ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 9.—Excitement was caused in railroad circles today by the announcement that the Canadian Pacific's Soo line had made a great slash in the passenger rates from St. Paul and Minneapolis to points in the east. The announcement by the Soo line is that it has decided to put in effect holiday rates from St. Paul and Minneapolis to all Canada, New England and New York points, including Boston, Albany and New York. The round-trip rates announced are less than one and one-half the regular one-way fare.

THE GEORGIA JUBILEE

Aims to Be the Biggest of Them All

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 9.—With the peace jubilee still five days off, the committee is assured of the presence in Atlanta, on the 14th and 15th, of all the invited guests. Attorney-General Griggs is said to send his acceptance and has been permitted to state that he will come with a party of New Jersey men. In the matter of distinguished men who will be present it is believed the jubilee will surpass the celebrations held recently in the North and West. As the treaty of peace will probably have been signed before the celebration, this will be the first real peace jubilee. General Fitzhugh Lee has notified the committee that he will be in attendance. The parade of Thursday will be the apogee of the celebration. General Wheeler has expressed his willingness to ride at the head of his old company. The final parade set for the afternoon of the 14th has assumed large proportions.

Associated Press Special Wire. NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says: The next regiment to start for Manila will embark at New York about the end of this month and will go through the Suez Canal. The expedition will consist of three regiments of regular infantry, distributed between two of the largest converted transports owned by the government, with perhaps a convoy of two warships. Arrangements are now being made for this expedition by Adjutant-General Corbin as rapidly as possible, in view of its great importance, especially as it involves co-operation by the State and Navy Department authorities, as well as those of the War Department. The decision to use New York as the point of embarkation, instead of San Francisco, whence all the earlier forces started for the Philippines, was reached by General Corbin, after a careful review of a number of considerations, chief among which was the urgency for haste. The early completion of the treaty of peace with Spain renders it a dispensable and prompt removal of the American forces, not only at Manila, but at the additional garrisons for important centers in the archipelago which will fall under American domination with its accompanying responsibility for the security of life and property. At the present time the government is wholly without available transports in the Pacific Ocean to meet the emergency. The dispatch of two vessels from the Atlantic, it is believed, will be sufficient for the purpose of bringing home such volunteers as can be spared soon, and increasing the transport fleet for the Pacific. The three regiments to be sent to Manila have not been selected, but as none but those now in New York State and other Atlantic garrisons can well be spared, the conclusion was forced upon the authorities that economy as well as rapidity of action required them to be sent by way of the Mediterranean instead of journeying across the continent, and then undertaking the long and monotonous voyage on the Pacific with no haven of rest after leaving Hawaii. The garrison under General Otis at Manila now consists of the company of the regular engineer battalion, six troops of the Fourth Regular Cavalry, six batteries of the Third and Sixth Regular Artillery, three regiments of the Tenth and Twelfth and Twentieth—regular infantry, fifteen regiments of volunteer infantry, including the Astor light battery, which has already been ordered to return to the United States. It will be the effort of the authorities to return all these volunteer regiments and batteries to the United States as speedily as possible, although the Tenth and Twentieth are in the order in which they reached Manila, after Admiral Dewey's victory, and it is believed that on the arrival there early in February, the regular regiments will be sent to New York, at least several commands may be released from the duty that has already grown irksome to them. The expedition from New York could start in the course of the next week if it were not for the exigency in Cuba which demands the utilization of the entire transport fleet. The government is now preparing for providing protection to all interests in that island promptly on the departure of the Spanish garrisons.
