BELLE MINOT RETURNS

Denies That She Was Consorting With "Prof." Earlson

Belle Minot, whose disappearance was reported a few days ago, has returned home. The girl left home the 5th inst., and it was thought by her parents that she had eloped with "Prof." Earlson, the aeronaut, who also disappeared about the same time. Mrs. Minot was so certain in this conviction that she swore out a warrant for Earlson's arrest, charging him with abducting her daughter.

It now appears that the girl did not go any further than Santa Monica. She claims that she was not with Earlson at all, but spent the time with a girl friend, Mr. Minot took the trouble to trace her movements from the time that she took French leave from home until her return, and is convinced that her statements are true. Earlson has not yet been heard from and his whereabouts are not known.

Blind Tom in Jail Again

Blind Tom, the indigent old man, who is a familiar object at the corner of First and Spring streets, and who supplies passers-by for their nickels by means of a placard fastened in his hat, was again locked up in the city jail last night for drunkenness. Tom managed to collect some sufficient to enable him to acquire a jag of magnificent proportions, and he was "whooping it up" in the vicinity of Requena and Los Angeles streets when Officer Collins gathered him in. The old man goes on periodical sprees.

SMOOTH TRICK

A Bogus Tax Collector at Work

WAS A TOO CAUTIOUS VICTIM

J. R. PARRY REFUSED HIS INSISTENT ADVANCES

Well Armed With Blank Receipts and Stolen Information He Beguiles the Unwary

During the past few days some man has been going about the city making an effort to collect money on the representation that he is in the employ of the tax collector's office. It should be unnecessary to say that he is a rank impostor.

The fellow has evidently planned his work very carefully. He had provided himself with blanks from the tax collector's office and had learned the exact amount of taxes assessed on the parties whom he proposed to visit. Thus equipped it has been an easy matter for him to work his imposition on those who are not very fully informed as to the workings of the tax collector's department.

Yesterday afternoon this man called at the home of J. R. Parry at 1034 West Twenty-first street and stated that he was sent out from the tax collector's office to collect the assessment on Mr. Parry's personal property, which he said amounted to 97 cents. This was the exact amount of Mr. Parry's tax and had evidently been taken from the records at the court house where it had been paid several weeks ago.

The gentleman stated that there was some mistake as he had paid his tax and had his receipt. At this the fellow drew a lot of slips from his pocket and after looking them over insisted that there could be no mistake and that the money would have to be paid before the following day. His manner was such that Mr. Parry did not hesitate to believe that he was what he represented himself. In order that the matter might be settled satisfactorily, Mr. Parry called on the collector to see his son Fred, who works in Gen. Pierce's office in the Bryson block.

On arriving here he made the same claim as before and stated that the money must be paid at once. Mr. Parry's son positively refused to recognize his authority, whereupon an offer to compromise the amount for 50 cents was made. This too was refused and the fellow left, saying that he would return. The matter has been reported to the police.

Citizens will do well to be on their guard against this smooth and barefaced individual and should be careful to report any such tricks they will do well to immediately cause his arrest.

POKER DAVIS GOES FREE

The Grand Larceny Case Against Him Is Dismissed

The case against POKER DAVIS was dismissed by Justice Morrison yesterday, on motion of Assistant District Attorney Joe Chambers. Like many another case brought against the bunco man, the complaint with these failed to appear and the action fell through.

Several weeks ago POKER DAVIS was arrested by Detectives Hawley and Auble on a warrant charging him with grand larceny. The complaint was sworn out by Swanson Oleson, a young man from Kansas City, who was piloted into the Davis mill a few hours after his arrival in the city and done out of a cool $350. He made a roar and then Davis, out of the goodness of his heart, actually offered to compromise matters by loaning the sucker $90 of his money on a note payable in one year at 8 per cent interest.

The Kansas was not fully satisfied with this arrangement, however, and next roared at the police officers. They agreed to arrest Davis if Swanson would promise to stay and prosecute the case. Herodically agreed to these terms and Davis was brought into court, not an unfriendly man, but a man who simply got a continuance and then very quietly began work upon the sucker, who was then stopping at the Natick house. Whether he offered to loan him another $90 to leave town is not known, but at any rate the matter was fixed up so that Swanson got out of the city without informing the officers where he was going or of the time of his departure.

MUSIC NOTES

Mrs. Katherine Kimball Forest's Concert Last Evening

An audience that comfortably filled the Blanchard-Fitzgerald recital hall assembled last evening for the concert given by Miss Katherine Kimball Forest and assisting artists. The program, which was a masterpiece in make-up, was cordially received throughout and the excellent artists contributed their share toward the success of the whole.

Mrs. Forest was at her best in Ambrose Thomas' delicious "Sommerli"; it is quite suited to her voice and to her temperament, and Miss Fuller's piano accompaniment was both sympathetic and artistic. In Denza's exquisite "Your Voice," for which Miss Forest played a harp accompaniment and Miss Helene Fuller an obligato on the violin, the ensemble and the weaving of the instruments in and about the voice were beautiful. Mrs. Forest's other numbers were two graceful ballads by Arthur Foote, for which an encore was demanded, and Guy D'Hardello's "Beneath the Branches," with piano accompaniment and violin obligato by the Misses Fuller.

Mr. Otto Wedemeyer sang Neyin's "Gallants of England," with a dashing swing in which he showed a robust baritone of considerable range; and later in the evening he displayed his versatility in two little love songs.

Miss Lucia Forest's performance on the harp was brilliant and in the five numbers she played she showed the full capacity of the instrument and her mastery over it. In Godofredo's extremely difficult "Danse des Sylphes" little Miss Forest met all the exacting requirements, and for the encore that was cordially insisted upon she played Braga's dreamy serenade and drew from the harp all the sentiment of which it is capable. In her other numbers she confirmed the impression made in her first, and her performance was not the least enjoyable of a very enjoyable evening.

CREEDE'S MISTAKE

JURY RETURNS A VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL POISONING

No Will as Yet Made Public—Nothing Known of the Disposition of His Property

The coroner held an inquest yesterday evening at Orr & Hines' undertaking parlors over the body of Nicholas C. Creede, the wealthy mine owner, who died suddenly at his home on Figueroa street Monday night from the effects of morphine poisoning. The jury returned a verdict of "accidental death due to an overdose of morphine taken for medicinal purposes."

The bottle of morphine from which Mr. Creede had taken the fatal dose was found by a servant girl, Ida Bloom, yesterday morning. The vial had been placed on the railing on the front porch. The stuff was in crystals and probably about five or six grains had been taken out.

Col. Hunter, who was very intimately acquainted with Mr. Creede and had charge of his business, testified at the inquest that Mr. Creede often used morphine for neuralgia of the stomach, although he was not a slave to the use of the drug. This information had come to him in rather casual manner, at one time before their separation Mrs. Creede had accused her husband of being a morphine fiend. He had indignantly denied the charge, and stated in Mr. Hunter's presence that he never used the drug except when he was attacked by the pains in his stomach, which were not sufficient frequently to warrant the acquisition of his vice.

Mr. Hunter also testified to the excellent state of Mr. Creede's business affairs and stated that he could not possibly imagine any reason why he should commit suicide. The jury was out only a few minutes and returned a verdict as given above.

If there is a will it has not yet been made public. Mr. Hunter declines to state whether there is a will or not. It is thought probable, however, that if any disposition of his property was made it has all been left to little Dorothy Waters, whom he adopted about two years ago. It is known that he was very devoted to her and had often planned for her future.

Mrs. Creede's present whereabouts are not known. Mr. Hunter thinks that she is not in the city, but has gone to San Francisco.

The body is being embalmed by Orr & Hines and will be shipped early to Monroe, Ia., where Mr. Creede's mother is buried.

THAT UNSEEMLY INCIDENT

Dexter Samson, the undertaker, desires to correct a wrong impression conveyed by the report in yesterday's Herald as to the dispute which occurred over the disposition of the late N. C. Creede's body on Monday evening. Mr. Samson had properly arranged for the summons of Dr. Cates at the instance of Mr. Creede's brother-in-law and was at the house a few minutes later. The undertaker then, after making arrangements, went for his wagon, but returning three quarters of an hour later found that the body had already been taken in charge by another undertaker, Mr. Samson withdrew from the contest.

PARKS' PUNISHMENT

A Whittier Officer Brought to the City Charged With Battery

Constable David Martin returned yesterday from Whittier, where he went to arrest Captain Treat on a charge of battery alleged to have been committed on the person of George L. Parks, an inmate at the institution. He was arraigned in Justice Young's court, and will be tried on the 22d inst. Parks is alleged to have been the subject of a most severe punishment, the marks of which are still in evidence. It is said that Parks was not one of the ringleaders of the late revolt. He is considerably younger and smaller than the principal offenders, the bold and bearded ruffians of the ill-famed company C.

Burch Arraigned

Frank P. Burch, proprietor of the tape game at 109 West Second street, who was arrested on Monday, was arraigned before Police Justice Owens yesterday on a charge of gambling. Trial was set for the 16th inst.

Arrested on Suspicion

E. Simons and T. Powers were arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Lennon and brought to the police station, where they were booked on suspicion. Both spent the night in jail.

Jacob Fugged

Jacob Freeman was locked up in the county jail last evening on a charge of assault to commit bodily injury. He was brought from Acton by Undersheriff Clements.
