Royal Salute Fired in Honor of Queen Victoria—The Trip Through Germany's Great Water Highway

Associated Press Special Wire.

BRUNSBUTTEL, June 20.—At 3:45 a. m., today the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, with Emperor William and the princes on board entered the western water gate of the Baltic and North sea canal in order to formally open it. The gate was magnificently decorated. The Hohenzollern passed through amid ringing cheers. Bands played the national anthem and crowds joined the yachts and the chorus. His majesty stood on the deck and bowed thanks with visible emotion. At 4 o'clock the Hohenzollern entered the narrow canal and the emperor and his party commenced the passage of the new waterway.

KIEL, June 20.—The weather today was magnificent and the greatest animation prevailed everywhere. At the earliest hours thousands were already en route to Holtensau and Lauenburg to await the arrival of the imperial yacht Hohenzollern. A special train conveying representatives of the press arrived from Hamburg at 6 a. m. Shipping in the harbor was interrupted by the arrival of the yacht, which was met with a salute of 21 guns. The emperor and his party were on board the yacht passing the various war vessels and acknowledged salutes by touching his hand to his hat. After the Hohenzollern had passed the Kaiser-Adler, the king of Saxony and the king of Wurtemberg and the various grand dukes of the empire, the imperial yacht entered the canal. The Hohenzollern passed here at 9 o'clock, followed twenty minutes later by the Kaiser-Adler, having on board the kings of Saxony and Wurtemberg, the regent of Bavaria, Prince Luitpold, and the grand duke of Baden. The passage of the two steamers was the occasion for loud and long cheers from the immense crowds.

RENDERBURG, June 20.—Early this morning the imperial yacht Hohenzollern was met by the Kaiser-Adler, the king of Saxony and the king of Wurtemberg, the regent of Bavaria, Prince Luitpold, and the grand duke of Baden. The passage of the two steamers was the occasion for loud and long cheers from the immense crowds.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Less than 500 people gathered in Metropolitan temple tonight to hear Rev. J. G. Gibson, pastor of Emanuel Baptist church, where the two girls, Minnie Williams and Blanche Lamont, were murdered last April, deliver a lecture bearing upon the awful crime and the lessons to be gained therefrom.

Incidentally he was supposed to give some personal views concerning the tragedies and the attendant circumstances following the crime.

The object of his lecture was to raise funds for the benefit of the church, which since the crimes were committed, has not been used for religious purposes by the congregation.

IS A BLOW AT ROSEBERY

Gladstone's Action Will Hurt the Young Premier

Withdrawal of His Pair in Parliament May Have Political Significance—The End Not Yet

LONDON, June 20.—There can be no possible evasion of the fact that the sensational and exclusive announcement in the Times that Mr. Gladstone has rendered his pair in parliament on the pending bill to disestablish the Church of Wales is the most staggering blow to the Rosebery government has ever received.

The liberal leaders are endeavoring to mitigate the effect, but it is unquestionably the most extraordinary of the many extraordinary acts in the great statesman's career. It promises to withdraw in extreme contumely his support from the government which inherited his own control of the party.

The truth is that Mr. Gladstone is even more a church man than a Liberal, and in old age he cannot follow his party in what must eventually result in the separation of church and state in England and then in Wales. He had pledged himself to the disestablishment of the Church of Wales, but he has now repented of it.

As he is on the steamship Tantalus Castle at Kiel, even his earnest friends have appeared to be surprised at his explanation from him. But the following statement has been made on his behalf: Since his retirement Mr. Gladstone has not voted in parliament since he has not approved, he would prefer not to pair in favor of them.

The first of these points, dealing with the Welsh bill, is the most important. Lord Twymouth informed the ministerial whips that Mr. Gladstone should believe in the disestablishment of the church in the course of the Unionist whips. Mr. Chamberlain heard of it and immediately made the fact known to the Welsh bill, and he is now in the hands of the Welsh bill, and the Times assumed that Mr. Gladstone withdrew his support from the government. The correspondent saw in the lobby of the house of commons Mr. Herbert Gladstone, who was informed of the withdrawal of his support from the government. He said that his withdrawal of his support from the government was in the interests of the Welsh bill, of which it has long been known that he does not approve. It does not indicate any weakness in the government, especially in regard to the Welsh bill, with which he is in entire sympathy.

Ancient History in Regard to the War of the Rebellion Retold by the Governor of Ohio

Associated Press Special Wire.

OTTAWA, Kas., June 20.—It is estimated that fully 10,000 people were here today besides those who live here and those who have tents on the Chautauqua grounds. At 10 o'clock Attorney-General Dawes addressed an audience of 8,000 people who packed the tabernacle. While Dawes was speaking Governor McKinley appeared on the platform, and a few minutes later Governor Morrill arrived. Ex-Governor George T. Anthony, ex-president of the day, took charge of the exercises which began with songs by the Modoc club.

Governor Morrill said that on behalf of the Grand Army of the Republic of Kansas he welcomed Ohio's governor, and in doing so his breast swelled with pride for Kansas sent to the war more soldiers in proportion to the population than any other state. He welcomed McKinley as governor of Ohio, as a distinguished citizen, and last and best as a true-hearted comrade who had marched side by side with heroes who had fought to preserve the Union.

When Governor McKinley arose and the two men grasped hands, while the multitude cheered and waved handkerchiefs, hats, umbrellas, canes and every available object of veneration, Governor McKinley said that no greeting was so sacred as a welcome that came from his old comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic. He thanked Governor Morrill from the bottom of his heart for the welcome so sincere and earnest. He remembered his services with Governor Morrill, in the national convention of 1880, and he remembered him most because he so faithfully stood by the flag and his comrades of the Grand Army.

A Gift Deal that Makes it Possible for the Boys at the State University to Acquire Oriental Languages

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—When Edward Tompkins died a quarter of a century ago he left $50,000 for the founding of a chair of oriental languages at the state university. The donation was in the shape of land which the regents were able to dispose of only recently. The land has been sold and now the regents are looking about for a man to fill the chair. They have decided upon John Fryer, an Englishman in the service of the emperor of China. Fryer has translated many books into Chinese for the emperor, and his attainments are highly appreciated at China. It is probable that Chinese will be one of the languages taught at the state university a short time hence.

In Five Years the Young Man Who is to Wear the Stripes of a Felon Dissipated a Princely Fortune

Associated Press Special Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Alonso J. Whitman, the young man who succeeded in spending $1,000,000 in five years, was today convicted of forgery. Whitman came here on March 13th of last year and while living at the Occidental hotel ran up several bills about town, amounting in all to about $1000. He was here only a brief time, but he spent his money freely and paid his bills in checks. These were found to be forged and Whitman was arrested and brought here for trial.

Whitman, in his own defense admitted that he had written some of the checks that he had circulated, signing them as well as writing them. Frank Dixon, whose name was signed to a check, was his father's old partner in the lumber business in Michigan, he said. He had loaned Dixon money years ago and his check for $500 had been sent by Dixon in payment of the debt. He declared that it was a bona fide check, signed by Dixon and it was no fault of his if the signer of the check did not have the money in the bank to meet it.

No evidence as to the forgery of the checks was presented, except that given by George O. Mitchell, who, as an expert, testified that he believed the Dixon check had been written by Whitman, judging from the handwriting of the latter as shown in numerous letters which were read in court. These letters from Whitman to Maxwell, who cashed the Dixon check and was the complaining witness, to Ellis Johnson and others, formed the main evidence against the prisoner. The attorneys for the prosecution held that the letters amounted practically to a confession of guilt.
