

WALKING IS PRETTY GOOD

Leg Service at the City Hall Yesterday Afternoon

IT MADE THE MAYOR MAD

And He Ordered a Little Sign Taken Down

The Fuel Was About to Give Out in the Building but the Contractors Stand Ready to Renew the Supply

There was no elevator service in the city hall after 12 o'clock yesterday. The fuel supply had about given out and Engineer Story soon found City Clerk Luckenbach, who is the custodian of the building. The clerk informed Story that he would look into the matter as soon as he returned from lunch.

A notice was then posted bearing the legend: "Elevator not running because of no fuel." The mayor saw the sign on his way to luncheon, and it caused the executive ire to rise to a boiling point. The mayor inspected the bit of paper bearing the unwelcome intelligence of the city's fearful poverty, and then he gave his rage full play.

City Clerk Luckenbach is blamed in a great many quarters for having permitted the matter to go on as far as it did. He defends himself with the statement that his orders from the council are of such an imperative character that he was compelled to act as he did.

The emergency fund yesterday contained just exactly $204.35. This was before the Luckenbach requisition for crude oil had been drawn. The ordinance creating the fund says:

Section 1. There is hereby created a fund to be known as the emergency fund, the money in which may be used in payment of such claims against the city of Los Angeles as the emergency of the public service may from time to time require, when the immediate payment of the same is of so urgent a nature as to render it impracticable to obtain the money therefor in the usual way; but in no case shall any claim be paid out of said fund that could be provided for in the usual way.

Section 2. There is hereby appropriated the sum of $200 out of the salary fund to be paid to the city clerk on presentation of a demand therefor by said clerk in the usual manner. The emergency fund shall be drawn shall be deposited by said clerk with the city treasurer, and shall be known as the "emergency fund," and shall be paid out of the check of said clerk, which check shall be drawn in favor of the person having the claim against the city, when practicable, upon application to said clerk.

The contractors who supply the oil to the city say that they are perfectly willing to continue furnishing it and take chances upon payment. Every councilman but one, the clerk says, advised him to act as he did.

The mayor said yesterday that rather than have the elevator service shut off again, he will advance the money for the fuel bill himself.

Late yesterday afternoon the city clerk forwarded to President W. B. Cline of the Los Angeles Gas company the following:

Sir:—The council has failed to approve my requisition for gas for the city hall for the month of January. Under the instructions of the council I am prohibited from incurring any expense without first obtaining such requisition.

While I feel sure that the council will ultimately approve these accounts, I beg to say that any delay in the payment must not be attributed to neglect upon my part, and that in furnishing gas at the city hall you do so at your own risk.

THE Y. M. C. A. SERIES

The Arment Company Concert Tonight at the Tabernacle

The popular Y. M. C. A. course has brought a number of excellent entertainments to the city during the present season. The concert announced for tonight by the Arment company may be spoken of as the gem of the course, musically.

The members of the company are Mme. Arment, the New York favorite prima donna; Mr. Charles Higgins, violin virtuoso; and Miss Celia Schiller, solo pianiste.

Each of these has achieved a success not frequently met with among professional artists. The program for this evening is one that should afford unstinted pleasure, and is as follows:

Hark! Hark! the Lark! Schubert-Liszt, Austrian Hymn, Leonard, Bolero, Sicilian Vespers, Verdi, Impromptu in B flat, Schubert, Serenade and Witches' Dance, (violin alone), Kreisler, Liselotte, Bereny, Good Bye, Toal, and were re-narrated, Navin.

The Art Association The art association of Southern California, of which Senator White is president, with Hy Koch and Rev. J. C. Fletcher vice-presidents, has just published its course of lectures for 1896, as follows:

January 20th, Mrs. Geo. A. Caswell, Characteristics of Gothic Architecture, February 26th, Dr. S. H. Weller, Michael Angelo; March 25th, Prof. Geo. G. Hitchcock, Paints and Pigments; April 20th, Rev. J. C. Fletcher, Egypt and Its Arts; May 27th, Dr. Warren F. Day, subject to be announced; June 24th, Malcolm Macleod, European Art Centers Re-visited.

The lectures will commence at 8 p.m. From 9 to 10 p.m. there will be music and social entertainment. Each member is at liberty to bring a guest. The lectures of 1895 were a great success and were remarkably well attended. The art exhibitions of 1895 exceeded beyond expectation both in excellence of exhibits and the interest taken in them by the public.

OCCIDENTAL COLLEGE

Work Was Resumed Yesterday in a Boyle Heights Church

According to arrangement Occidental college resumed work yesterday morning in the Boyle Heights Presbyterian church. A large number of students were present, who listened with appreciation and enthusiasm to remarks from President Condit and Trustees Young and Perry, also to telegrams and letters of sympathy from sister institutions and friends of the school. A student committee was appointed to make suitable answers to the latter. The school hopes to secure within a few days quarters for the rest of the school year. Several good offers have been made to the board of trustees in regard to the future location of the school, but as yet no decision has been reached. The probabilities are, however, that the school will open next year with new buildings in a favorable location and brighter prospects than ever before.

Test Case for Hackdrivers

A question of some importance to hackdrivers was submitted on brief yesterday before Justice Judge Owens. It relates to the cases of two parties named Green and McNeilly, who were arrested for having solicited passenger custom within certain limits at the La Grande depot. The Southern California Railway company established a rule that hackmen should remain outside of their premises while passengers on their trains made their exit into the street. The hackmen questioned the company's right to exclude them, and for the purpose of legally testing the question broke the regulation and were arrested.

Disturb d Collins' Peace

A denizen of crib-infested Alameda street, who rejoices in the significant name of Rose Sollicito, was sometime ago charged with vagrancy by Officer Collins. Yesterday he consented to have the charge removed by disturbing the peace, to which the woman pleaded guilty. She will be sentenced this afternoon by Justice Morrison.

To Be Tried for Battery

The trial of Detective Goodman, charged with battery upon Reporter R. J. Colver, will take place tomorrow at 11 o'clock before Police Judge Owens.

THEY ARE STILL EPIDEMIC

The Measles Seem to Be Prevalent Everywhere

Superintendent Foshay Issues a Circular Letter to School Principals and Quotes Law

The epidemic of measles throughout the city still continues. Superintendent of Education Foshay has had prepared and sent to every school principal the following circular of guidance upon the subject: During this epidemic of measles, please require all children to remain at home at least ten days after the development of a case of measles in a family where there are other children attending school, unless there is conclusive evidence that such children have had the disease. Conclusive evidence would be a certificate from a competent physician who had attended such children during illness. Where there is any doubt, give the schools the benefit of the doubt. When cases come to your knowledge in families who have not employed physicians, please ask them to report all cases to the health officer in accordance with sections 11 and 12 of ordinance No. 2288, which are as follows, to-wit:

"Sec. 11. Every physician or other person shall immediately report in writing to the health officer of said city the name and location of any patient he or she may have within the limits of the city of Los Angeles affected with Asiatic cholera, smallpox, typhus, yellow fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, glanders, leprosy, or any other infectious or contagious disease.

"Sec. 12. Every keeper of a hotel, boarding or lodging house, and every householder or other person shall immediately report in writing to the health officer the name and location of any inmate of his or her house whom he or she may have reason to believe sick of any infectious or contagious disease such as mentioned in the foregoing section of this ordinance."

Licensed to Wed

The following marriage license was issued by the county clerk yesterday:

James Connor, a native of Nevada, aged 30 years, and Minnie Hausinger, a native of Illinois, aged 17 years, both residents of Los Angeles.

Only one divorce case has occurred, so far as we know, among the many couples who have secured their wedding stations at our office. We do not give a warranty of matrimonial felicity, but we are sure we can give you as fine a wedding as any other wedding.

Recovered Stolen Bicycles

Detective Goodman yesterday recovered two bicycles, one belonging to C. F. Bissell and the other to Frank Koteler, a Japanese, which had been stolen by one Pete Peterson, whom the same officer captured several days ago. After Peterson had stolen the wheels he took them out into the country, and in the vicinity of Azusa he traded off the machines for horses, which he sold in this city.

Denouement of a Passing Fancy Which Was But Brief

Benedict Appeared by Cold Cash—A Very Cold-Blooded Interview—The Lover's Flight

Early in the spring of 1895, Adam Nordhoff, a very prosperous farmer of Antelope county, Neb., needing some additional help, hired a Dane named Olsen to assist him in the running of his place. Olsen is a broad-shouldered, muscular man of about 20 years of age, is familiar with all kinds of agricultural work, good looking, can play the violin, and has a rich, hearty voice which charmed not only the neighbors in that sparsely settled country, but the buxom wife of his employer to her ruin. Nordhoff and Olsen became so friendly that the ordinary relations existing between employer and employed did not obtain. Olsen was treated as a brother by Nordhoff, and his wife was more than a sister to him.

Nordhoff's farm was clear of all incumbrances; he had money in bank—some $4500—and consequently was able to add to his income by making small cash loans to his neighbors. Just before harvest, while superintending and working at the cleaning of his reapers and binders and otherwise preparing for getting in his crop, he hurt himself in his barn by attempting to lift, with Olsen's aid, a heavy piece of machinery. It is alleged that at a critical moment Olsen partially let go of his end, thus causing the injury to Nordhoff, who was confined to his bed for many weeks.

During this time Olsen managed everything, was unremitting in his attention to his patron, and one day told him that, as in all probability his injury would disable him for life, it would be well that Nordhoff should transfer his property to Olsen, and credit to his wife. This Nordhoff did.

Mrs. Nordhoff was soon recognized as the owner of all, and her checks were honored by the banks when presented by her. The crop was unusually good last season, and the top market price was obtained for corn before the bottom fell out of the market. She proposed a visit to some friends in Minnesota, and she encouraged him to take the trip, and he was given by her ample money for his needs.

After his departure it occurred to Mrs. Nordhoff that her husband was not so good, if Olsen was her guide, and that it might be prolonged indefinitely. Under the circumstances, her story of being called to her husband's bedside in a distant city, and that she had concluded to leave the place, was believed. The farm was sold, together with the stock and implements, the money in bank, and the property of Mrs. Nordhoff departed alone. The couple have no children. Olsen found work and kept at it for some weeks, when he said he had to go back to Denmark, and he went tentatively for that country. Meanwhile, Nordhoff gradually became anxious at the cessation of letters from his wife, wrote home and learned the story. It nearly upset his reason when he heard it.

After much patient search, without any help of detectives or, indeed, making the matter one of note in the city, he got a trail, and early yesterday morning when the long-winded for rain was generally falling and the streets were deserted, it was nearly 3 a. m., he made a call on the couple, his wife and the man Olsen, who were found lodging in an apartment house on Spring street, near Hill street.

Nordhoff behaved admirably, there was no noise, no upbraiding. The wife wept profusely, and begged for restoration to favor, the burly Dane taking an early opportunity to get away. The injured husband suggested that the best proof of penitence was his wife's relinquishment of the property and money she had appropriated. This was done, and Nordhoff is now on his way to St. Paul.

A Youthful Burglar

Justice Owens yesterday held Robert Gray, a boy barely 15 years of age, to answer for the crime of burglary in the sum of $1000. He broke into the Pacific news stand on Fourth street a short time ago and purloined a quantity of cigars and cigarettes. Young Gray, who has very hazy ideas respecting the proprietorship of things, will be sent to Whittier. One of his brothers is now serving a term on the chain gang.

Now is the time to buy while they are low in price and there are enough in number to choose from. You can buy now for $1000; in a year or two they will be $2000 and more for the choice ones. TRIAL BY JURY

The Attorneys Make It Interesting for a Lot of Citizens

An attempt was made yesterday afternoon to complete a jury in Judge Morrison's court in the case of the People vs. Louisa Smeets, charged with battery, which was not successful, and the case had to be continued until Tuesday morning next. Louisa Smeets is a vigorous although frail female who inhabits an Alameda street crib. Some time ago, when Theodore Bauer, the boss of Little Paredo, started to fence in all the houses of ill-repute which were not controlled by himself, there were several rows in that vicinity, and on one occasion Ex-Detective Bosqui, who is a deputy constable in the pay of Bauer, became involved in a quarrel with a number of angry women who scratched his face well. Miss Smeets was charged with the battery, although she claims the clawing was done by another female, and was arrested.

Her attorneys demanded a jury trial. First a venire of 24 men was called, which they were not accepted. The next venire, returnable several days later, produced six jurors. Yesterday another venire of 24 was called and only one man was accepted. This left two men to be selected to try the case, and a new venire of 30 jurors was issued. Among the questions asked by the defense was the following: "Would the fact that the defendant is a woman of easy virtue and the prosecuting witness an ex-detective cause you to place less credence in her testimony than in his?" A number of jurors expressed themselves as ready to discredit the woman and to believe Bosqui in preference, and they were promptly excused.

AN IDEA OF THE JOB

The Material in the New School Houses

The Sewer Committee Will Tomorrow Consider the Garbage Franchise—The Building Record

The erection of the fourteen various new school buildings is to be a big job, one of the largest, in fact, of recent years in the building records of the city. Among the material in the structures will be, when completed, 13,300 yards of excavating, 3,300,000 feet of lumber, 1,000,000 lath, 2468 windows, 1448 doors, 3440 barrels lime, 2,438,000 brick, 48 tons nails, 3700 transoms, 65,000 yards plastering, 9800 running feet of blackboard 4 feet wide, or to 1 1/2 miles of blackboard, 2460 gallons paint, 400 gallons varnish, 28 flights of stairs 8 feet wide, or a total width of stairs of 224 feet; 4000 loads of sand, 120 tons of Alpine plaster.

SOME SEWER RECOMMENDATIONS The sewer committee of the council yesterday recommended that the petition of the Los Angeles Orphan asylum for sewer connection be granted.

The petition of J. B. Dankeberger for permission to sewer the house at 1212 Sunbury avenue was granted.

It was recommended that the proceedings to sewer Boyle avenue from the main sewer at Hollenbeck Park to Stevenson avenue be abandoned.

THE BUILDING RECORD Permits for new buildings aggregating in value $5025 were issued yesterday, the most important being as follows:

To John Schwarz, for a $1000 dwelling on Eleventh and San Julian streets; to William Howyer, for a $1100 dwelling on Maple and Tenth streets; to Dr. A. J. Erwin, for a $2500 dwelling on Thirty-seventh street, near Figueroa.

A BIG EVENT

The Masonic Corner Stone Laying Next Month The corner stone for the proposed new Masonic temple is to be laid on the afternoon of February 22. The building is to be located on Hill street, between Fourth and Fifth.

The demonstration commemorative of the event is to be the most imposing of anything similar ever held in this end of the state. The value lodges and commanderies of the various cities in the Southern California counties, as far north as Santa Barbara, have been invited to participate in the demonstration. Over 1000 people are expected to be in line during the parade.

Makes His Living by Stealing A Mexican named Bantista Salas, who is accused of stealing carpenter's tools in houses in the course of construction and garden hose that is left lying loose, was gathered in by Detective Stearns yesterday and charged with petty larceny.

That Is, the Friends Are, Not the Principal

A Tradesman, Revolver in Hand, is Bluffed by a Bold, Bad Burglar—The Story as 'Twas Told

The friends of a popular boot and shoe dealer, whose place of business is on Main street not far from Third, are enjoying a huge joke at his expense. And as he told it on himself he cannot blame others for making the most of it. The circumstances are these: One night recently, in the wee small hours, the shoe dealer, while sweetly dreaming of quick sales and new customers, was suddenly awakened by his wife, who exclaimed: "Sam, Sam, get up! There's a burglar at the door trying to get in." Sam was quickly out of bed, and with revolver in hand he crept stealthily to the door and listened. Soon he heard what appeared to be hands fumbling at the lock. The defender of his castle quickly cocked his revolver and exclaimed: "Who's there?" The response came in the form of several raps on the door. Sam then unlocked the door, opened it, tightly holding his cocked revolver ready to shoot if occasion required. There, stood before him a burly man, who after apologizing for intrusion, said: "I am an officer. I have come to see you. You that your dog disturbs the neighbors every night by his barking. You make a stop to it, or I shall kill the dog, as it shall be my duty to do."

"I am an officer. I have come to see you. You that your dog disturbs the neighbors every night by his barking. You make a stop to it, or I shall kill the dog, as it shall be my duty to do."

"I didn't know that my dog disturbed my neighbors. I'll see that he does not do so any more." That ended the dialogue, the visitor walked away and Sam returned to bed, wondering why the officer selected such an unreasonable hour for serving his anti-dog-barking notice.

The next day that thought puzzled and annoyed Sam so much that he finally went to police headquarters and related the circumstance to several officers. On hearing his story the blue coats laughed heartily. They were further stated by the visitor that he had been beautifully humbugged by a shrewd burglar. The mid-night visitor was not an officer, as might have been known by his errand, but such a person; but finding himself discovered he skillfully warded off suspicion by his dog story, and thus escaped Sam's bullet. It was further stated by the officers that when a barking dog disturbed people's slumbers the authorities would suppress the nuisance if complained of; but that no officer would think of calling at a private residence in the middle of the night on such an errand.

Sam left the police station a wiser man, but so mad at himself for being thus humbugged that he has not yet recovered his customary good nature. He thinks he will always regret his failure to improve a splendid opportunity to either kill or capture a measly burglar who successfully played him for a greenhorn.
