UNDER ORDERS

Suggestive Notes Relating to the Maine Affair

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 24.—The monitor Terror left Norfolk at 10:15 under sealed orders, but will remain at Hampton Roads at least a short time.

Tacoma.—That the government is calling on every available naval reserve is shown by the fact that Commander Cosgrove at Boston wired to Portland last night to John Dennis, late acting signal quartermaster on the Montgomery, to report at Boston as soon as possible.

Santa Rosa.—A. J. Holland, one of the seamen who perished in the wreck of the Maine, was from Sonoma county, being formerly a resident of Windsor.

New Haven, Conn.—In response to orders from the secretary of the navy, E. G. Luckland, who commands the naval battalion of Connecticut, left for Washington tonight.

San Antonio.—The sensation today at Fort Sam Houston, the large military post at this place, was the order from headquarters suspending present orders sending light battery, first artillery, into the mountains on its annual thirty-day target practice.

Atlanta.—Activity has not been so great at Fort McPherson as at the present time. This is attributable to General Merritt's visit. Everything is quiet here.

New York.—Francis M. Bunce, commandant of the navy yard here, today received from Washington a letter as rear admiral. His official rank up today was that of commander.

New York.—A thousand representative people gathered at the Metropolitan opera house this afternoon to bid for the boxes and seats for the performance on Sunday night next for the benefit of the families of the sailors and marines who live on the battleship Maine. The sale netted $205.

Cincinnati.—Under instructions from Washington, Colonel Cochran, commandant at Fort Thomas, Ky., today issued orders bringing back the men on rifle range at Culbertson, Ky., to the fort. The men are daily undergoing fatigue drill and expect to go to Key West in a few days.

Tampa, Fla.—The United States cruiser Montgomery, which arrived at Port Tampa yesterday, remained at the coal docks all day today taking on coal, getting over 300 tons. One of her officers said tonight that the ship would sail for Key West tomorrow unless otherwise ordered.

A POOLISH STORY
NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The Press says: Cuban in this city ridicule the reports of a tunnel under Havana harbor.

ACCIDENT THEORY
Grows Less Tenable as the Investigation Proceeds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The Evening Star has received the following cablegram from Mr. Charles Pepper, its staff correspondent in Cuba:

"At this writing divers are developing important results. From examination of the interior of the wreck they have secured evidence which seems conclusive that the explosion came from underneath the ship.

"Some of the smaller magazines may have exploded. The main ten-inch magazine did not explode. The condition of the interior of the ship shows further probability of the wreck having been due to outside force.

"The further the investigation progresses the more untenable becomes the theory which the Spanish government adduced to show accidental cause. It is evident the Spanish case will be based on the claim that a fire preceded the explosion.

"Captain Sampson and his colleagues of the Naval Board, may have outside evidence offered regarding a torpedo float producing the explosion.

"Said one diver who had been engaged in the work of getting bodies out from under the hatch: 'God may be merciful to the men who blew these poor fellows to Eternity; the United States should not.'

"This was before Long's order prohibiting officers from talking. This diver evidently thought the explosion was not an accident. He had an expert's capacity and opportunity for judging.

"The Havana public is not permitted to know the intensity of the public sentiment in the United States. Only meager details are permitted to be known of what happens in Washington. Congress is watched with excessive anxiety by palace officials, but the populace knows nothing of what is liable to happen.

"Evidences of ill-feeling toward American people and anxiety over the Maine disaster do not lessen.

"The Maine inquiry dwarfs interest in Cuba in other questions, but recent developments carry official confession of the failure of autonomy."

M'KINLEY'S POLICY

Will Not Hasten but Will Prepare for War

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—The Tribune this morning prints the following special from Washington:

"I do not propose to do anything at all to accelerate war with Spain. Up to the present I do not think war is either necessary or inevitable. I would be lax in my duty, however, if I did not prepare for the future. The situation is grave and the policy of the administration will be determined almost entirely by the course of events from time to time. There is no necessity of alarming the people, but Congress must be ready to assist the administration without making too many inquiries as to the course of current events."

HORSE WANTED SHOES

He Knew a Blacksmith's Sign When He Saw It

If his mistress is to be believed (and who dare say she isn't?), the old horse Jerry, some of whose exploits have been related before, can read. The other day he was put to the carry-all and driven to a town some four miles away. The roads turned out to be unexpectedly slippery, and Jerry was smooth-shod. He had so dreadful a time in getting down the hills that all the people had to get out and walk, and as he was trying to pull up one hill he actually so lost his footing that he fell backward.

As they were driving through the streets—they were being easy enough in the town—they came to a place where the sign of a blacksmith's shop hung at the head of a little alley. The shop it self was not in sight—only the sign to direct people down the alley. The horse had never been shod at this place, nor anywhere else in the town, but as soon as he came abreast of the sign he attempted to turn down the alley, and his driver had difficulty in getting him past. After some other matters were attended to, the driver went back to the blacksmith's shop to get Jerry shod, and he headed directly for the shop in the alley without any guiding. As the man was shodding him—that is, the man, not the horse—remarked: "That horse don't need a word—he knows just when to take up every foot and just when to put it down—he understands the whole business."

Now, on his way home the old horse never slipped once, and you cannot conceive his mistress that he did not know that when he needed was shod, nor that he was not aware that the sign pointed the way to a blacksmith's shop. "Look here," said the listener, "when he heard the story, 'was there a horse-shoe painted on that sign?'"

"Yes—yes, there was," said she, summoning up her mental picture of it.

"Then that accounts for it. The horse did not really read the sign—he saw the picture of the horse-shoe, and probably it pointed the way to the place where he could have some of the same sort of things put on his feet."—Boston Transcript.

SURVEYING BY BICYCLE

It May Become an Aid in Army Maneuvers

One of the newest uses of the bicycle is as a surveying machine, not merely a machine to carry a surveyor from point to point, but as a machine which performs the most important part of the surveyor's work. The United States army is considering the advisability of adopting this machine as an adjunct to tactics. By means of an attachment the exact topographical characteristics of a road may be ascertained with no other exertion on the part of the surveyor than to ride along the road in question. The importance of the invention in military practice can be easily appreciated. Hereafter a general contemplating a march can order his chief engineer to find out the exact topography of a road over which the army is to pass. The engineer, taking his wheel, can ride on ahead and return in a short time with an exact profile of the road, so that every obstacle in the way of heavy ordnance or supply wagons can be known and provided for long before the troops even start on their way.

Under orders from General Tobin, Third United States Cavalry, a survey of the roads around Hazelton, Pa., connecting all the camps and the strategic points, was recently made. A method of rapid road sketching was adopted, and 42.2 miles were surveyed by means of a bicycle equipped with a cyclometer and a compass. It required nineteen hours to do this alone, and the distances and directions were then drawn out on paper. The elevations were all derived from barometric levels. This work occupied a great many hours, and yet the survey was so quickly made as to establish a new record for rapid work.

With the new invention the work could have been done in the time it would have taken a rapid bicyclist to cover the distance on his wheel. It is also proposed to use the bicycle in map making. The value of road maps would be considerably enhanced if all the grades could be shown as well as the distances. Bicyclists, as well as wagon drivers, would value highly a map of this character, inasmuch as it would tell them what work they or their horses would have to do.

The device, which is the invention of a mechanical expert of Saratoga, N. Y., consists primarily of two parts, a cylinder revolving mechanism to carry the strip of paper on which the record is made and a device to make the record. The cylinder revolving mechanism is a slender, horizontal shaft. The cylinder is turned by means of a belt attached to the crank axle of the bicycle. As the cylinder turns, the strip of paper is unrolled from a spool. The marker, hanging by means of a pivot and controlled by a complementary mechanism, adjusts itself to the position of the bicycle.

INDIANA MORAL REFORM METHODS ADOPTED IN WALES

They have strange and vigorous methods of morality in the parish of Llanbister, which is situated in the hills of the agricultural county of Radnorshire, South Wales.

Canonized at a branch of the laws of morality, which he believed to have committed, the parishioners a few nights ago formed what is known in Wales as a "Rebecca" gang, and, attired in a variety of costumes and with faces sooty black, renounced the alleged delinquent house. The woman who was suspected was also fetched.

Both, in a nearly nude condition, were condemned to undergo further flogging and to march up and down the fields hand in hand. The hair was cut off, and, beside, they had to undergo many other indignities. Their names were procured, but no more cautions prevailed, the companions not to administer such a punishment.

This extraordinary affair appears to have given the greatest satisfaction to the inhabitants, who feel that a great blot on the rustic innocence of their parish has been avenged.—London Mail.

THE GROWTH OF CHILDREN

The average child, in its fourth year, should be three feet high and weigh more than twenty-eight pounds; in the sixth year, three and a half feet high and weigh forty-two; in the eighth year, four feet in height and fifty-six pounds in weight; at 12 years, five feet in height and seventy pounds in weight is a fair average. Growth is very irregular in children and young people generally; perhaps two inches may be gained in two months, and for the next ten months not over an inch, even up to the age of 25 years.

It is not, however, produced during the pause weight is gained, and work can go on again.

REDSNAPPERS MONTES OLD

Cold Storage System Has Proved to Be Profitable

When a guest of a Chicago hotel orders red snapper and is delighted with the palatable dish that is set before him he does not know that the fish has probably been out of the sea for ten or twelve months, but such is often the case. The guest never knows the difference, however, and only after he has visited Pensacola and called on Sewell C. Cobb or some of his men does he understand how it all happens. Mr. Cobb has just ended a visit to this city. He is an interesting man. He can tell more fish stories than anyone ever dare repeat, for he is the very origin of the best fish tales in the Gulf states. He owns twenty-four fishing smacks, which is more than any other one person can boast of on the Gulf. It may not be generally known that all the red snappers for New Orleans come through Pensacola. The same is true of Chicago.

Mr. Cobb was once mayor of Pensacola, until he found that he could make more money running fishing smacks out to the grounds and supplying the markets of the United States. That port practically has a monopoly on certain kinds of fish, and for this reason it has been necessary to invent a system by which the fish can be kept in cold storage for an indefinite length of time, oftentimes a year having elapsed from the day the fishy specimen was hauled in and the time it was served on the table.

WHAT HE WANTED

Husband With a Fountain Pen Gift Had a Modest Request

"You have scarcely spoken to me at all this evening," she said, in tones of reproach.

"I beg your pardon," her husband returned, apologetically. "I was just trying to think of something to say."

"Is there anything on your mind?" "Yes, to tell the truth, there is."

"Can't I help you in some way?" "You might, if I could suggest it without your becoming angry."

"Tell me what it is, my duty to sympathize with you, you know."

"On my birthday anniversary you gave me a fountain pen."

"Yes, and now you are going to say that it makes a horrid mussy and that you don't want to write with it."

"I'm not going to say anything of the kind," he replied, stoutly. "I am going to write with it, and for this reason my life. But there is one little favor that I would like to ask."

"What is it?" "Please make me a suit of overalls to go with it."—Washington Star.

RUBBER PIPES FOR GAS METER

Now that the gas companies look the meters in houses when the gas is shut off for non-payment of the bills, an ingenious inventor has been devised for beating the company.

"I want a yard of rubber hose," said a customer in a rubber store the other day.

"For gas or water?" was the query.

The customer was indignant, but the clerk said afterward that rubber hose was extensively used in making "merry-go-rounds" to obtain gas free. As every one knows, gas goes into the meter through one pipe and goes out through another. One end of the rubber hose is attached to a round opening in the lower pipe and the other end fitted to an aperture in the upper pipe. Thus the meter is entirely avoided. The gas company estimates that they lost $100,000 in the last year in this manner.—Chicago Times-Herald.

NOT WORRIED ABOUT HIS ANCESTORS

"I can trace my ancestors back to a hundred years before William the Conqueror."

"Well, I can't trace mine that far, but I haven't the slightest doubt that some of them will be constructed with special care as to acoustics. The third floor will be divided into studios, as will the fourth, and upon the upper floor there will also be a large art gallery, with a lighted dome.

On the same floor with the concert hall there is to be a banquet hall, ante-rooms and every convenience of all descriptions that are to be found in such buildings in other places.

Every detail of the building, from top to bottom, will be thoroughly up to date. Steam heat, electricity, elevators, plate glass, mosaic tiling in the rotunda on the ground floor, wrought iron, everything will be of the best material the market affords.

In fact, it is the intention of both Mr. Newmark and Mr. Blanchard that when it is finished the building shall surpass anything of the kind west of Chicago.

LAW SCHOOL STUDENTS

First Entertainment Last Evening. Literary Program and Dancing

The students of the Los Angeles law school gave their first entertainment in Masonic hall last evening, a musical and literary program followed by a dance. James B. Scott, dean of the school, stated in a brief address of welcome, after outlining the scope and aim of the school, that the idea of the entertainment had been entirely in the hands of the students in arrangement and execution. It was a success in every way, and considering the inclement weather, a large audience was present. A short sketch, which was a burlesque of a trial, was cleverly presented by the following students: Messrs. Shafer, Walter Krug, Asa Keyes, Clarence Thompson, Clifton Astell, Job Harriman, Catesby Thom, Davidson and Frank Henderson.

Mr. Gooding presided and presented the speakers and the committees were: Chairman of the evening, Frederick W. Houser; arrangement committee, Clarence Thompson, chairman, Miss Wilde, Miss Lebus, C. A. Ludlow, Asa Keyes; reception committee, E. L. Hutchison, Robert M. Ross, Frank Henderson, Jack Layng, A. M. Stephens, Jr., Asa Keyes, Catesby Thom; floor manager, Robert G. Loucks.

DECIDUOUS FRUIT EXCHANGES

Rapidly Organizing in All the Southern Counties

The work of organizing the local deciduous fruit associations, undertaken by A. R. Sprague, president of the deciduous fruit exchange of Southern California, is progressing favorably. Fifteen organizations are already completed and several more are in process of formation.

Monday, February 23, the Farmers' Institute will be in session at Claremont. Mr. Sprague will address the meeting and as a result an exchange will probably be formed at North Pomona. The farmers of Claremont and vicinity are desirous of an organization there.

Mr. Sprague expects to organize from six to eight associations in Ventura county, and will commence the work March 7. A meeting will be held at Lamanda Park

ROBBED TWO HOUSES

Men on Trial for One Burglary Are Charged With Another

Another burglary has been traced by the detectives to Frank Harris and Edward Welch, who were arrested several days ago on a charge of robbing the residence of Mrs. Lewis, 2103 Thompson street. An additional charge was registered against them yesterday, and with them the name of Joseph Buchanan was associated as their companion in both robberies. The last case which the detectives will enter upon tomorrow is the burglary of the residence of Dr. L. W. Wells, on the 6th inst. Dr. Wells resides at 1315 West First street, and on the date mentioned, during the absence of the family, the rear door was cut, and an entrance effected. The house was ransacked, closets were emptied, dresser drawers were pulled out and their contents scattered over the house. Goods valued at more than $200 were secured by the burglars.

The robbery was reported to the detectives and the case was turned over to Detectives Goodman and Steele. They succeeded in recovering much of the stolen property from the pawnshops and second-hand stores, and on the description furnished of the men who had sold the goods yesterday afternoon arrested Joe Buchanan. Harris and Welch were already in custody on another charge and the detectives say the dealers have identified the prisoners as the men who disposed of the goods at their places of business. The three men were presented before Justice Morrison yesterday afternoon and the case was set for March 2d, at 10 o'clock.

Harris and Welch were held to answer in $1000 bonds each yesterday for the robbery of the residence of Mrs. Lewis. Their examination had begun the day before, but was not concluded until yesterday morning. The detectives expect to bring several other charges against them.

MUSIC AND ART

At Last to Have a Home Worthy the Name

Harris Newman and Frederick W. Blanchard of the Blanchard Piano company signed a contract yesterday afternoon by which the former will erect a $75,000 four-story pressed brick and terra cotta building on the west side of Broadway between Second and Third, which shall be devoted from the ground up to music and art.

Mr. Blanchard's interest in the contract is in the fact that he has assumed the lease of the entire building for ten years; it will be erected wholly under his supervision.

Abram W. Edelman is the architect, and just as soon as his plans are perfected work on the building will commence. The contract promises its completion by August 1st of this year.

The entire ground floor will be occupied by the Blanchard Piano company. On the second floor will be a concert hall with a seating capacity of about 500. This hall will be constructed with special care as to acoustics. The third floor will be divided into studios, as will the fourth, and upon the upper floor there will also be a large art gallery, with a lighted dome.

On the same floor with the concert hall there is to be a banquet hall, ante-rooms and every convenience of all descriptions that are to be found in such buildings in other places.

Every detail of the building, from top to bottom, will be thoroughly up to date. Steam heat, electricity, elevators, plate glass, mosaic tiling in the rotunda on the ground floor, wrought iron, everything will be of the best material the market affords.

In fact, it is the intention of both Mr. Newmark and Mr. Blanchard that when it is finished the building shall surpass anything of the kind west of Chicago.

BEERS BROS.' DIFFICULTY

Financially Embarrassed Contractors Are Out of Town

W. L. Beers and Norman Beers, who have been doing a contracting and building business under the firm name of Beers Bros., have left the city in order to arrange with outside persons for an adjustment of financial difficulties, which they have encountered within the past few days. They had two important building contracts, in which they gave ample security for the performance of their work, and their departure was with the full knowledge and consent of their bondsmen. So far as could be learned, their total liabilities will not exceed $7000, and their assets about $5000. It has been stated by one of their bondsmen that they will soon return, prepared to pay every dollar that is charged against them, and will be able to complete their contracts. The facility to realize upon certain securities was the cause of their difficulty.

Three Houses Burned

The residences of John B. Payne, E. A. Jones, and a double dwelling owned by Mrs. Irwin, at 215, 220 and 228 South Bunker Hill avenue, were totally destroyed by fire shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning, only the walls remaining.

The fire originated in the residence of Mr. Payne. His wife was heating her curling irons in a lamp, which she placed so close to the wall that the paper was ignited. Before it was discovered the fire had spread all over the room and by the time the fire department was summoned the whole house was in flames. The fire communicated to the Jones residence, the next building on the south, and that, too, was destroyed. The flames arrived before the house of Mr. Phillips had ignited, but while they were trying to prevent a spread of the flames on the other side of the fire, this house caught fire and it was destroyed.
