

void the repeal bill, it could not pass the senate. Yet replied that if the senator read the bill and witnessed the proceedings under them, he ought to be able to answer the questions satisfactorily to himself.

Hill replied, if the rules of the senate prevent the passage of a bill which the majority desires to pass, the best thing is to amend the rules in the usual manner.

Yet retorted that he had heard that during the discussion of the force bill, the rules were not changed.

Hill said he would not do so. The doctrine that one-fifth of the senate could absolutely prevent legislation. The power to make rules implied the power to change them.

"Has it come to this," asked Hill in closing, "that the senate is powerless, under the rules, to do anything to change the rules so it can legislate hereafter? If so, it might as well disband."

The repeal bill was laid before the senate. Jones of Nevada took the floor and proceeded with his speech. At 3:45 he asked the indulgence of the senate, as he was not feeling well enough to finish today.

Peffer then took the floor. Palmer of Ohio got into a parliamentary squabble with Kyle and Allen. Palmer was complaining of the speeches made to consume time, and Kyle asked him to specify one speech.

Palmer replied: "I will answer by saying that I believe the senator from Nebraska—"

This was as far as he went, as Allen called him to order. Palmer denied that he was anything but an honest man and that his speech was an effort to save time.

After some colloquy, Cullum suggested that the matter be dropped. Teller objected, saying he was tired of incessant criticisms in the press and from other sources that the opponents of repeal were wasting time, and characterizing their forces as revolutionary.

The next time such a suggestion was made to him, he should call the author to book. Cullum's suggestion was then adopted and Peffer resumed his speech.

At 6 p. m. Peffer observed that the senate had been in session seven hours, and Peffer yielded to a motion to adjourn. Voorhees expressed the hope that the motion would be voted down, saying he would ask the senate to remain in session until 10 p. m. By a vote of 30 to 18 the senate refused to adjourn.

Within the next 30 minutes the attention of the chair was called three times to the fact that a quorum was not in the chamber, but on each roll call a quorum responded. On the next roll call, Kyle, who was present and not voting, should be recorded for the purpose of making a quorum. The point of order was overruled.

On the call at 6:40 the senate was without a quorum, but a moment later two senators appeared and Voorhees requested that further proceedings under the call be dispensed with.

Dubois called for the ayes and nays. On this roll call when pairs had to be respected no quorum voted, but during the call of the ayes and nays, the presence of a quorum when pairs did not count, a quorum always appeared. Thus for two hours the senate was closed.

When Voorhees found the predicament he was placed in, he attempted to withdraw his motion, upon which Dubois called for the ayes and nays, but this required unanimous consent, and this Teller refused to give.

Finally at 8:40 a voting quorum was obtained and Peffer continued his speech. At 10 o'clock Peffer without concluding his speech, yielded to Voorhees who asked the senate to adjourn. The motion was agreed to.

CRIMES AND MISDEAMORS

The Bloodiest Tragedy in the City's History.

An Injured Husband Murders His Unfaithful Spouse.

He Cuts Her Throat Then Blows Off His Own Head—A Horse Doctor's Spree Ended by a Fatal Dose of Morphine.

Special to the Herald.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 16.—The bloodiest tragedy that has occurred in this city for the past 12 years was enacted today. W. E. Wrisley killed his wife and then pulled the trigger of a shot gun and blew off his own head, shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon.

For some time Wrisley had suspected that his wife was not faithful to her marriage vows, and last Friday night he set a watch to catch her. He was rewarded by seeing a man enter the house. He secured the assistance of a policeman and went to the house. The officer knocked on the front door and informed the woman who he was, but she refused opening the door. The man attempted to escape, but was caught. The erring wife appeared before the police court next day, pleaded guilty to the charge of keeping a house of ill-fame and was fined $25, withheld as long as she behaved herself. The court excluded all the spectators from the room, and she made a statement in which she laid the blame at the door of her husband.

Wrisley, who was well liked by all who knew him, was considered an industrious and faithful husband, broad over the affair till he became desperate. From the way the affair was carried out he doubtless planned all the details and carried them out to the letter. His wife, whom he had not lived with since September 1st, had announced that she was going to San Francisco. Today, about 12:30, she went up town to get an expressman to move her trunk to the depot, and from the manner in which the killing was accomplished it appears that Wrisley went to the house where she lived, which is just in the rear of the Park hotel, at the corner of Market and Eighth streets. When she returned he struck her over the head with a cast-iron window weight and then cut her throat with a four-inch dirk knife, almost severing the head from the trunk. The knife was left sticking in her neck.

He rushed from the scene of the crime to his room in the Park hotel, where he had been sleeping. The proprietor noticed his hurry, but thought nothing of it till he heard the discharge of a gun. Upon investigation Wrisley was found lying on the floor dead.

The proprietor gave the alarm immediately. An officer soon arrived at the house and went to the cottage in the rear, found the body of Mrs. Wrisley lying on the bed, partly disrobed, with her throat cut. The blood had dripped through the bedding and formed a pool on the floor, and her breast, hands and arms were covered with clotted gore.

Returning to the room in which Wrisley lay, a more sickening sight presented itself. The whole right side of his head was blown away. The weapon, a single barreled, breech-loading shotgun, lay by his side. The body lay in a pool of blood, while the sides of the room and ceiling were spattered with blood and brains. The bed, dresser, window, stand and in fact everything in the room was covered with brains and small pieces of the skull.

In a bank book found on the suicide's person a communication was found written on the fly leaf, in which he said he had become the object of too much notoriety, and that he was disgraced and had concluded to end his life. He said his wife had informed him that she loved another, and that he could not live and see her enjoy the affections of another man. He also wrote a letter to his fraternal friends, the I. O. O. F. lodge of this city, in which he asked them to bury his body with all the reverence due him, and thanked them for all the kindness they had bestowed upon him. He hid his old friend, Charlie Wood, goodbye in a very affectionate manner on the same sheet of paper, and also asked the undertaker to see that he was buried in his casket uniform.

The following was doubtless written last: "She says she loves another; that is all; if I can't have her, no one else shall. Here goes. Everything is ready. Today we will die. Good-bye, everybody!" W. E. W. "P. S.—I do not wish to live longer. If we cannot live together in this world, perhaps we may in the next. I love her still, call me what they will."

In the same book, which is a First National bank book of Los Angeles, is a deposit for $400, recorded October 5th. The city marshal has telegraphed word of the affair to Mrs. Merrill, Mrs. Wrisley's mother, in San Francisco. Mr. Wrisley requested in a letter found on the stand that Mr. O. L. Leach of Northfield Farm, Mass., should be notified of his death.

The bodies were removed to George F. Ward's undertaking establishment, where an inquest was held. The jury returned a verdict of murder in the case of Mrs. Wrisley, at the hands of her husband. It decided that Wrisley had acted under a premeditated design. The suicide was under $300 bonds for arrest, as he was supposed to have set fire to his residence September 9th. The bodies will be buried tomorrow, thus ending the last chapter in their sad lives.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.

Fatal Termination of a Riverside Horse Doctor's Spree. RIVERSIDE, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—Dr. S. A. Cook, a veterinary surgeon, who lived in Riverside for the past five years, was found dead in the city jail. He was put off the 7:02 train Sunday evening in a dazed condition, having been on a protracted spree of a week at Santa Ana, where he was attending the races. The police escorted him to the jail, and upon taking his meals to him this morning he was found to be dead. A jury was summoned by the coroner which found that he came to his death by an overdose of morphine. He probably took the drug to quiet his nerves before leaving Santa Ana. The body will be buried tomorrow.

Cook was an eccentric person and was addicted to long debauches. He was well connected east, where his people live.

ANTI-TRUST AGITATORS.

An Association Organized to Combat Unlawful Combinations.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—The Anti-Trust association organized last June met today at the Palmer house to consider the by-laws proposed for its government by the committee. Governor Nelson of Minnesota opened the meeting. Edward Rosewater of Omaha was chosen chairman and a discussion of the report of the committee then began, continuing throughout the afternoon.

At the afternoon session the following officers were chosen: President, Francis B. Thurber of New York; vice-president, E. Rosewater of Omaha; treasurer, Graeme Stewart of Chicago; secretary, R. M. Easley of Chicago.

Executive and other committees were appointed to formulate national and state laws to break up trusts and combinations that increase the cost of products to the consumer. Messrs. Rosewater, Bay of New York and Tawney of Minnesota were appointed a committee to memorialize the president of the United States in behalf of this association to recommend his forthcoming annual message to the effect of a bureau of corporate supervision and control, to the end that fictitious or fraudulent capitalization by corporations engaged in any business coming within the provisions of the federal constitution, relating to their state incorporation, may be prohibited, said bureau to be in charge of a commissioner clothed with authority similar to that exercised by the comptroller of the currency over banks, and empowered by law to collect statistics relating to trusts, capitalization, liabilities and available assets of all such corporations; and that the president further recommend to congress the passage of suitable laws to prevent the combination of capital or corporate wealth and power for the purpose of limiting production, destroying competition, controlling the price of raw material or manufactured products.

MIDWINTER FAIR RATES.

Western Roads Will All Charge the Same Fare. CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—A proposition was submitted to the Western Passenger association lines today to use a $20 rate between Chicago and the Missouri river, $10 each way, in connection with the $55.50 rate from the Missouri river to the Pacific coast, making the round-trip rate $85.50 from Chicago to California for the midwinter fair.

The Burlington today put in effect a rate of $65.50 to the Pacific coast, with a traveling limit of 15 days, and the final return limit of April 15th. The rate will apply from the Missouri river. The rate to Southern California points is $69.50. The rate from Colorado common points to the Pacific coast will be $60 for the round trip.

When the cheap rates to the West's fair were recently made by the Western Passenger association, as the Rio Grande Western was not represented, Colorado and Utah points were exempted. The matter is now adjusted, and the same rates will apply from that territory as from all other points in the association territory.

Here Fitzsimmons issued a type-written challenge to Corbett.

FLASHES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

British Mediterranean Squadron at Taranto.

The Italians Give the Visitors a Warm Reception. BRITAIN'S MEDITERRANEAN SQUADRON ARRIVED HERE AT TARANTO, ITALY, ON OCTOBER 16. THE ITALIAN WARSHIP ITALY, CAPTAIN BELLINI, WAS MET BY THE VISITING WARSHIPS AND SALUTED BY THE FORTS AND REPLIED IN KIND. SALUTES WERE THEN EXCHANGED BETWEEN THE BRITISH ADMIRAL, SIR MICHAEL COLMEYER, AND ADMIRAL TURI OF THE ITALIAN VESSELS. THE BANKS OF THE CANAL AND EVERY POINT OF VANTAGE IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD WERE CROWDED WITH PEOPLE, WHO HEARTILY CHEERED THE BRITISH WAR VESSELS AS THEY PASSED IN.

The British officers landed from the warships this afternoon and proceeded to the Francesco Isabella club, where a reception was held in honor of the visiting sailors. An immense concourse of people lined the route leading from the city and harbor are illuminated this evening in the most elaborate manner. Bands are to be heard on all sides, and the national anthem of Great Britain sounds high and loud above all the other music at Taranto. The real fetes, however, do not begin until tomorrow.

The newspapers of Italy generally join in extending cordial greetings to the British fleet.

BOMBARDMENT AT RIO.

The City Again Shelled—The Rebels Losing Prestige. BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 16.—Advices from Rio de Janeiro are to the effect that the bombardment of the city by the insurgent vessels under command of Admiral Avello has been continued, and the damage done is extensive. The inhabitants are terror-stricken and are fleeing to places of security outside the city. President Peixoto is organizing a number of vessels to resist the insurgent war vessels.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 16.—The prestige of the rebels is apparently declining. Fort Santa Cruz has been firing upon the rebel ships and severely damaged the steamer Frank and Palis. Many rebels were killed and wounded.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The World's Montevideo dispatch says: The Brazilian government has agreed to withdraw all its guns from Morro, Castello, San Benito, Concelao, Liveramentos and Rio Vista on the assurance by the representatives of the foreign powers that they will not permit the bombardment of Rio. Niether is constantly bombarded. The insurgents have occupied Maua, the terminal station of the Petropolis railway and seized the small steamer Capra, to be used as a distribution boat among the vessels of the fleet. They then advanced to Enornimi but were repulsed by forces from the Estrella powder works.

MOORS AND SPANIARDS.

Fifteen Thousand Troops at Melilla to Fight the Arabs. MADRID, Oct. 16.—Advices from Melilla received late today say the Moors are strongly entrenched and making daring sallies against the Spaniards, whose position is now regarded as serious. The reinforcements which have arrived at Melilla are utterly inadequate and fully 15,000 men will be required in order to enable the Spaniards to take the offensive. Delay in the dispatch of a sufficient force to reinforce the troops now at Melilla is explained by the fact that the government here is desirous of awaiting the result of the negotiations in going on between Madrid and Tangier.

Needs of the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Judge Advocate-General Leamy, of the navy, in his annual report recommends legislation giving naval courts-martial and courts of inquiry power to summon civilian witnesses and punish such witnesses when they refuse to testify. Brown, seaman; Mrs. Retta Ellsworth, stewardess; and an unidentified man picked up six miles from here, is now on the way to this city. One of the steamer's life boats was picked up this morning. Searching parties are started along the shore to recover bodies and pick up whatever freight was washed ashore.

Captain Dodge's watch had stopped at 12:20, evidently the time the vessel went down. Boyson had the vessel's papers in his pockets. The bodies were badly pounded on the rocks.

The body of Walter Goodyear was also washed ashore. The bodies have all been recovered, three being as yet unidentified.

George Thurber, Frank Cahoon and George Mann put out in a rowboat from Bunkirk this afternoon in search of bodies, and all lost their lives. Their bodies were not recovered.

De Oro's friends thought before the match that he would have an easy time, but when Roberts won the loss and held 8 out of 15 in the first frame by faultless playing, it changed their minds. Roberts selected an English table, made his table brilliant, playing magnificently and cornering De Oro at every leave. The first four frames were played on an American table. Roberts scored 54 to the Cuban's 26. De Oro terrified the Englishman when he opened in the American game, making 14 balls on a run and Roberts finishing with the remaining one. The score for the evening is: De Oro, 152; Roberts, 132, completing the nineteenth frame.

A Telegraph Line Before Morse's.

Honor to the pioneers in the vast field of science! Mr. John Stone has published at the Chiswick Press in pamphlet form a very interesting memoir of Sir Francis Ronalds. Twenty years before Wheatstone and Cooke or Morse had patented their improvements in the telegraph, indeed while the first two were respectively lads of 12 and 14 years of age, Ronalds had sent messages over eight miles of overhead wire of his own construction and had laid and worked a serviceable underground line of telegraph of sufficient length to demonstrate the practicability of communication by telegraph between long distances.

Details of his overhead telegraph wires were published by him in 1833. Ronalds' residence at Marnham, where these experiments were carried out, is the house now and for long past occupied by Mr. William Morris, the poet, who has caused a tablet to be placed on the wall bearing the inscription, "The first electric telegraph, eight miles long, was constructed here in 1816 by Sir Francis Ronalds, F. R. S." etc. An autotype facsimile of a portrait of this father of electric communication accompanies the publication.—London Telegraph.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS GLEANINGS

A New Water Supply for Los Angeles.

Artesian Water to Be Brought From San Bernardino. IRRIGATION DELEGATES AT SAN DIEGO—THE FORMAL TRANSFER OF THE RAPID TRANSIT ROAD TO THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

By the Associated Press. SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 16.—Today a bond for a deed of the Peter Filanc farm to Frank C. Bolt, president of the San Gabriel National bank of Pasadena, was executed and filed for record with the county recorder. The consideration is $60,000. The property comprises 225 acres of land in the artesian water belt, about three miles southwest of this city. Bolt is said to represent a syndicate of Boston capitalists, whose purpose is to develop about 5000 inches of artesian water and convey it to Los Angeles to furnish that city with pure water for domestic purposes. Three hundred and twenty-five inches are now flowing on the place.

The Payne-Faige Mystery.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—The Examiner says Miss Annie Payne, about whose marriage to C. W. Faige, and her husband's death there is so much mystery, is at present visiting ations at Morgan Hill, near San Jose. On October 9th a notice of the marriage of Annie Payne of San Luis Obispo to C. W. Faige was published, and on October 12th there was a notice of Faige's death. The case excited considerable investigation showed that there had been no marriage license issued to Miss Payne and Faige, and that there was no record of Faige's death. Miss Payne still insists that the notices published were correct; that she married Faige and that he died three days later. She threatens to sue the newspapers for libel.

A Villain in the Filibuster.

Weeks before the royal wedding it was openly whispered that the Duke of York, a gallant sailor and a gentleman, had made a false step, had been forgotten of his princely and knightly duties and obligations, and had, in fact, been secretly married and involved himself in a mesalliance, repugnant to his sense of honor and illegal in the eyes of the well known statute law. That law is simple. None of our blood royal can legally contract marriage without the consent of the reigning sovereign. Morganatic marriages have been recognized as such, and such love marriages sanctity as attaches to these unions when faithfully adhered to. The world knows all about them and sympathizes with them. But what said
