

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

TEMPERATURE—Report of observations taken at Los Angeles, January 20. The barometer is reduced to sea level.

Table with 5 columns: Time, Bar., Ther. B. Max, Wind, Vel., Weather. Rows for 5:30 a. m., 8:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 4:30 p. m., Maximum temperature, Minimum temperature.

FORECAST—For Southern California: Fair on Thursday; light northerly winds.

TODAY—Scotch day at the Home Products exhibition. E. W. C. A. reception, 107 North Spring street, 1:30 to 2 p. m.

Dr. Dunton, 304 North Main street. The Van and Storage company, tel. Main 1140. Only homeopathic pharmacy—314 W. Fourth st.

Orr & Hines, undertakers, removed to 647 South Broadway. Tel. Main 1111. Spanish dancers served at the Belmont, corner Main and Fifth streets.

There will be no At Home social at the Y. W. C. A., 107 North Spring street, tonight.

Sher & Sampson, funeral directors, (Independent), 358 South Spring street. Telephone 1029.

Joe Arnold, agent for the celebrated Mexican cigar, 358 South Spring street. Tel. Main 388.

We are still making cabinets, bust or any style, for one dollar per dozen. Lawson, 147 South Main street.

Watches cleaned, 75 cents; main-springs, 50 cents; repairs, 10 cents. Patton, 214 South Broadway.

John Slater sings at the concert tonight; also tests, 216 West Third street, Southern California Music hall.

Prof. Willhartitz's pupils gave a very successful evening of light music at the Southern California Music hall last night.

Buy your guns, ammunition and bicycles at reduced prices. Southern California Arms Company, 113 West First street.

Adams Bros., dentists 238 1/2 South Spring street. Painless filling, and extracting. Best sets of teeth from $6 to $10. Hours, 8 to 5; Sundays, 10 to 12.

For high class of work, prompt delivery and moderate prices try the old reliable Excelsior laundry, 422-424 South Los Angeles street. Branch at 111 West Second street.

The gravel pits at Whitewater on the Southern Pacific road are to be opened up today. The gravel trains will be put to work ballasting the road between Indio and Yuma.

Have a picture to frame? If so, take it to H. C. Liechtenberger's art emporium in the Wilcox building, Second and Spring streets. Closing out calendars and holiday stock at cost.

John Slater, the wonderful test musician sings and gives one of his incomparable test scenes at the concert and ball in Southern California Music hall, 216 West Third street, tonight.

Mr. G. J. Griffith has received a letter from Mardene Hanson, the eminent civil engineer of San Francisco, offering valuable suggestions for the improvement of Griffith park. The letter will be laid before the park commissioners.

Dr. Rebecca Lee Dorsy, Stimson block, first floor, rooms 133, 134, 135. Special attention given to obstetrical cases and all diseases of women and children. Electricity scientifically used. Consultation hours, 1 to 5. Tel. 1237.

The store of B. F. Coulter at Second and Spring streets was closed yesterday and all the goods were taken out of respect to the memory of R. T. Coulter, the youngest son of the proprietor, who died in Batavia, Java, December 4th.

Lieutenant Randolph H. Miner read an interesting paper last evening before the Engineers and Architects' association. Lieutenant Miner's subject was the Battle of the Yalu River, which occurred September 17, 1894, between the Chinese and Japanese fleets.

It is a fact not generally known that the city license on jewelry is auctioned in Los Angeles at $15 per day, payable six months in advance. The ordinance was got through the city council some years ago to shut out cheap jewelry from other cities and states, claiming that these sales demoralized business and ruined local trade. F. F. Keeler yesterday filed his bond, and will test the legality of the ordinance in the courts.

Captain J. A. Fraser of the Good Samaritan mission has addressed a communication to the city council urging that body to at once try to provide work for the deserving unemployed of the city. The captain says his mission has been caring for from 75 to 100 men a day who are absolutely without means, and that it is running behind at the rate of $9 per day. He says further, that if which he is looking forward to the mission will have to close for lack of funds.

THE DEADLY BUZZ-SAW. A Cabinet Maker Loses a Thumb and Finger While at Work.

As a consequence of getting his hand in too close proximity to a circular rip saw yesterday afternoon, George W. Craig, a cabinet maker and upholsterer who runs a shop at 1661 North Alameda street lost the thumb and first finger of his right hand. The thumb was sawed clean off, and the index finger was so badly torn as to necessitate amputation.

Craig was brought to the receiving hospital by his brother, with whom he was working at the time the accident occurred. Dr. Hagan, the police surgeon, performed the operation. The patient was then put to bed for a couple of hours, after which he was conveyed to his home at 1624 Paloma street.

HEALTH ORDINANCE VIOLATION. Upon a charge of violating the city health ordinance John L. Hayne was yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock arrested at his place on Eureka street, near Jefferson, by Officer Arguello. Hayne runs a dairy and keeps a number of cows and a big flock of chickens upon his premises, the area from which is extremely offensive to his neighbors. The late rains have caused the filth to spread out and become a dangerous menace to health, hence the arrest.

HAUNTED. The human tenement is often haunted—by the gloomy discomfit of its possessor and his bloodless, but the human tenement may be speedily driven out by the potent help of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, this potent alterative, which it revives the blood and regulates the liver, never, as a drastic purgative does, produces violent effects and weakens the system. On the contrary, the action of the Bitters is precisely analogous to an effort of nature seeking to resume her proper functions. This furnishes pretty conclusive evidence that it is better to use persuasive means, so to speak, than to endeavor to coerce nature to a return to duty. Violent remedies produce only a temporary effect, followed by a harmful reaction. For indigestion, neuralgia and kidney complaints, rheumatism and nervousness, Hostetter's Bitters takes highest rank among remedies of the philosophic school.

LOST IN THE COUNTRY. Charlie Prudent, a lost boy about 5 years of age, was found yesterday morning about nine miles from the city by a rancher who was driving along the road. He was brought into town and turned over to the police authorities. The lad could not tell where he belonged, and will be kept at headquarters, pending the arrival of his parents.

THE OLD MAN RIPPED A FEATHER BED

How They Are Proving Barthelman Insane

The courtroom of department one was crowded almost to suffocation yesterday during the trial of John F. Barthelman for murdering his wife Mabel. Nearly one-half of the audience was composed of women, some of whom were friends of the murdered woman and others had no such excuse for their presence. The gallant deputy sheriff, M. Marsh, provided seats for all, even if he had to haul the horrid men out of their comfortable chairs. Throughout the day's proceedings the defendant showed more interest than on any previous day, and several times was seen to speak to his attorneys—something that had not occurred before during the trial. He even seemed moved slightly by some of the most pathetic portions of the testimony given, especially by the mother of his victim.

A REVERSED DIVORCE SUIT

The defendant left Rochester between two days. A letter was received from him dated at Cincinnati, Ohio, and that his trunk be sent to him, which was done. The trunk was sent back again to Rochester, and defendant then wrote and requested defendant that John was crazy.

A Man Who Is Charged With Stealing His Own House

The man charged with stealing his own house was yesterday charged with grand larceny. He gave bond yesterday.

Charged With Grand Larceny He Gave Bond Yesterday

Cheap Real Estate of the Late Pool Savage—Niles and the Street Grading Contractor—Term Trial Jurors.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

by trouble, and he brooded over his wrongs until his mind gave way in a frenzy, and he committed the deed. It would be shown that John F. Barthelman runs in the Barthelman family. The attorney was very eloquent.

Then he began his case by introducing a number of deponents. The first was that of Simon Barthelman, taken at Rochester, N. Y., January 11, 1897. The deponent said he is a cousin of the defendant, who lived for awhile at Rochester, where deponent saw him daily during a period of two weeks, and almost as often during the three years he was there. While deponent was a member of deponent's family about two weeks, deponent observed the actions and conduct of defendant to convince him that he was of unsound mind, and of abnormal nature. One sure sign the deponent thought proved this was that while he and defendant would be talking politics the defendant would speak of abnormal nature. One sure sign the deponent thought proved this was that while he and defendant would be talking politics the defendant would speak of abnormal nature. One sure sign the deponent thought proved this was that while he and defendant would be talking politics the defendant would speak of abnormal nature.

The defendant left Rochester between two days. A letter was received from him dated at Cincinnati, Ohio, and that his trunk be sent to him, which was done. The trunk was sent back again to Rochester, and defendant then wrote and requested defendant that John was crazy.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

Deponent knew that members of the Barthelman family had an unsound mind. He had been told by his father that Barthelman's father and grandmother were of unsound mind, and he knows that the defendant, John F. Barthelman, is of unsound mind, has an excitable nature and is cranky. Some of the interrogations in this deposition were given on the 19th of January, as the opinions given were not those of experts or of those who had intimate knowledge of the facts.

The next deponent heard from defendant was a letter from San Diego asking for some more papers, which were sent to him. He afterward declared he had never received the package, although the express company's books showed it had been delivered. The facts led deponent to believe that defendant was of unsound mind.

<