

SPECIAL

team will be the best the school has ever had.

The Los Angeles Athletic club has offered a valuable medal to the first man breaking a coast record in the intercollegiate field day events.

An effort is being made to arrange another match between Dempsey and Borbett to take place at the Athletic club next month. These men boxed an eighteen round draw before the club some months ago, and are both clever and scientific.

The season for shooting quail, duck and doves closes to-night at 12 o'clock. Geese and snipe can be shot at all seasons, as they do not breed in this country.

There has been no material change in the betting sentiment on the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight during the past week, though if anything the Australian is a trifle stronger. With the arrival of Dempsey on the grounds, Fitzsimmons on route, there appears to be but little doubt but what the big event will be pulled off in due time. There is some talk of getting up a party to go to the fight from Los Angeles, and it is claimed that at least fifty can be secured if favorable railroad rates can be secured.

The San Joaquin Gun club will give a grand day shoot on their grounds near Santa Ana today. This club is composed of leading citizens of Los Angeles and Pasadena, and the event promises to be an enjoyable one. This is the last shoot of the season and some handsome prizes will be given.

"Wheeling" is the title of the latest addition to the local sporting press. It is a new little leaflet, printed on good paper and artistically arranged. The editor is the well known cycling writer, Charles Fuller Gates. The first number was issued Sunday.

Interest in the intercollegiate field day continues to increase, and those interested say that they intend to make it the best that they have yet had. It will be on Washington's birthday, the 22nd inst., and if reports are correct, the contestants are all in fine condition, and will give a good account of themselves.

A Herald reporter went out to the university one day last week and visited the training quarters of the University of Southern California track team. The men are hard at work, and things presented a lively aspect on the track of the campus where the training is done. Several squads of men were out working on the different events, part of the track being given up to the hammer throwers who were practicing starts and developing their strides and part to the long distance men who were running for wind and endurance. The ground inside the track which is used for football and baseball games in season was dotted over with other squads industriously practicing for the season.

Prints are included in the program, and more men are trying for them than for any other event. It will not be decided until the end of the season as to who will run in each event. Edgerton, who won the 220-yard dash last year, will almost certainly take the 50-yard dash. He is in the lead at the start, and is looked upon as almost a sure winner. He has several times equaled the intercollegiate record of 5-3-5 seconds.

Several men are training for the 100-yard dash, and it is hard to say who will take it. Leland, the man who took second place last year, now holds it, but it is possible that the change will be made. He and Edgerton have both made it in 10-3-5 seconds, competition record, and would either be able to take a good place in the event. The Pomona man, who both has good records. Among the other men who are trying for the race, are Edgerton, who won the 220-yard dash, Inch, McEwen and Sproles, all new men, are doing good work. Seely, the Long Beach man, who holds the 220 and 440 yard dash records, has been unable to train until the last few days, but is now being put in condition and may make this race interesting.

The captain and veteran of the team, Elliott, who has competed in every field day so far held by the intercollegiate association, and who wears four first-place medals, will take the 440 yard dash and one-mile run. He is one of the best men in Southern California for distance, and having a phenomenal spurt at the finish, an S. C. has the utmost confidence in him.

The men who are training for sprints are divided into squads of two or three and put in most of their practice on the track. After about a half-hour of this kind of work, they are taken to the athletic room, where a shower bath and experienced rubbers await them.

The weight men and jumpers and vaulters are mostly for form and do not try to reach the top. One day, A. O. Martin will take the high jump and pole vault. He has been doing very fine work in these events, and while not so much is expected of him in the vault, he is looked to break the intercollegiate record of 5 feet 5 1/2 inches in the running high jump. He jumps in splendid form and has a record of 44 feet in the vault. In the high jump, he is better than this in practice. R. W. Avery will take the 16-pound shot. He is a new man, but has good form and is making good progress. Several men are training for the 16-pound shot, but Nelson, who will be taken by Chambers, a Santa Monica man, who, although but 13, stands over six feet high and throws the hammer like a veteran. This is his first year's work with the hammer, but he is already throwing over 100 feet.

The bicycle men train on the Athletic park track. Several men are at work for the two bicycle races, but Nelson, the colored rider, will probably take them. He is a very speedy man, and, while his entry would probably be refused in an open meet, he is a regular student at U. S. C., and there is no way to bar him from the intercollegiate races. Several other men are working on the track, but Nelson is the one who has had hard men to ride against, but U. S. C. men think he has the speed necessary to win his races.

The team is in the hands of Van Leuven, the veteran, who has been training the champion Pomona team for several years. He expresses himself as being well pleased with the work of his men, and is confident that they will win the cup.

The manager of the team, A. P. Thompson, '37, is greatly elated over the prospect for U. S. C. winning, and says the

THE WHEEL

The following race meetings are scheduled for Washington's birthday: Pasadena, intercollegiate field day; Los Angeles, race meet under the auspices of the Crown City Cycle club. Riverside will run a road race over the Magnolia avenue course. Redlands—The Redlands Wheelmen, recently organized, will give a meet for members only.

Wheelmen are congratulating themselves on the success of the baggie bill.

I. B. Potter will rule the L. A. W. for the next year, as predicted by The Herald last week.

Mr. Crank, of the Liveoak villa, Monrovia, will give a reception and entertainment to the wheelmen Saturday evening.

The Pasadena Monrovia road race will be run this year on Monday, Oct. 4, Labor day.

Entries for the Riverside road race close Feb. 20, and should be sent to Col. Stuhlman, Riverside.

The Redlands Wheelmen organized January 30 and are now in the hands of officers: President, J. H. Dutton; secretary, L. O. Hammond; treasurer, W. C. Burrage; captain, W. T. Endler.

A number of Pasadena and Los Angeles wheelmen took a run to Pomona yesterday. The Pasadena boys took the route via the Redlands and Los Angeles contingent took the regular Riverside run by the way of Puente. They met at Pomona, where they took dinner to the hotel, where they returned to their homes.

He has a big array of victories to his credit, and none of his contests were extended. His longest fight—33 rounds—was with Corbett in San Francisco. Next comes his New Orleans match with Peter Maher—12 rounds—and the next longest was his 8-round draw with Bill McCarty in San Francisco. Leaving his unsatisfactory meeting with Sharkey out of the question, all Fitzsimmons' matches during the past four years—there have been 10—have been short, sharp and decisive, the lathy Cornishman coming out on top every time.

He settled Jim Hall in 4 rounds, and he tamed the stubborn brute of Dan Creighton in 2 rounds. He put out Peter Maher on the occasion of their second meeting before many of those around the ring had settled themselves in position to see what was going on. There is something freakish that looms up strongly in these performances.

There is no flinching and no flinching. Wearing his opponent down by the employment of waiting tactics and long-drawn-out fighting for an opening; there is nothing but a clatter and a first, while both men are still strong; then a half-arm hook or uppercut from those big freckled knuckles, and one fighter quivering on the ground. The humped-backed fellow who is striding to his corner is Fitzsimmons.

He is a dangerous man, sure enough, Fitzsimmons, at the time he is going against a dangerous man. Jim has this advantage, that he has seen the Cornishman fight a couple of times, and we all know how to deal with tactics for individual cases.

At noon yesterday Franklin R. Pitner and Miss Lella M. Dillard were married in the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Pitner is assistant secretary of the Los Angeles Athletic club and well-known to business and club men.

Such names as the following friends of the number of friends in church and social circles, and her marriage will be a surprise to many Mr. and Mrs. Pitner will reside at 1907 South Main street.

The Shakespear club will take up the Tenth of February celebration. The club meets at the residence of Mrs. Galpin 515 Fremont avenue.

Mr. H. P. Smart is slowly recovering from her long and severe illness and will be able to go to the first section and third Fridays of the month, at 413 South Bonnie Brae street.

Is It of Any Value? Some weeks ago the Times urged the creation of two mining schools by the state government, on the ground that the mining counties had, during the first sixteen years of the state's existence, paid into the state treasury over $1,600,000, and received no just fair equivalent for it.

A correspondent wrote in reply that the mining school which is being established by the state university could furnish all the education demanded in that quarter, but it now becomes to look as if the state agricultural school is to be the beneficiary of the money.

Such names as the following friends of the number of friends in church and social circles, and her marriage will be a surprise to many Mr. and Mrs. Pitner will reside at 1907 South Main street.

Notes of the Day Each convict in the Massachusetts prison costs the state $1.67 a week.

A woman, who is a prominent member of the P. O. S. E. in Los Angeles, is reported to have been arrested on a charge of having been guilty of a crime.

Two members of a British chess club played a tournament to see which should be the victor. Five years in the penitentiary, and the generous money lender gets the girl to boot.

Col. Waring reports the cost of cleaning the streets of New York to have been $1,000,000 for 1936, and says the amount could be reduced one-half if the thoroughfares in the city were properly paved.

It is to be hoped that the letter which a New Jersey woman has written Garrett A. Hobart for $5, with which to put an end to the senseless talk about the unimportance and obscurity of the vice presidency.

The advice which a New York specialist gives to take exercise with arms up, instead of down, as a source of consolation to those neglected females who are permitted to neglect themselves up in the street cars by the aid of straps.

Every one acknowledges that if the whole swallowed Jonah it was a miracle, and yet Dr. Lyman Abbott's congregation in Brooklyn is put out with him because he refuses to swallow both Jonah and the whale at the same time.

A prisoner of the Stillwater (Alinn) jail, who ran away while on parole in 1935, has written the warden a letter asking if he may return. Transportation has been sent him, and he is returning alone to serve the remaining seven years of his term.

Mme. Calve has bought an old castle surrounded by many thousands of acres in the Cevennes. She calls it "Le Chateau de la Vallée," and here her tenants produce vegetables, sheep and conduct a dairy. She explains to

DEADLY ORANGE FUNGUS

Now Being Investigated by Scientists at the State University

Citrus Fruit Badly Affected by the Blight. Lemons Are Also Affected by the Disease

The sudden discovery of a new pest which is making great havoc among the oranges and lemons shipped to the east from Southern California is receiving closest investigation by the professors at the Agricultural college of the State university, says the San Francisco Examiner. The new pest has been found to be a form of fungus, but whether it is an entirely new variety remains to be proved by further examination.

Professors Woodworth and Bioletti have the investigation in charge. The new disease has appeared so suddenly that growers in the south have not had time to ship many samples of the fungus to Berkeley. Samples of the pest as it attacks the lemons are all that have thus far been received. None of the specimens of the orange blight have been examined, but the professors feel confident that the same form of fungus has attacked both fruits.

Charles H. Edwards, the manager of the California Citrus Experiment Station at Azusa, has written to Professor E. W. Hilgard, the head of the agricultural department at Berkeley, describing the condition of the lemons in his packing house. He says:

"Many of the lemons delivered at this house have been affected similarly to the samples of the lemons which you sent me from the fruit delivered and have been noticed by me to exist more or less on all deliveries at the time they come in from the orchard. I am told by one orchardist that he sees the mildew on the fruit while it still hangs in the orchard. I noticed that it came in on fruit that was fumigated (for scale) before and after the trees were gassed."

The appearance of the new disease upon the surface of the lemons varies from a small, white, powdery spot to a large, dark, irregular blotch. The disease has been first noticed in the east, where the California fruit bore large, repulsive red spots, and the lemons in Southern California the fungus appeared during the last few weeks as a brown or gray patch of discoloration. At first it was passed on by the lemons, but when the returns from eastern shipments showed whole carloads sold at an immense sacrifice on account of the new disease, then the alarm was sounded in the California orchards, and now every southern orchardist is anxiously awaiting the results of the investigations at Berkeley which shall determine whether the future prospects of the southern citrus belt are to be permanently endangered by the unsightly fungi.

In California, the disease shows that the disease even destroys the flesh of the fruit, rendering it absolutely unfit for food.

Professor Woodward was hardly willing to admit that the new pest would destroy the orange and lemon crops of California, though he did not deny that the prospects were very serious.

Clubbed and Slashed Italians Engage in a Drunken Row and One Gets Hurt

About 9 o'clock last night Officer McClure heard the noise of a fight near the corner of New High and Marchessault streets, and hurried to the place to see what was the matter. Arriving there he found a man lying on the sidewalk in a pool of blood, with a gash in his head and another cut in his cheek.

A call was sent for a patrol wagon, and the injured man was removed to the receiving hospital, where he received medical treatment. It was found that he had received a blow over the head with a club that had inflicted a ugly wound, from which the blood was flowing profusely. He had also received a gash in the cheek. A couple of arteries in his head had been cut, and if he had not received prompt attention he would probably have bled to death.

He gave his name as Bengozio, and said he had been drinking with some other Italians in the Venetian saloon, near the place where he was found. A quarrel had arisen over who was to be the victor in a game of cards, and he had been assailed by two men, one using a club and the other a razor. He ran out of the place and called for the police, but failed to attract anyone until after he had been lying on the sidewalk for some time.

Bengozio either could not or would not give the names of the men who had assaulted him, nor could he give any account of the fight. He was very weak from loss of blood and soon went to sleep after being put to bed.

Officers Steele and McClure were put to work to find the man who had assaulted Bengozio. They searched the saloon where Bengozio claimed the fight arose failed to throw any light on who the assailants were. Up to a late hour last night no trace of them had been found.

Notes of the Day Each convict in the Massachusetts prison costs the state $1.67 a week.

A woman, who is a prominent member of the P. O. S. E. in Los Angeles, is reported to have been arrested on a charge of having been guilty of a crime.

Two members of a British chess club played a tournament to see which should be the victor. Five years in the penitentiary, and the generous money lender gets the girl to boot.

Col. Waring reports the cost of cleaning the streets of New York to have been $1,000,000 for 1936, and says the amount could be reduced one-half if the thoroughfares in the city were properly paved.

It is to be hoped that the letter which a New Jersey woman has written Garrett A. Hobart for $5, with which to put an end to the senseless talk about the unimportance and obscurity of the vice presidency.

The advice which a New York specialist gives to take exercise with arms up, instead of down, as a source of consolation to those neglected females who are permitted to neglect themselves up in the street cars by the aid of straps.

Every one acknowledges that if the whole swallowed Jonah it was a miracle, and yet Dr. Lyman Abbott's congregation in Brooklyn is put out with him because he refuses to swallow both Jonah and the whale at the same time.

A prisoner of the Stillwater (Alinn) jail, who ran away while on parole in 1935, has written the warden a letter asking if he may return. Transportation has been sent him, and he is returning alone to serve the remaining seven years of his term.

Mme. Calve has bought an old castle surrounded by many thousands of acres in the Cevennes. She calls it "Le Chateau de la Vallée," and here her tenants produce vegetables, sheep and conduct a dairy. She explains to Baseball There are a whole lot of things that women can do, and do well, but baseball playing is not one of them. The alleged match between a team of women ball players and the Francis Wilsons at Athletic park yesterday afternoon was one of the racketeering ever staged in the Los Angeles public. It was the first time that such an event was ever given in the city, and it is to be hoped that it will be the last, as just about one more such experience will effectually put the quietus on legitimate baseball in this section.

The novelty of the thing attracted a large crowd, the bleachers being filled, with a fair proportion of the grand stand occupied by the press. The game was advertised for 2:30 o'clock, but when that time arrived the women players were absent. After a wait of over half an hour the crowd, which had been almost exhausted, five young women of rather generous development, clad in variegated shirt waists and blouses, and a few men, entered the field and took their positions on first base and another by the down second. Then the miserable farce commenced. All rules of the game were disregarded, and it was simply horseplay. The women could not effect a run and when by accident the pitcher hit the bat, the game commenced. Few women can run gracefully, but the members of this team could not run at all. They were gazed unmercifully by the crowd, but they took it good-naturedly.

When they went out into the field they made an even worse show of themselves. They just simply stood around and forgot they were living. Fully one-half of the crowd left after the first inning, but quite a number stayed on to witness the game being called at 4 o'clock. The only lively feature was an incident in the grand stand. "Peter Jackson, the notorious negro, who has been figured in fights and rows, put in an appearance with another colored man, armed with a guitar, and started in with a concert. This proceeding irritated the small boys, and they literally forced the men out of the stand and chased them some distance up the street, among themselves shouting and clapping their hands. One took exception to Jackson's head, with disastrous results to the crowd, and the darkey escaped into the electric power house.

The manager of the Francis Wilsons disclaims all responsibility for the farce, and says that he was imposed upon by the manager of the woman team. He says that he was told by the manager of the team that his team was composed of good ball players, who had been very successful in their games. He did not know that he had not known to the contrary until the women came on the ground. He states further that even then he believed that there was a full complement of players, with one in reserve, in case of accident. It was learned that the long wait was caused by the refusal of the women to go on the field until they had received money, which they claimed that they had been engaged at a salary of $15.00 per week.

The Seventh regiment team, journeyed to the Fourteenth street team yesterday and won an exciting and well played game of ball from the Browns.

Monday, the debut of the agricultural department in the State University might as well be closed now and kept closed for all time to come. When it comes down to purpose guestwork—for it can be enough of that to be drawn from people who are not drawing salaries from the state—Los Angeles Times.

Broke a Wheel An incoming car on the Boyle Heights line broke a wheel down near River street at about 8:45 o'clock last night and came to a sudden stop, jarring the passengers up considerably, although no one was hurt. The car skewed clear round, blocking the track. The wrecking car was sent for which went down and cleared away the obstruction.

To Cure a Cold in One Day Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c.

IN SOCIETY

Mrs. R. B. Williamson gave a luncheon Saturday at her residence on Orange street in honor of Miss Budge of the department of the State University.

Mrs. H. H. Williamson assisted. The luncheon was served at two tables, one of which was decorated with roses and ferns; the other with heart shaped, attached to corsage bouquets of violets. The afternoon was devoted to progressive anagrams, at which the first prize, a Haviland china brush and comb tray, was won by Miss Newell.

The second, a heart shaped china pen drawn by Miss Elliott. Miss Willis and Miss Newell gave recitations at the close of the game, and Miss Riley and Miss Reynolds gave some piano solos. Besides the guests of honor, there were present, Mrs. H. H. Williamson, Mrs. Florence Riley, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Nevel, Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. Pease, Clegg, Miller, T. Elliott.

Pitner-Dillard At noon yesterday Franklin R. Pitner and Miss Lella M. Dillard were married in the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Pitner is assistant secretary of the Los Angeles Athletic club and well-known to business and club men.

Such names as the following friends of the number of friends in church and social circles, and her marriage will be a surprise to many Mr. and Mrs. Pitner will reside at 1907 South Main street.

The Shakespear club will take up the Tenth of February celebration. The club meets at the residence of Mrs. Galpin 515 Fremont avenue.

Mr. H. P. Smart is slowly recovering from her long and severe illness and will be able to go to the first section and third Fridays of the month, at 413 South Bonnie Brae street.

Is It of Any Value? Some weeks ago the Times urged the creation of two mining schools by the state government, on the ground that the mining counties had, during the first sixteen years of the state's existence, paid into the state treasury over $1,600,000, and received no just fair equivalent for it.

A correspondent wrote in reply that the mining school which is being established by the state university could furnish all the education demanded in that quarter, but it now becomes to look as if the state agricultural school is to be the beneficiary of the money.

Such names as the following friends of the number of friends in church and social circles, and her marriage will be a surprise to many Mr. and Mrs. Pitner will reside at 1907 South Main street.

Notes of the Day Each convict in the Massachusetts prison costs the state $1.67 a week.

A woman, who is a prominent member of the P. O. S. E. in Los Angeles, is reported to have been arrested on a charge of having been guilty of a crime.

Two members of a British chess club played a tournament to see which should be the victor. Five years in the penitentiary, and the generous money lender gets the girl to boot.

Col. Waring reports the cost of cleaning the streets of New York to have been $1,000,000 for 1936, and says the amount could be reduced one-half if the thoroughfares in the city were properly paved.

It is to be hoped that the letter which a New Jersey woman has written Garrett A. Hobart for $5, with which to put an end to the senseless talk about the unimportance and obscurity of the vice presidency.

The advice which a New York specialist gives to take exercise with arms up, instead of down, as a source of consolation to those neglected females who are permitted to neglect themselves up in the street cars by the aid of straps.

Every one acknowledges that if the whole swallowed Jonah it was a miracle, and yet Dr. Lyman Abbott's congregation in Brooklyn is put out with him because he refuses to swallow both Jonah and the whale at the same time.

A prisoner of the Stillwater (Alinn) jail, who ran away while on parole in 1935, has written the warden a letter asking if he may return. Transportation has been sent him, and he is returning alone to serve the remaining seven years of his term.

Mme. Calve has bought an old castle surrounded by many thousands of acres in the Cevennes. She calls it "Le Chateau de la Vallée," and here her tenants produce vegetables, sheep and conduct a dairy. She explains to

A BIG CHINESE BANQUET

Celestials Close the New Year's Festivities With a Feast

Supper Eaten Every Couple of Hours and the Interval Filled by Playing Games

The closing of the Chinese new year holiday season was celebrated Saturday night by a banquet given in one of the swell restaurants on Marchessault street. All the leading lights of the celestial quarter were there, and feasting went on with few interruptions from 10 o'clock at night until 7 in the morning.

Several American guests were present and were royally treated by the Chinese. A dinner of delicate dishes, pigeon and other delicacies, shark's fins, and other choice component parts could only be left to the imagination, was served, presided over by Charley Gun, the leading man of the Hop Sing tong. An orchestra discoursed music with untiring energy and seemingly without cessation.

Numbers of the beauties of Chinatown were there, dressed in their gaudiest finery and joined in the merry making with gusto. After the dinner various games were played, among the most curious being one similar to the American child's pastime called "Simon says thumbs up." Seated at a table a woman and a man would raise the right arm, and to a set of words shrilly repeated, follow each others motions with the hand and fingers until one or the other got "caught." Then, amid great laughter, the loser was compelled to take a drink of Chinese rice whisky.

One woman evidently struck a hard antagonist in an elderly Chinaman and was convicted of the murder of Weng Chien, the small glasses of the liquor in about fifteen minutes, whereas she became merry from the effects of her libations only after the murder of Weng Chien. Cards, dominoes and other games were played by the various groups, while some chatted or listened to the orchestral endeavors.

Every couple of hours, as soon as some of the food already partaken of had had time to digest, a fresh supper was set to which all sat down and once more fell to. The sight was a novel one, and greatly appreciated by those fortunate enough to be present. Among those present were Chew Wing Gow, who was convicted of the murder of Weng Chien, but who is out on bail pending an appeal and his fellow prisoner, Gong Ong Chong, who was acquitted of complicity in the crime of "Big Jim" was happy over his release from his long confinement, and imparted to the reporter the hope that he would eventually be cleared, as he had been convicted by a put up job and was confident he could establish his innocence.

Deputy Sheriff White yesterday placed in the county jail W. B. McConnell, who is charged with having committed the crime of grand larceny at Handberg a few days ago. The man has been evading the officers but was found yesterday in this city and locked up.

War Up to Date "I guess," said the Spanish general, "we'll have another victory today."

"Very well, sir."

"Is everything ready?"

"Are the reporters here?"

"Yes."

"And the artists?"

"Yes."

"All right. Send for the army and tell them to get ready to keep them waiting."

How He Expressed It Grymes—The bride was quite a popular girl—wasn't she?

Gobang—Yes, indeed. The Daily Whoop in their sporting editor to report it. He printed a list of rejected lovers half a column long under the heading: "Among Those Who Also Ran."—Truth.

Got the Worst of It Petrie Had a Fight and Wanted His Assailant Arrested

A man giving the name of F. F. Petrie came into the police station yesterday morning and told a harrowing tale of how he had been set upon by one of the proprietors of the Big Hundred saloon on the corner of Fourth and Main who had proceeded to do him up. Petrie said that he had been out for a walk in company with two little girls and was passing the place claimed that the saloon man had run out and jumped onto him without any reason that he could explain.

He wanted an officer sent down to arrest his assailant. Clerk Gridley explained to the fellow, who was more or less under the influence of liquor, that he would have to wait until Monday morning and swear out a warrant before any arrest could be made, whereupon Petrie left muttering something about the officers that wouldn't do their duty.

IN THE MORNING

"Hunyadi-Salts"

In a glass of water brightens the whole day.

"Hunyadi-Salts" are a combination of the medical properties present in Hunyadi water, with PHOSPHATE OF SODA.

Free from the Impurities, and Delightful to take.

FOR Biliousness, Constipation, Dyspepsia and Debility.

10c, 25c, 50c and $1.00. All Druggists.

In the Evening "Hunyadi-Bromo"

In a glass of water STOPS THAT HEADACHE and Refreshes you. "Hunyadi-Bromo" is a combination of the "Salts" and Bromo. For Sick and Nervous Headache, Colds, Insomnia.

10c, 25c, 50c and $1.00. All Druggists.

F. W. BRAUN & CO., Agents, Los Angeles

Directory of Southern California Hotels.

HOTEL GREEN—J. H. Holmes, Manager, Pasadena.

HOTEL METROPOLE—On Catalina Island.

HOTEL ARCADIA—Santa Monica, B. Rheinhardt, proprietor.

HOTEL HOLLENBECK—Spring and Second streets, Los Angeles.

HOTEL RAMONA—Spring and Third streets, Los Angeles.

ABBOTSFORD INN—Corner Eighth and Hope streets, Los Angeles.

HOTEL PORTLAND—441 South Spring street, Los Angeles.

HOTEL BRUNSWICK—Santa Ana, American and European plans.

HOTEL HOLYROOD—Riverside, B. Cochrane, proprietor.

THE ROWELL—Main and Ninth streets, Riverside, E. J. Davis, proprietor.

HOTEL CARLTON—13 to 27 East Colorado street, Pasadena.

HOTEL AVALON—Avalon, Santa Catalina Island.

HOTEL BREWSTER—J. E. O'Brien, proprietor, Fourth and 13th, San Diego.

HOTEL BELLEVUE TERRACE—Corner Sixth and Pearl sts., F. A. Urban, proprietor.