

MISS GRACE PINNEY'S FALL

Will Be a Long Siege, But All Hope for the Best

THE INVALID CONVALESCES

At Catalina Last Tuesday—A Narrow Escape From Death

In Her Home Now and Resting Quietly, Suffering Considerable Pain at Times, But Bearing It Bravely and Heroically

Miss Grace Pinney, the young girl who narrowly escaped with her life in the fall from the cliff last Tuesday at Catalina, was resting quietly in her home No. 1729 Los Angeles street, last evening, and Dr. Francis Haines, who is attending her, says she is the bravest girl he ever saw. Besides the compound fracture of her left leg, just above the knee, the knee itself was injured, the ankle twisted; there was a cut on the side of her head which required a couple of stitches, and her arms and body were badly bruised, but except for a slight scratch over one eye her face was not injured.

The doctor, however, says it will be necessary for her to lie on her back for three months, her nervous system has had a fearful shock, and it will be two weeks, at least, before they can know how serious her injuries are, or their full extent.

The invalid is only 16 years old, but is large for her age, has dark hair and eyes and is of slight build. She suffers considerable pain, especially now that the bones in her leg are beginning to knit; and her nervous condition is such that the front entrance to the house is guarded to prevent unnecessary intrusion; but although she is entirely unconscious, she neither cries nor means, and is bearing the suffering heroically.

Miss Grace and her sister, Ella, went to Catalina four weeks ago to visit an uncle, Mr. H. J. Pinney of Pasadena and his wife, and they occupied one of the tents near the hotel.

Last Tuesday morning the two young ladies started out with a jolly crowd for stroll, and Miss Grace, with a young man named Martin Kohlmeier, being more venturesome than the rest, decided to climb to the top of a high peak, not the one called Sugar Loaf, but a higher one of those in the chain of hills that form the islands, and just opposite Sugar Loaf. Up, up they climbed until suddenly, when very near the top, the girl lost her footing and with a scream of despair fell herself going, she knew not where nor when nor how she would stop.

For seventy-five feet she slid back and down until, striking a boulder on the side hill, she was thrown out into the air where she turned two summersaults and then dropped straight down for over a hundred feet and between two boulders into the water.

By fortunate chance the tide was high and had brought quantities of kelp in with it, and there was six feet of water covering the small rocks and beach that are quite bare in that spot when the tide is out and that is the only thing that saved the young heroine's life.

She was conscious when she struck the water, but can remember nothing from the time she first lost her footing until then, and has no idea when not how her leg was broken. There were a number of boat loads of rowing parties on the little bay, and they were all in sight of the most horrible accident. Those nearest, with all possible speed rowed over, calling to her to hold out till they got there. She went down twice, however, realized within her, felt herself going down for the third time, just as the boat reached her, and she was tenderly lifted in. Her uncle and aunt had also been out in the harbor fishing and were horrified witnesses. Their boat was made fast to the other and they towed it in to the shore, where the injured girl was placed on a mattress from the hotel and carried to her tent. Dr. Prittie of Pasadena set the broken limb, and the other physicians attended her during the day.

Miss Nason of Toronto, who has had seven years experience in surgical hospitals in that city, happened to be staying on the island; offered her services immediately, brought the young invalid to her home the following morning and is now nursing her. She was placed on Catalina Island for a ten days' outing. The Pasadena militiamen accompanied them.

The accident happened at 11 o'clock Tuesday. The homing pigeons were started immediately with a message for the girl's parents, but it did not reach them till 4:30 in the afternoon, too late for them to reach the invalid that night and they had an anxious vigil until the next morning.

Mr. Kohlmeier, the young escort, was

"Herbert, Herbert! Here's one of those horrid steam launches rounding the bend—how shall I steer?" "Try and hit it, mother, try and hit it!"

so prostrated by the shock that he is almost as seriously ill as is the young victim of the accident and several men had to climb the mountain and help him down, for his strength deserted him entirely.

HE COULDN'T DRIVE STRAIGHT

So His Wife Objected to Accompanying Him Home

'Late last night a buggy was driven up to the police station and after a moment's hesitation the driver took a sudden turn, nearly upsetting the vehicle, and then drove rapidly away. In a short time the rig again appeared and the driver inquired for the police clerk. The clerk responded to the call and was informed in a mixed up conversation, partly given by the driver and partly by his wife, who, with a small child, occupied the buggy with him, that they were on their way to the farm in San Fernando valley, but the wife was disinclined to trust her husband in driving on account of his tendency to make a curved track in the road. The gentleman's actions were such as to indicate that his wife's point of order was well taken. He expressed a willingness to stay in town over night if so desired, and drove away with the assurance that he was going to the Hollenbeck hotel. He evidently changed his mind very quickly, for he had not gone far when he was overtaken by his wife and his unwilling companion, and the turnout took a few more wild turns in the road, when the reins changed hands and the team whirled away up Broadway.

THREE PEOPLE DESTITUTE

Mrs. Albright and Two Children Apply for Assistance

The Husband Has Neglected to Provide and the Family Went to the Police Station to Escape Starvation

A very sad case of destitution was reported at the police station last night. A woman, accompanied by two small children, went to the clerk and asked if something could not be done to help them, as they were entirely destitute, having just been turned out of their room and had no money with which to get anything to eat or a place to sleep.

The trio were at once turned over to Captain Roberts and Humane Officer Hutchins, and to them the woman related her story. Her name is Mrs. Albright and her husband is Albert Albright. He is employed on the Laguna ranch as a hand. Every Saturday he was paid his wages, when he came to the family, who were living at the Ackerman house on East Fifth street. Very frequently he failed to appear for the reason that he was drunk. When intoxicated he was very abusive, and what was worse failed to provide his wife with the money to purchase the bare necessities of life. Recently he has stayed away from the room altogether, and as a result Mrs. Albright was compelled to run into debt for the rent and for food. She visited the Associated Charities and asked for aid. They offered to give her half of the money necessary to take her and the two children back to her brother in Nashville, Tenn., as she said that he would give them a home. As the woman was unable to get the first half she has been unable to accept this.

Several days ago the landlord at the Ackerman house told her that she would have to leave, as he and the two children for more than they were paying, and what was more he would keep her furniture unless the back rent was paid. Mrs. Albright sold the goods, and it took all of the proceeds to liquidate the debt.

Finally she saw starvation staring herself and the little ones in the face, so she made a last appeal to her husband. He manifested no dissatisfaction as to whether or not she went to the police station, and seemed indifferent as to what became of them, anyhow.

Nothing could be done for them last night beyond providing meals and beds, but this was all that the woman wanted at that time. She and the two babies were turned over to Jailer Siwicki, who opened up his big heart to the widest notch and at once established the three as star boarders. Captain Roberts also taking a hand in looking after their comfort.

One of the children is 2 years and 9 months old and the other 9 months. The case certainly seems worthy of assistance.

KENOSHA BANK FAILURE

'This Bank Closed This Monday' Startles the Community

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 24.—Financial circles were astonished this morning to notice a card that appeared in the window of the Dan Head & Co's. bank saying: "This bank closed until Monday."

Dan Head & Co., bankers, were incorporated with a capital stock of $750,000, and advertised that the stockholders were worth over $3,000,000. The bank was to have been reorganized July 1 with the late Senator W. S. Maxwell of Somers as president.

Last week the cashier, Urban J. Lottis, resigned on account of ill health. This caused the depositors, who were mostly farmers, to make a run on the bank. The bank expected assistance from the American Trust and Savings bank of Chicago which they failed to get. The deposits are said to have amounted to about $175,000.

Several years ago this land company had considerable trouble with ranchers in this section of the county.

GOOD ROADS PARLIAMENT

Called to Meet at Atlanta, Ga., in September

The Meeting Announced by the Secretary of Agriculture at Washington to Convene During the Exposition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The following statement was given out at the agricultural department today: The secretary of agriculture is charged by act of congress to collect and disseminate information concerning the public roads. To this end all legally authorized organizations, officials and private individuals who have given special attention to this subject are hereby notified that they are cordially invited by the legislature and the general assembly of the state of Georgia, the mayor and the council of the city of Atlanta, the authorities of the cotton states and international exposition, and the various local, commercial and military and social organizations, together with the national republican conference and the National League for good roads, to the assembling of a good roads parliament to be held in the hall of the house of representatives at Atlanta on the 17th, 18th and 19th of October, 1895. The invitation is urged on all state highway commissions, state and local road improvement associations and upon commercial bodies and boards of trade and transportation. Agricultural societies and farmers' organizations, universities, agricultural colleges and engineering schools, societies of civil engineers, humane societies, the League of American Wheelmen and carriage and bicycle builders' associations, and all other organizations and individuals especially concerned or experienced in the improvement of highways are likewise cordially solicited to be in attendance or representation at the meeting.

It has been suggested that delegates at large may be appointed by the governors of states and asked to participate and report since the organization of each commonwealth the results of the meeting.

Real progress in road improvement is observed by the department of agriculture since the organization of offices of the road inquiry. The importance of a general exchange of views among those concerned in road organization and construction in the United States cannot be overestimated.

The majority of the states of the union have recently adopted new systems of road construction under new methods. Many of them are actively engaged in road construction under new methods. A comparison of methods and results will be of the utmost value.

Official Offenders

SALT LAKE, Utah, Aug. 24.—A special to the Tribune from Cheyenne, Wyo., says Governor Richards today requested the authorities of Natrona county to arrest the members of the Princeton geodetic expedition if evidence could be secured that they had been killing big game. Professor Hatcher, R. Forsyth Little and S. B. Davis of the expedition, reached the railroad at Casper on their return trip yesterday from Yellowstone Park. The party came across the Wind river mountains and for several days had to wade through deep snow and drag their horses and camp outfit across snow filled gulches. They reported having killed many deer and antelope and these reports reaching the governor he at once ordered their arrest.

Railroad Rates Reduced

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—The Southern Pacific today announced another reduction in freight rates from San Luis Obispo county. On grain, mustard seed, clover and potatoes a rate of $2.25 per ton in carload lots has been set from the towns of San Luis Obispo, Edna, Grover, Oceana and Calender to San Francisco, Oakland wharf and San Jose. In less than carload lots the rate is $4 per ton. From Bromela, the carload rate is $2.25 and for less than carload lots $4.25, while from Guadalupe, the rate per ton for carloads is $3, for less $4.50.

Hid in a Waterfall

UKIAH, Aug. 24.—James McComb, a resident of Little River, narrowly escaped being burned to death yesterday in the forest fires four miles west of this city. He was traveling in a canyon, to a friend and was encircled by flames. He succeeded in reaching a small cascade and remained concealed by the fall of water until 9 o'clock this morning, when he made his escape. His horse was burned to death.

Accidentally Shot

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 24.—Charles Brocklesby, a boy about 18 years old, was shot through the hand at Goleta today while standing near a target. Some boys had been practicing with a 22-caliber rifle. Brocklesby stepped in range just as a marksman pulled the trigger, and a severe flesh wound was the result of the accident.

Important Decisions

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Attorney General Fitzgerald has just rendered several important decisions. The first concerns county funds, and the main point is that a county treasurer may not transfer from the general fund to the salary fund more money than is necessary to pay salaries as they fall due, any attempt at excessive transfers being of no effect as to access. The question of giving the city marshal of Redding $300 for the capture of a highwayman outside the city of Redding: The attorney-general has decided that the marshal is entitled to the reward, his duties being confined within the city limits of Redding, and when making an arrest outside of the city limits the marshal is acting on the same footing as a private citizen.

The Sugar Bounty Cases

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Controller of the Treasury Bowler today received the last of the briefs in the sugar bounty case and has begun work on his decision, which will probably be rendered in the course of a week. He will first, however, have rendered a decision on ex-Senator Manderson's motion to remand the whole matter to Secretary Hurdle, on the ground that the peculiar language of the act takes the disbursement of the appropriation out of the hands of the regular accounting officials of the treasury. There is a strong belief at the treasury department that Mr. Bowler will overrule Mr. Manderson's motion and will decide against the payment of the bounty.

Gun Trap Fatality

VOLCANO, Aug. 24.—This morning Mrs. Stemmer met with a sad death. Her son-in-law, G. Metz, who lives in Pioneer district, had set a gun trap in a tool house, having been frequently annoyed by having tools stolen. Mrs. Stemmer went to the house for some nails, and unaware of the trap having been set, was instantly killed. She was an old and highly respected resident.

The Sewer Caved In

ONTARIO, August 24.—A good deal of excitement was caused here this afternoon by a cave-in of part of the main sewer. A Mexican was crushed between the retaining timbers and was extricated with difficulty. It is not thought, however, that he seriously hurt. The contractors on the sewer work have exercised great care in protecting their men from accidents.
