries recently erected in the city. This, it is thought, will remove all the objections of the foreign admirals in regard to intervention in case the insurgent fleet resume a bombardment of the city. The report that the diplomatic corps informed President Peixoto that if he did not withdraw by Sunday, they would recognize the insurgents as belligerents, is entirely without foundation. The admiral's ultimatum was called Monday, is also contradicted absolutely.

COMMANDER PICKING'S REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—President Peixoto of Brazil has consented to dismount the guns in Rio de Janeiro, and Admiral de Mello, the leader of the insurgents, has agreed not to fire on the city as long as the guns remain dismounted. This word was received from Commander Picking, of the cruiser Charleston, der Picking, of the cruiser Charleston, now in Rio harbor, last night. This arrangement, it is believed, was brought about through the efforts of the foreign representatives at Rio, in order to prevent the destruction of the city.

THREAT OF RECOGNITION.

Buenos Ayres, Oct. 7.—It is reported that the diplomatic corps at Rio de Janeiro has informed President Peixoto that they would recognize the insurgents as belligerents unless he withdraws his forces from the Brazilian capital by Sunday.

A Rapefend Surrounded.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Oct. 7.—Several posse, numbering 1000 men, are searching for the negro ravisher of Miss Barr. Two men, one of them a brother of the young woman, have just ridden into town with the information that the negro is surrounded by a mob of several hundred men in the woods near here. The sheriff with a posse has started for the scene.

At midnight no one has returned from the scene, and it is not known whether the negro was caught during the evening. A large crowd of negroes assembled on the streets vowing vengeance in case the fugitive was lynched. They were dispersed by the police.

No Receiver Needed.

CROWN POINT, Ind., Oct. 7.—Judge Langdon at first refused to hear attorneys in Roby case today, but later consented. After hearing the arguments, however, he refused to make a decision. He did not think there was any necessity for a receiver for the Columbian Athletic club.

The Flower of Progress.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Gilbert & Sullivan's new opera, Utopia Limited or the Flower of Progress, was produced for the first time tonight at the Savoy theater and was cordially received. The music is pleasing and the dialogue is in Gilbert's best strain.

He Died Game.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—A special to the Republic from Tahlequah, I. T., says: Sam Mayer, a full-blood, was hanged here for the murder of James Christie, early in July. He died game and confessed his crime on the scaffold.

STOCKTON, Oct. 7.—Henrietta Fallier, the woman who was shot by her lover, Alford Rogers, died early this morning and was buried this morning.

FIRST WITH THE NEWS.

How the Associated Press Scoops Its Contemporaries.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—S. Levy Lawson, manager for America for the Reuter Telegraph company, in a dispatch to the Associated Press today in regard to the yacht race, says: It gives me great pleasure to be able to announce that we were so far ahead with the news of the yacht race Thursday, supplied to us by your association, that we practically had no competition in London, as the papers not served by us were able to get the bulletins off our boards before receiving any matter from their connection of the United Press. A cable from the other side just received tells me we are today beating all opposition, just as we did last Thursday, thanks to the perfect service which you have established. The cable announcement of the start today was transmitted from your office to our main office in London in 40 seconds. I congratulate you on the splendid record you have made by beating all opposition in connection with this race.

A Bank Swindler Caught.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The Chicago police are of the opinion that Stonewall J. De France, recently arrested in Detroit, is the man who swindled Lawyer Jacob Newman of some thousands of dollars last February. De France was arrested, charged with defrauding the Flour City national bank of Minneapolis and the St. Paul national bank over a year ago. The total amount said to have been obtained from the Minnesota banks is over $100,000.

DISABLED VOLUNTEERS.

WHAT UNCLE SAM IS DOING FOR THE VETERANS.

Statistics Taken from Gen. W. B. Franklin's Report on Soldiers' Homes. A Surprising Statement as to the Gold Cure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Chairman Outwaite of the committee on military affairs presented to the house this morning the report of the board of managers of the national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers. General W. B. Franklin, chairman of the board, presents the following statistics:

The average cost per member for the year ending June 30, 1892, was $143.75, and for 1893, $140.05. The increase in the average number present during the year 1892 was 265, and 1893, 465. There were 30 less deaths in 1893 than the previous year. The average age of those cared for in 1892 was 53.61 years, and in 1893, 59.80 years. The average number of members present in 1893 was 14,661; the whole number cared for, 23,460. The number in state homes was 5061, an increase of 171. The national government's payment to state homes was $682,391.75, the amount expended for homes was $266,94, aside from construction and repair.

The gold cure for drunkenness was tried in the homes and all branches with success, about 14,000(?) being reformed. It is pointed out that the depression in business has materially increased the number of inmates in the homes.

The amount appropriated for the year ending June 30, 1894, was $2,378,563.89. The board submits no estimates for the year 1895, but says the abnormal increase for the first three months of the current year warns the board that the appropriations for the present year will be insufficient for next year. The amount estimated for state and territorial homes is $575,000, the same as last year.

The report says: Every year the losses in membership by discharges and deaths are greater than the year previous, but each year the admissions more than make up these losses. No one can tell how long this state of things will continue, but there are at this time 1,000,000 persons living who, if they become unable to support themselves, will be entitled to admission. It is predicted that the membership will increase for some years to come.

[The above report makes it appear that a total of 23,468 inmates of the soldiers' homes with an average attendance for the year of only 14,661, the gold cure for drunkenness reformed 14,000, it seems incredible that so large a per cent of the old soldiers should have been addicted to the drink habit, but inquiry of the Associated Press confirms the figures. It is just possible, though, that an extra cipher got added to the number inadvertently, and that General Franklin intended to say in his report that 1400 instead of 14,000 veterans in the soldiers' homes were reformed by the gold cure.—Ed.]

WILL TELLER BOLT?

A Rumor That He Will Leave the Republican Party. DENVER, Oct. 7.—According to the Rocky Mountain News Judge A. W. Tucker, who has just returned from Washington, says Senator Teller said to him: "I don't know where my head may fall, but you have heard me raise my voice in behalf of the Republican party for the last time."

A Times dispatch from Washington denies that Teller made the statement, and quotes him as saying, if it became necessary for him to leave the Republican party he would make the announcement himself.

The Choctaw Defaulter.

TUSCUMMA, I. T., Oct. 7.—Treasurer McCurtin of the Choctaw nation today rendered his report to the council. The report shows that he is $129,000 short in his accounts. He also had in keeping $23,000, which could not be used for any other purpose unless paid out per capita. After rendering the report and turning the office over to Treasurer Wilson he drove to the station and took the north-bound train.

NIGHT SESSIONS ORDERED

Cleveland's Instructions to His Henchmen.

Carlisle Gives the Valiant Voorhees His Cue.

The Latter Apprises the Senate of the Programme.

A Continuous Session to Be Held Till the Repeal Bill is Disposed of. No Compromise Will Be Accepted.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Secretary Carlisle made a visit to the senate wing of the capitol this afternoon. His visit created a mild sensation, as the secretary had just come from a conference with the president, and it was naturally supposed that he had some important message. He spent two hours in conference with various Democratic senators, among others Voorhees and Harris.

The report was soon in circulation that he was sent as the president's representative to arrange the terms of an agreement with the opposing forces of the Democratic ranks in the senate, and there were senators ready to name the terms which he offered. Inquiry, however, developed the fact that they were merely dealing in surmises. The purpose of the secretary's visit seems to have been just the opposite of those attributed to him. Senator Vance told a representative of the Associated Press that Carlisle had gone to the capitol for the purpose of preventing a compromise, and Senator Voorhees virtually confirmed the statement.

After the conference with Carlisle, Voorhees said to an Associated Press representative that the administration forces had no compromise to suggest or ask, and they were still determined to make the fight on the old lines; that Wednesday night sessions would be begun; that he had assurances that there would be a quorum of the repeal senators on hand; that they would remain until the bill could be disposed of, and there would be no adjournment until it should be passed.

It would seem, therefore, if there were to be a compromise, it could not come until after the night session was tried. It is but fair to say there are very few repeal senators as sanguine of success in night sessions, or of the success of the bill in its present shape, as is Voorhees. A large majority of the senators assert that the bill cannot be passed except in a modified form, and others agree with Senator Manderson in the assertion that if no compromise is reached a recess of the senate until December will be necessary, which would virtually mean the abandonment of the bill.

Senator Carey, who has not so far identified himself with either side, said tonight the inevitable result of the night session experiment would be an agreement upon a compromise bill.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

Voorhees Gives Notice of the Holding of a Continuous Session.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—In the senate, after the transaction of routine business and the assignment of several resolutions offered the proper committees, the repeal bill was taken up. Voorhees was recognized and said:

"Mr. President—I desire to state this morning in the hearing of the senate and of the country that on Wednesday next, after the meeting of the senate, I shall ask it to continue in session until a vote is taken upon the pending measure, and I shall ask and expect the senators to maintain a quorum for the transaction of business until the end of this protracted and tedious session."

Roan (Dem.) of North Dakota then addressed the senate in favor of repeal, but said he should ask in connection with it some legislation recognizing silver as legal-tender money and for its continued coinage.

Allen (Rep.) of Nebraska then obtained the floor. He had a dozen senators were present. Allen made a long argument in favor of the free coinage of silver, taking the position that the reamortization of silver would result in the increment of value and reparation value which had been depreciated by legislation.

White asked how, if universal legislation had depreciated the value of silver, its value could be restored by the legislation of this country alone. Allen did not admit that there was depreciation in the value of silver in a comprehensive and broad sense. Instead there was merely a disparity between coined gold and silver bullion.

At 4 o'clock, without concluding his speech, Allen yielded and the senate adjourned.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Arguments for and Against the Tucker Election Bill.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—In the house today Everett of Massachusetts opened the debate on the election laws bill. He admitted that the laws were within the scope of the constitution, but the power should only be exercised under extreme pressure.

Grosvenor of Ohio followed in opposition, and made a vigorous assault on the Democratic party for trying to strike down national protection of the ballot.

Referring to the "An Act" appointment, Grosvenor said evidence of the most degraded condition to which politics had ever descended is at hand, when a respectable gentleman (referring to Horace White of New York) argues that a man who puts up for the corruption fund of a party should not be recognized by appointment to office, but should be entitled to have his money refunded. Oates of Alabama advocated the passage of the bill. Hepburn of Iowa, ex-solicitor of the
