

United States government towards Hawaii. "In the first place," he said, "the notice which our government had of the change of government in the islands came in an official form, showing that a successful revolution had been effected there. That is as far backward as it is either necessary or proper for our government to go in tracing the history of the change. There is nothing which I have seen tending to show that citizens of the United States had anything to do in any forcible way in bringing about the change. Assuming this to be true, it is the business of the United States to treat the situation as it was found to exist when negotiations were begun by the provisional government, and the proper thing to do now is to acknowledge the existing government as the real government of the islands, and treat with its officials for such privileges as our government has always enjoyed in the harbors there, and recommend that the deposed queen, be properly cared for during her lifetime."

Peffer does not concur in the proposition to make the Hawaiian islands a part of the United States, but thinks we can obtain all the maritime advantages we need by treating with the present government upon condition that this government will protect the independence of the islands in the future. "I do not believe," he continued, "that any considerable portion of the people of the United States would favor the deposition of the present government and reinstatement of the old monarchy. When the revolution of a few years ago in Brazil was announced there was no hesitation upon the part of our government or any other government in giving early recognition of the change. Had our then existing administration undertaken to set aside the new government and reinstate the old, it would have been disgraced."

WAITING FOR THE NEWS. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Newspaper men, and in fact the general public, have for the past two days kept a keen watch seaward for the appearance of the Oceanic steamer Australia. She is due tomorrow from Honolulu, and will bring news of affairs at the islands. It was thought quite possible that she might arrive today. When the Australia brought news of the action of Minister Stevens in recognizing the provisional government, the vessel left the islands three days ahead of time. It is thought similar action might be taken in the present crisis.

THURSTON'S DISPATCH. VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 17.—The suggestion from Washington that Minister Thurston's dispatch might have been forwarded to Honolulu on the Canadian Australia steamer Warrimoo, having been transmitted by wire to Victoria in the hope of securing an advantage over the United States government, is not well founded. No message of Thurston's was handled here.

A Mysterious Malady. PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Nov. 17.—The British ship Hillston, 43 days from Shanghai, arrived today and was ordered temporarily quarantined. During the passage two seamen died from an unknown cause and were buried at sea, and on her arrival three seamen were reported seriously ill, suffering from some malady unknown to the health officers. The vessel had no health certificate from the American consul at Shanghai. Pending instructions from Washington, D. C., the vessel will remain in quarantine.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP.

Mitchell and Corbett to Fight Somewhere.

If Not in Florida Then in Some Foreign Country.

National League Baseball Magnates Hold a Business Session—The Roby Athletic Club in Hard Luck.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The New York sporting fraternity feel confident that there will be no interference on the part of the authorities of Florida with the contest between Corbett and Mitchell, January 25, 1894. They say if prevented at the Duval club, the "mill" will come off anyway in the vicinity of Jacksonville. Richard K. Fox sent a letter to Lord Londale in London today, stating that rather than see the Corbett and Mitchell fight fall through, he would give £600 towards a purse of £2000, providing Lord Londale and his friends make up the remainder of the purse. Fox also promised to give a trophy valued at £2500, representing the boxing championship of the world, and he would allow Lord Londale to arrange to bring off the contest either in England or on the continent, in case the contest cannot take place in the United States.

BASEBALL NOTES. National League Magnates Hold a Business Session. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—At the National League baseball magnates' meeting today it was agreed that the schedule for 1894 should be the same as in 1893. The president was authorized to appoint seven umpires only. The question of double umpires did not come up. It was resolved that the president should be the sole interpreter of the playing rules during the championship season. The resolution adopted last year, allowing each club to issue season tickets good in any city of the league was rescinded; also the resolution allowing each club to permit 5 per cent free admissions. Messrs. Soden, Brush and Byrne were appointed an emergency committee. This is the outcome of the Cleveland deal, in which Detroit has offered a large bonus to get that club and get in the league circuit. The duty of this committee is to receive all applications for franchises of the National League. Adjourned on February 26th, when the season schedule will be made up.

ROBY ATHLETIC CLUB. It Will Not Be Allowed to Contest Fugillite Contests. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 16.—T. E. Knotts, representing the Roby Athletic club, again attempted to incorporate the club today. The secretary of state refused to issue a charter because the capital stock was insufficient to carry on the operations proposed. The club proposes now to go ahead and give exhibitions anyway. Governor Matthews says flatly no prize fights will be tolerated.

Boss Kelly's Libel Suit. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—The libel suit against the Examiner brought by Martin Kelly, the ex-political boss, came to an end in Judge Slack's court, the jury taking only six minutes to discover that the fact of the accusation of stealing fire engines being published against Kelly did not constitute grounds for an action for libel against the newspaper. Kelly claimed $75,000 damages.

Going Out of Business. NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The World tomorrow will say: The Guion line, one of the most ancient companies of the Trans-Atlantic service, is about to end for all time its passenger service between Liverpool and New York. The reason is that the traffic is unprofitable. Its passenger ships, the Alaska and Arizona, will be sold.

Edwin Booth's Estate. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—The appraiser of Edwin Booth's estate, Dr. Van Schaick, has filed a report which gives the gross value of the estate left by the late Edwin Booth at $602,675. After deducting for debt, legacies, funeral expenses, etc., the balance is $462,335.

THE WIND BLEW GREAT GUNS.

A Hurricane Sweeps Over San Francisco.

Considerable Damage Done to Docks and Shipping.

Vessels Dragged Their Anchors and Drifted About the Bay at Random—No Loss of Life Reported.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—A gale of the hurricane order swept over this city last night, doing considerable damage on shore as well as along the water front. The Hawaiian building at the fair grounds, which was in course of construction, was demolished by the wind. A number of ships got adrift on the bay, and created consternation by drifting about among the other shipping. The tug Ethel and Marion was carried away from her moorings and drifted against a wharf used by fishermen, wrecking numbers of small boats and destroying the end of the wharf. Numbers of freight sheds along the front were blown down. The passenger landing at Sausalito was demolished. The wrecked hull of the City of New York which lies on the rocks near the Golden Gate stood the pounding of the sea and when morning came could still be seen with no apparent change in her position. The New York, however, is in comparatively smooth water, being under the shelter of a cliff, but it is feared the swell which is sure to follow the blow will place the wreck beyond the hope of rescue.

Steamers, tugs, ships, schooners, small boats and in fact all types of vessels caught the full force of the blow. There was no chance to get away from the docks and the craft thumped against the docks with force enough to start every structure. The immense shed at Jackson street was unroofed and totally wrecked at the end for a distance of 100 feet. A large quantity of freight was buried beneath the debris.

The steamer Concord, lying at the dock, had a large portion of her upper works destroyed. At the Washington street dock the wind blew frightfully, and the immense shed which covered this structure was badly battered. The steamer Humboldt lying at the south side had both of her masts badly damaged. Other slight damage was done.

At Stear street a shed is down and a lighter loaded with coke between Mission and Second streets sank with her load. The tugboat Ethel and Marion is badly wrecked. The ship Shenandoah had patches of her copper ripped off by the tug. The fishing steamer Farragut was unable to get out into the stream, and the forward part of her looks as if a bomb had exploded there. A float at Powell street did considerable damage, and the ship Drumrock narrowly escaped crashing into the Powell street dock.

Latest reports state that a schooner has gone ashore on the north side of Angel island. No information could be secured as to the name of the craft. The report was made by the steamer Snail.

THE GREAT COAL STRIKE ENDED.

A Magnificent Victory for the Miners.

Long-Standing Differences Settled by Arbitration.

Gladstone Much Pleased With the Result of the Conference—Great Rejoicing in the Mining Districts.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 17.—The conference between the coal mine owners and delegations from the miners' associations, with a view to settling the great strike, met with Lord Rosebery in the foreign office at 11 a. m. Lord Rosebery, in opening the conference, made an excellent speech, tending to pour oil on the waters.

After a long session the differences were adjusted this afternoon. The men will resume work at the old wages till February, when a board of reconciliation will be formed.

The board of conciliation consists of 14 coal miners and 14 coal mine owners. All the collieries are to begin work as far as practicable, immediately, and the men will not be discriminated against in returning to work. The board of conciliation is to have a neutral chairman with the decisive vote, and the board is to have power to determine wages after March.

Lord Rosebery telephoned Gladstone the favorable result of the conference. The premier is pleased. The news has given great satisfaction in all parts of the country, particularly among the labor leaders and organizations. There are scenes of rejoicing and jubilee in many towns over the settlement of the long struggle.

Burns, M. P. and labor leader, in an interview said the success of the government's intervention is most important, as it will encourage appeal to similar influences when strikes occur in the future. He said the result kills the contention of the employers that wages must follow fluctuations in prices. The miners, he said, had won a magnificent victory.

A NEW PARTY. Populists and Free Silver Men to Unite Forces. WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—There is a movement on foot for the Populists and free silver men to join forces for the next presidential campaign. To this end it is proposed that the Populists shall hold their organization in abeyance, together with their doctrines as to government ownership of railroads, the bond loan policy, and the issuing of paper money, while the silver men as a body have never embraced, and under some such name as the National party, make a united pull for the presidency and free silver in 1896. A rumor to this effect has reached here from Kansas, and it is said W. F. Rightmeyer of Topeka, who was instrumental in calling the Cincinnati conference in 1891, when the Populist party was formed, had taken the initiative in the movement for a

A rumor to this effect has reached here from Kansas, and it is said W. F. Rightmeyer of Topeka, who was instrumental in calling the Cincinnati conference in 1891, when the Populist party was formed, had taken the initiative in the movement for a reorganization of the party on lines which would command the allegiance of the silver men. Senator Peffer, when seen by an Associated Press reporter, admitted that the report was true, as outlined above. He said he was not in favor of making a new alignment until after the congressional elections next year, when the new party would get ready for the presidential election of 1896, and expressed the utmost confidence in its ability to carry the country. In the new organization the Populist party would have the same relation as the Free Soil and Abolitionist parties bore to the Republican party. In the new party the paramount question would be one of money. The question now is between the money power on a gold basis and the producing masses, advocating a gold, silver and paper basis. On that the people would divide in 1896, regardless of former party affiliations. This was the first step, and the Populists recognized it as good statesmanship to lay aside their other tenets for the time in order to get the help of the silver Democrats and Republicans in settling this great question on which they agreed. While fighting this battle many prejudices would be swept away, and when it was won there would be a solid mass of voters for the accomplishment of other needed reforms. He looked, he said, for success in 1896 and the election of a congress in 1900 which would put on the statute books the leading doctrines of the Populists of today. So far there had been no interchange of views with the silver men of either the old parties, and he did not favor any till after the next congressional election, though some Populists wanted reorganization in 1894.
