CRANKS AT THEIR PRANKS.

A Crazy Man on the War Path in Gotham.

He Fatally Shoots a Building Superintendent.

The Police Have Difficulty in Effecting His Capture.

Edwin Gould Has an Unwelcome Visitor. Prendergast's Bullets Might Have Lodged in President Cleveland's Heart.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—At 3:30 this afternoon a crazy man, said to be named Thomas Bradley, shot and probably fatally wounded Frederick Matthies, superintendent of construction of the new Postal Telegraph building on Broadway. Bradley was locked up in the city hall police station last night as a suspicious character, but was released this morning. Workmen about the Postal building say he was loitering around all day, hiding behind piles of brick. In the afternoon he came out and said the police and Superintendent Matthies were trying to murder him for stealing $500. Soon after he stepped to Matthies and deliberately fired two shots into his stomach. An infuriated mob quickly gathered, and ten policemen and a difficult task to get the murderer out. The workmen in the building and other members of the mob wanted to lynch him. Bradley held them at bay behind a pile of cornice material, revolver in hand. The police fired a number of shots and ordered him to come out. Bradley finally came out on a run, and when a policeman seized him, fought like a wild cat. It required a severe clubbing to subdue him, and when the policeman finally got him out, he was a sorry-looking sight. He was taken to the station and the crowd dispersed.

AN UNWELCOME VISITOR.

Edwin Gould's First Startling Experience With a Crank.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Edwin Gould, second son of the late Jay Gould and co-heir of the latter's millions, had his first startling experience with a crank this afternoon. At 2 o'clock, as Gould was sitting in his private office, a shabbily dressed man entered, walked up to his desk and said:

"Give me $500 and give it to me in a paper bag."

Gould asked him to sit down until he got the money from the safe. The crank sat down, and Gould stepped to a side door and summoned Detective Clark, who quickly took the young man to police headquarters. Gould had been prepared for his visitor, who had called at noon today, and being told by a clerk that Gould was out, said he would return by 2 o'clock, when he wanted a tip on the market for $500. At police headquarters the crank said his name was Mongolia Andrews and that he was 33 years old. His object in going to Gould was to get back $500 which he lost in Rosedale, Kan., while working on a railroad in the Gould system. The police think he is insane. In a note book in his pocket was a list of the wealthy men of New York city, with figures next to the name of each one, indicating what Andrews thought they were worth.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 30.—Mongolia Andrews, who was arrested in New York today for demanding money from Edwin Gould, has been employed as a telegraph operator in this city for the time for the past 12 years. He has a wife and two children. He obtained a leave of absence two weeks ago, saying he wished to visit his old home in West Virginia. He has been regarded as eccentric by his associates, but was not thought to be insane.

PRENDERGAST'S BULLETS.

They Might Have Found Lodgment in the Heart of the President.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Prendergast's bullets, which took the life of Mayor Carter Harrison, might have found lodgment in the heart of a United States senator, or even the president of the United States. For fully two weeks before the murder of Chicago's mayor, the assassin had been directing messages through the mails to at least one United States senator, which indicated that his mind was intensely wrought up against President Cleveland. The burden of all these communications was the silver question. Senator Dubois of Idaho and others were recipients of the communications, which have been received almost daily since October 9th.

Writing on the 21st inst. he said: "Repeat is effectually beaten unless the closure is resorted to to stifle the voice of the people; and if this dishonorable, unconstitutional, unusual course is resorted to, the peace of the nation is risked, and no senator who votes for the closure can justify his course from a patriotic standpoint. I repeat that the repeal is defeated unless the closure is resorted to."

On the 24th he wrote: "I notice a wavering in the ranks of the silver enemies. Your side is now the strongest. If you are determined, firm and patient you can win. The best thing to do is to fight it out. Look out for artifices on the part of your opponents. Remember that the strongest and most intelligent leadership is on that part of the silverite side and Grover Cleveland is impotent. The cry of repeal is simply a whim of his. Is the United States going to yield to an irresponsible president's whim?"

On the 26th he wrote: "Hold the fort. The president was about to give up the fight, when certain persons like John Sherman and Benke Benedict of New York re-animating him. If you hold out, you are sure to win. They dare not attempt the closure. Hill of New York has no influence in the sen## ate, owing to his unsavory record in New York. The president has become tired and will give up in despair if you delay the vote as long as possible, by every means at your command."

He adds a postscript to this note, in which he says: "I have done and shall continue to do my duty."

The silver senators paid no attention to these screeds for the reason that since the silver fight began they have been receiving many of a similar nature from all parts of the country and from people apparently excited on both sides of the question. These have included encouraging letters as well as some telling them that if they did not cease their opposition to the repealing bill they would be shot down like dogs.

HARRISON'S SLAYER.

The Assassin as Yet Shows No Remorse for His Act.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Prendergast, Mayor Harrison's assassin, apparently slept soundly from midnight till 6 o'clock this morning, when the clanging of the cell bolts, moved by the turnkey, waked him. He sat moodily on his couch, refusing to talk, till breakfast was brought him, when he brightened up, ate it with apparent relish, then came to the front of the cell and listened with apparent interest to the gibes going about among the other prisoners. When a reporter for the Associated Press approached him on the subject of the assassination, he gave monosyllabic, dogged replies at first, but finally repeated his former assertions that his reason for the deed was that the mayor had deceived him and betrayed him, and he took that means of getting even, declaring that he was justified in so doing.

A special meeting of the members of the city council was held this morning, at which resolutions were passed calling a special memorial meeting; providing that the body be in state in the city hall from Tuesday evening until Wednesday morning, and inviting all the civic and military bodies in the city and the citizens generally to attend the funeral services.

Prendergast was indicted by the grand jury for murder. When told of the grand jury's action, the prisoner merely took a cigar out of his mouth and said: "Well!"

A MILITARY TRAGEDY.

CAPTAIN HEDBERG KILLED BY LIEUTENANT MANEY.

The Shooter Claims That the Killing Was Done in Self-Defense—The Dead Officer's Heavy Duty Record.

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 30.—Capt. Alfred Hedberg of Company I, Fifteenth infantry, stationed here, was shot and killed this afternoon by Lieutenant Maney, quartermaster of the same regiment. The tragedy occurred near the cavalry stables, and was witnessed by a number of cavalrymen, but only one man, Sergeant Copeland, heard the conversation that preceded it, and he has been ordered to keep absolute silence until official investigation. There was a hot dispute which ended by the lieutenant drawing a heavy Colt's revolver and shooting the captain in the groin. The wounded man was taken to the hospital where he died an hour afterwards. Lieutenant Maney gave himself up and was placed under arrest. The officer of the day, Cornish, held an examination at once, the result of which is not yet made public.

Col. R. E. Crofton, commandant of the post, says: "I believe the shooting was done in self-defense. Lieutenant Maney is not a man to resort to a act of that kind without sufficient grounds."

Captain Hedberg was 55 years old and a native of Sweden. He served as a recruiting officer during the war. Lieutenant Maney is 36 years old. He graduated at West Point.

A story current at the post is that Captain Hedberg threatened some time ago to kill Lieutenant Maney. It is rumored that the captain came home unexpectedly, recently, and discovered the lieutenant in a very compromising position. Captain Hedberg is alleged to have told brother officers that he would kill Lieutenant Maney on sight, that he had ruined his home.

At the examination Lieutenant Maney said: "The shooting was the result of trouble I had with Captain Hedberg a month ago over the rationing of his basement, when he threatened to shoot me. I expected Captain Hedberg to shoot me if I did not get him first, and consequently in self-defense I had to protect myself."

Captain Hedberg was tried by a general court-martial at Santa Fe, N. M., on August 8, 1873, on the charge of selling government property and converting the money to his own use. A second sensational charge against him was "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

A third specification was lying. The court found him guilty and sentenced him to be dismissed from the service, fined the money, and be confined one year in the penitentiary. The sentence was remitted by the president. During President Cleveland's first administration Captain Hedberg was reinstated as an officer.

UNDER A PALL OF GLOOM

Official Life of the World's Fair Ended.

It Did Not Go Out in a Blaze of Glory.

No Brilliant Ceremonies Marked the Conclusion.

Closing Fetes Cancelled on Account of Mayor Harrison's Tragic Death. Memorial Exercises Held in the White City.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The official life of the world's fair has ended. This evening was to have been one of dazzling brilliancy, but the awful, untimely death of Mayor Harrison changed all that. Appropriate action was taken at a memorial meeting in festival hall, as described below, in memory of Chicago's beloved chief magistrate, and all the ceremonies, except those mentioned, were abandoned.

The last day of the world's fair opened with beautiful weather, but a pall hung over the great exposition, and its myriad flags floated at half-staff, instead of the scene of dazzling splendor that was to have crowned a day of brilliancy in speech and song. Only the necessary lights were burned tonight, and the White city was shrouded in darkness at an earlier hour than since its opening. So with the tragic death of Mayor Harrison, the life and gaiety of the exposition went out forever. Instead of the festival of oratory and music, which was to have filled in the afternoon, memorial services were held in festival hall at which tributes were paid to the memory of Chicago's most characteristic citizen by world's fair officials, national and local, and by representatives of the assembled nations.

The great audience, some of whom had come from far distant states in order to assist at the rejoicings over the successful ending of the great exhibition, filling every seat and occupying every foot of standing room, was headed by President Palmer of the national commission presided.

Rev. Dr. Barrows delivered a prayer and read an address prepared by President Higginbotham, of the local directory, previous to the mayor's taking off. This was thought best, because it was so consonant with the spirit of the meeting.

After Mr. Higginbotham's speech, appropriate resolutions concerning the taking off of Mayor Harrison, and paying to his memory a tribute of respect and admiration, were adopted. Embossed copies will be sent to the family of Mr. Harrison.

Then President Thomas W. Palmer of the national commission announced that in view of the sad circumstances which brought the assembling together the closing of the fair would be marked only by a salute of cannon and the halting down of the flags. When that took place he declared, in obedience to the act of congress, the exposition would be officially closed.

The total paid attendance at the fair from the opening of the fair to the close has been 21,458,910. The total fee admissions, which include employees of all kinds, exhibitors, concessionaires, etc., has been 5,953,818.

Today's admissions were 242,575, of which 208,173 were paid.

EXPLOSION OF COAL GAS.

The Steam Collier San Mateo Badly Damaged at Sea.

VICTORIA, Oct. 30.—A tremendous explosion of coal gas occurred on the steam collier San Mateo last night while bound from Cornox for San Francisco. She carried 4200 tons of coal consigned to the Southern Pacific company. The explosion was in the forward hold and drove up the deck plates in the shape of an arch four feet above the deck level in the center. The plates were also badly shattered. After the explosion the steamer put in at Esquimault, where a survey will be held. Oscar Anderson, a sailor, was thrown overboard by the force of the explosion, but was saved. James Anderson, another sailor, was badly wounded in the hand. A similar accident happened to the steamer Barracuda a few months ago.

LIVED ON EGGS.

Two Marooned Sailors Rescued from a South Sea Island.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—The schooner Viking arrived tonight with the two sailors who were marooned on Clipperton island last May. Clipperton island is a tiny speck in the South Pacific, and is covered with a guano deposit. A company was organized to work the deposit, and the schooner Compeer left for the island with a force of men. The schooner was forced to return to San Francisco for supplies and machinery, but in order to hold the island, left two sailors there with provisions for three months. The island is a desolate spot, and the sailors had misgivings that the schooner would not be back in three months, so one of them sent a letter to a friend in the city when the Compeer sailed, telling of their fears of being deserted. The friend was asked to wait three months, and then if no vessel was sent to take them off, he was to make the letter public. Three months passed and as the guano company made no move to rescue the men, the letter was published in the newspapers. Finally, last August the schooner Viking was sent after the deserted sailors. It was known here that the men's provisions would be exhausted before the Viking could reach them, and there was much speculation as to their fate. The Viking found the men, Jensen and Hall, in good condition and brought them back to San Francisco. They had eked out their provisions by eating birds' eggs.

Wages Voluntarily Reduced.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—President Miller of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, has issued an order restoring all salaries affected by the 10 per cent reduction made about two months ago. The immense business done by the road in world's fair traffic and the generally improved business situation is responsible for the order.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

HON. T. P. O'CONNOR SUMS IT UP CONCISELY.

He Says John Redmond's Policy Is Sheer Insanity and Promises to Wreck the Home Rule Cause.

Copyright, 1893, by the Associated Press. LONDON, Oct. 30.—T. P. O'Connor, president of the Irish National League in Great Britain, was asked by the Associated Press to give his views on the Irish situation in general and particularly on the attitude of John Redmond and other extreme Parnellites. O'Connor made a lengthy reply in which he said he regrets Redmond's recent speeches, and for reasons not dictated by any hostility to any section following him. The attempt of the Parnellites to retain for the Irish full strength in the imperial parliament after home rule, was near landing the party in disaster. As it is, the retention of even 80 members forms one of the most effective weapons against home rule in the next campaign. O'Connor regards the urging of the demand for amnesty for political prisoners, not only perilous for the cause of home rule, but even more destructive to what little chance the unfortunate men have of ever getting released. The adoption of the Parnellites policy would spread the impression that home rule involves sympathy with dynamite methods. This, of course, would mean defeat. The fundamental point about home rule is that every practical Irish politician must consider methods and measures with which to get a British majority of votes for the Liberals at the next election. Looked at from this view the Redmond policy is insanity. Every vote given for the Liberal party will be for home rule, and every vote taken from the Liberals will be taken from home rule. Redmond asks the Liberal government to do everything the Liberals and Tories alike believe would lead to its defeat. He asks that the Irish question be dealt with. In other words he asks the Liberal ministry to go to the country without those British measures which form their one chance of gaining a majority. O'Connor thinks Redmond's policy is leading to the destruction of the home rule cause in our generation.

KRUG'S DEVALUATION.

Thirty-Three Indictments the Outgrowth of it at Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 30.—Thirty-three indictments against ex-Treasurer Adolph Krug and his associates were returned by the grand jury as true bills this afternoon. Krug is charged in thirteen indictments with using public money in manner not authorized by law, and in nine with larceny by embezzlement. In nine indictments Henry Fahrman, a rich broker, is made an accessory, which under the law of the state is the same as being principal. Fred W. Sander and L. M. Griffith are jointly indicted with him on one count each, and D. T. Denny, a well-known pioneer, upon two counts, and L. D. Ross, a real estate agent, on three counts. Fahrman repaid the money he borrowed from Krug and as bondsman put up $25,000 to make up the deficit, and Griffith and Sander also raised considerable sums to reimburse the city, hoping thereby to escape punishment. Krug's shortage was $125,000, but all made good to the city by his bondsmen and friends.

THE GOLDBUG'S TRIUMPH.

The Repeal Bill Passed by the Senate.

A Majority of Eleven Recorded for the Measure.

Intense Interest Taken in the Vote and Closing Speeches.

Morgan, Vest, Cockrell and Others Sound a Solemn Warning to the Democratic Party—The Vote in Detail.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—At 7:28 to night, by a vote of 43 to 32, the senate, after one of the most remarkable parliamentary battles of the generation, passed the bill unconditionally repealing the purchase clause of the Sherman silver law. The end was reached at the end of a continuous session of fourteen days, after sixty-one days of debate, during which five volumes of the Congressional Record were filled with speeches amounting in the aggregate to about 20,000 words.

A REGULAR FIELD DAY.

This has been a field day in the senate. No more interest has been manifested at any stage of the long struggle than was shown today, when the question at issue was practically decided and the victors were simply awaiting the final vote to register their triumph. Before 11 o'clock the galleries were black with people, and a number of foreign representatives looked down from the diplomatic gallery. The scene on the floor was impressive. Nearly every seat was occupied, while a hundred representatives from the lower house were ranged against the wall. The impressive stillness was broken only by the rise and fall of the voices of the speakers as they delivered the final notes of triumph or warning. The senate and galleries seemed awe-stricken. Everyone seemed to feel deeply that the result of this great parliamentary struggle was fraught with momentous importance to the country and that the policy about to be inaugurated was for weal or woe to 67,000,000 people.

OPENING INDICATIONS.

Voorhees announced Saturday that he would call for the final vote on the repeal bill at 2 p.m. today, but as it was known the bill was still open to amendment this morning, there was much speculation as to what propositions might be launched at the last moment by the silver men, who had nothing to lose and everything to gain by a sudden onslaught on the repeal force. The opening indications were not promising for a vote as early as Voorhees anticipated. Several western senators had expressed a desire to speak, and as the time to be consumed by each was rather indefinite, the final vote seemed more likely to be delayed till 4 or 5 o'clock this afternoon. There was a manifest determination on the part of the repeal men to force a vote as soon as possible, without violating senatorial courtesy.

SPEECH-MAKING BEGINS.

Roll call showed the presence of 82 members when consideration of the repeal bill was resumed.

Hunton (Dem.) of Virginia said he would vote for unconditional repeal, and would then be ready to join his friends in a fight for silver.

CAMERON'S SOLUTION.

Cameron (Rep.) of Pennsylvania said neither side had made a suggestion which, in his opinion, was broad enough. Therefore he had studiously avoided voting for or against the amendments offered. There could be but one solution. Free coinage of the American silver product was necessary to our prosperity. The senate could not with self-respect pass such a measure as this. It was argued in support of the bill that repeal would force Europe to join us in an agreement for the use of silver. That was cutting off the American market, for silver would throw 50,000,000 ounces per year on the European market in the hope of breaking down the market price. With a deficit of $7,000,000 per month in the treasury, we would do well if we could keep $50,000,000 gold in the treasury. We were wasting our silver, our gold and our credit. He would like to have this bill referred to a select committee, with instructions to report on further measures to safely carry into effect the legislation proposed some time ago by Morgan of Alabama.

MORGAN'S INVOLVING.

Morgan then addressed the senate. The situation in the senate seemed to him a very lamentable one, which he could speak of only with pain, and which he could contemplate only with serious apprehensions for the future welfare of the country.

Morgan said the passage of the bill would be an irretrievable error in the demands of the most insistent, overbearing corporations.

Morgan then read slowly and with great emphasis these sentences from Morgan's speech of Saturday:

"We were compelled to take the same offered by the senator from Ohio. He had the key of the situation. Yet have dictated terms to us."

"I thank Almighty God," said Morgan, "impressively, 'that the senator
