Minimum temperature, 53.

Edward, the 8-year-old son of Police Officer Ed Smith, died yesterday after a week's illness.

There will be a single tax meeting at Unity church tonight. Wm. S. Creighton, esq., is named for the opening address, and there will also be a general discussion on live questions.

Henry Matson, the popular mixologist at the Arcade depot, was busy all of Saturday and Sunday receiving the congratulations of friends on the arrival of his 11-pound baby girl on the former day.

A lunch will be spread Wednesday at the Trinity M. E. church for the regular delegates attending the Sunday school convention. Each city delegate is requested to bring enough in the lunch basket for two.

Quong Foo disturbed the peace in Chinatown yesterday and was arrested. He attempted to show his brother celestials that he was a great man from a pugilistic standpoint, but the police spoiled his little game.

Woodbury business college graduating exercises will be held at the Los Angeles theater, Monday evening, June 25th. A fine musical programme will be presented. Reserved seats on sale at the box office for 25 cents.

Frank Cooper was arrested yesterday at San Bernardino by Constable Dexter of Santa Monica and lodged in the county jail. He will be taken to Santa Monica to answer a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Charles Rice was admitted to the receiving hospital yesterday for treatment of a scalp wound, received, he said, from a man who hit him on the head with a hatchet by Police Surgeon Bryant, and the wayfarer went on his way rejoicing.

The tenth annual Sunday school convention will be held at Trinity M. E. church on tomorrow and Wednesday. The programme will commence at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon; there will also be an evening session. The work Wednesday will commence at 9 a. m., and the convention will adjourn in the afternoon. An interesting programme will be given.

The Ladies.
The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may use the California liquid laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions, makes it their favorite remedy. To get the true name and genuine article, look for the name of the California Fig Syrup Co., printed near the bottom of the package.

MEMORANDA.

Save money in hard times by reading and advertising in the classified columns of the HERALD, on the sixth page. If you want anything you can always get suited by watching the columns of this paper or spending a few cents in advertising. The list presented daily comprises: Help wanted, wanted situations, business chances, money to loan, houses to rent, houses wanted, city property for sale, country property for sale, personal notices, professional cards and want of all descriptions. The cost of advertising in these columns is but a trifle and the results, as many testify, are always satisfactory.

Go and see W. R. Burke & Co., 213 1/2 North Spring street, agents Mutual Fire and Broadway insurance companies of New York, and see the large list of Los Angeles policy holders, embracing leading merchants, who are getting the benefit of fire insurance at reduced rates. These companies have been doing business in California for years and are highly indorsed by representative citizens.

Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsay, 315 North Spring street, second floor, rooms 130, 131. Special attention given to obstetrical cases and all diseases of women and children. Electricity scientifically used. Consultation hours, 1 to 5. Telephone 1227.

The grandest and most gorgeous celebration of the Glorious Fourth will be held on Echo mountain and Mount Lowe. Ample accommodations for all comers. See posters for time card, extra trains and attractions.

Persons desiring to frame their portraits will find the best selection of frames at Dr. Babcock's art emporium, 107 North Main street. Artists will find it to their advantage to purchase their supplies there.

Go with the crowd to the Cosmopolitan dining hall, 219-221 West Second street, for turkey dinners and eastern lunch. Best of ice-cream served noon and evenings. All for 25 cents.

STRANGE NOISES ARE HEARD.

Uncanny Stories Told About a Notorious House.

Haunted By the Former Queen of the Demi-Monde.

The Superstition of the Inmates Aroused Almost to the Point of Abandoning the Place—People Have Fled in the Night.

A couple of years ago a woman who had resigned for many years in Los Angeles as a queen of the demi-monde, made her final exit from the world.

She died a peaceful death and left behind her a considerable property, vice in this instance seeming to have cut her loose from the disasters proverbially said to follow lives such as she had led.

There were not a few, the recipients of her bounty and kind heart, who followed her to her grave with feelings of genuine regret, and cast a mantle of charity over her frailty in the recollection of many a deed of charity in which she had invested a portion of her ill-gotten gains.

Her mansion de jure was very well known to most of the residents of the city of extraneous disputation had made it noted for a good many years. The details of rich and poor alike had contributed to swell the nest fortune which she left behind her and supply the rich furnishings of the establishment. Many are the salacious stories with which the habits of the place were wont to regale their friends and acquaintances.

These stories sometimes took on the most marvelous details of orgies that would put to blush the old revels of Bacchus and otherwise, in which credulous fools and reckless business men parted with large sums of money.

No doubt as years went by these stories grew as they passed from mouth to mouth, but there was more than a suspicion that the tales were not true in the place which permissible words would fail to describe.

Even before the death of the queen the stories told had invested the mansion with a weird and uncanny interest. Its reputation had extended up and down the Pacific coast until it was as well known in San Francisco as in Los Angeles.

After the death of the notorious woman the place was still run upon the old plan, and it was only a short time before her name was scarcely ever mentioned, and would no doubt have been forgotten by this time if it were not for some queer things which have happened and which have become the talk of the half-world and men about town as well.

It was not long after her death that it began to be said by some of the women who lived in the house that strange noises were heard in the still hours of the night. Those who heard them could not say what the noises were, but they did not like to talk about them.

The attempt to keep the uncanny subject quiet resulted, as such attempts usually do, in giving it more of a local habitation and a name, and it finally came to be said that the dead woman was more troubled after death than before; that she occasionally returned to the scene of her triumphs in an intangible shape to ease her conscience in the good style of various and sundry groans, calculated to make the flesh of the inmates of the house creep.

To these uncanny sounds it was, later still, announced that a distinct vibration of the house was felt several times, and that this has kept up until the present time. On one occasion there was a shaking of the house sufficient to frighten some of the male visitors of the place so that they incautiously fled in the early hours of the morning.

Col. Mazumah, Los Angeles, June 24.
Editors Herald.—Permit me to correct through the columns of your esteemed paper the error into which the learned judges of our supreme court seem to have fallen in regard to that mysterious personage, "Col. Mazumah." "Mazumah" is by no means a modern provincialism, "probably emanating from the daily press," but is simply the ancient Hebrew word for money and is daily used by our Jewish fellow-citizens in their homes and stores. Thus, a girl who has plenty of "mazumah" is considered a good catch; a customer who is slow in settling his account is politely requested to send some "mazumah." That our lexicographers, according to the L. J. of the S. C., "fail to mention such a word," only shows that the library of the supreme court does not contain a Hebrew-English dictionary. Yours truly,
A MAN WITHOUT "MAZUMAH."

SUNDAY BASEBALL.

Two interesting games played yesterday.
There were two games played yesterday at Athletic park; the first game was a very hotly contested, the Tufts-Lyons Arms Co. defeating the Boyle Heights Stars by a score of 6 to 5. Both teams put up a pretty fielding game.

The second game was a slugfest match for the Tufts-Lyons, shutting the Keatings out for eight innings, the Tufts-Lyons winning by a score of 16 to 3.

The National Bank of California is one of the few banks that successfully stood the shock of the late panic and maintained full coin payments throughout. The National Bank of California pays no interest on deposits in any form, offers no special inducements for business other than reliability when customers exercise their right to demand their money.

In the matter of loans it looks more to reliability than high rates of interest, and desires no loan except from good and reliable parties, and then exacts good security, believing that no bank is better or more reliable than its loans.
