

HAS NO FAITH IN NAN PATTERSON

PARTNER OF DEAD BOOKMAKER DISCUSSES TRIAL

BELIEVES ACTRESS IS GUILTY

John Millin, Star Witness in Famous New York Murder Case, and Confidant of Young, Arrives in Los Angeles

"Do I believe that Nan Patterson killed Caesar Young? I am as confident of the fact as I am that I have a nose on my face," said John D. Millin, Young's racing partner and one of the star witnesses in the New York trial, as he sat in the corridor of the Van Nuys hotel last night.

"Police officials and those who have followed the case closely from the outset are of the same opinion," he continued. "Nan Patterson will again face the jury and I do not believe that she will be permitted to give bail."

Young's Partner

Millin, who is in Los Angeles to look after a string of horses now quartered at Ascot, was the partner of the dead bookmaker for fourteen years. He was Young's bosom friend and perhaps knew more of the relations existing between the actress and the racing man than any other person.

"For my part in the trial and because I appeared on the stand and told what I knew of the case, and it was not all in favor of Nan Patterson," he added, "I have received at least a thousand letters from her admirers all over the country. Many of them were anonymous, some of them contained threats; I tore all of them up and threw them into the waste basket."

"Perhaps I am biased in my opinion, but I know the woman so well and what had transpired between her and Young that I cannot see the case in any other light than that she is guilty of the crime with which she is charged."

Told of Threats

"Young told me on several occasions of the threats that she had made against his life and he was afraid of her all the time. He told me the day before he was shot that he was fearful that she would do him harm, and when he went to see her on the day before his death he took his brother-in-law with him as a protection."

"What about this story of your threatening to shoot her in case she was acquitted by the jury?" he was asked.

Denies Statement

"There is no truth in the statement," he replied. "And I can also say I was not ordered to go to the back of the court room because, as Nan Patterson said, 'I was watching her too intently. I did not pay any more attention to her than I would to any other woman under similar circumstances. It was the knowledge that I was familiar with incidents of the past few years that made her fear me.'"

"Young first met the woman on her way from San Francisco to Los Angeles in October of 1902, and was with her a great deal after they arrived here."

"Finally Young wanted to get rid of her and one night in one of the hotels I gave her $500 to get her out of Los Angeles. From here she went to New York. She returned to Los Angeles last spring of the close of the Ascot meeting. She followed Young around wherever he went."

"When I left Los Angeles last spring, Young was still with her. Then she went on to New York, where later in the season he joined her."

Not Suicide, He Says

"I was with Young up until 11:30 o'clock of the night of June 2; he was shot at about 8:30 o'clock on the morning of June 3. He did not commit suicide. In the first place the nature of the wound precludes the idea and in the second place his preparations for the journey and his jovial disposition shut out the possibility of such an act. He arranged his affairs with me and said he would return from Europe in about three months. The day before he expected to sail he wrote letters to B. W. Cavanaugh at Sacramento, a partner in a ranch belonging to the three of us, saying that he would meet Cavanaugh in Los Angeles sometime in the coming October."

Did Not Carry Revolver

"If Young's death had been due to an accident, either Nan Patterson herself or else Morgan and his wife would not have purchased the revolver a short time before the shooting occurred. Young never carried a revolver in his life."

"It would be interesting if the police could find Morgan and his wife and force them to tell all they know about this affair."

"I think by this time the world knows pretty well what kind of a woman Nan Patterson is, although the newspapers have been unfair to the prosecution in their attempts to weave a halo about the woman's head. She does not deserve it. If she could be known as I know her there would be little sympathy felt for her."

Millin Goes to San Francisco Today

out expects to return to Los Angeles in a few days. He may open a book at Ascot.

Children Burned to Death

DIAMONDVILLE, Wyo., Jan. 2.—Two children of John McPhee, one 6 years old and the other a baby, have been burned to death in a fire that destroyed the McPhee home. The parents were absent at the time and did not learn of their loss until they returned.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE TODAY

Pardee Will Also Present Appointments for Ratification

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 2.—One of the features of the proceedings in the legislature tomorrow will be the transmission of Governor Pardee's message. The document, which is being awaited with considerable interest, will be presented to both houses shortly after they convene.

At the same time the governor will present his appointments that have been made during the recess for ratification.

Interest in legislative circles is now divided between the appointment of committees and the fight for the United States senatorship. The hotel lobbies are now buzzing with excitement attendant on the efforts of legislators to secure places for themselves and friends on important committees or to attain rich plums that will fall from the patronage tree.

A principal part of the session tomorrow will be devoted to the distribution of offices among the army of attaches. The Democratic minority, consisting of four members in both houses, are diligently seeking to secure the same patronage that has been allotted by the Republicans.

The campaign of the aspirants for the senatorial toga was opened in earnest today. Throughout today's sessions George A. Knight was a conspicuous figure in both houses, making a personal canvass among the members. Tonight he renewed his work about the hotel lobbies and for several hours busied himself greeting the men on whom his fate depends. He expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the outlook and intimated that there would be a number of withdrawals before the battle was over.

Frank Flint's headquarters was the scene of unusual activity. Throughout the afternoon and evening he was engaged in holding conferences with numerous members of both houses who sought his apartments. He said that he had been suffering from a slight attack of ptomaine poisoning produced by eating oysters.

"I am perfectly satisfied with the way in which the legislature has been organized," said Flint when sought for an interview. "I am confident that I will be elected on the second ballot and perhaps on the first unless there are too many complimentary votes."

Dr. Chester Rowell, the senator from Fresno, said no new developments had occurred in Senator Bard's fight, but expressed his satisfaction at the way things are progressing.

Postmaster Arthur Fisk of San Francisco is on the ground making a whirlwind fight. His adherents have given it out that he has more votes up his sleeve than he has been given credit for.

Henry T. Oxnard has gotten out some campaign literature which has been mailed to all the members. The circulars contain his portrait and the statement of his candidacy.

There is considerable speculation as to the length of duration of the voting for senator. Opinion is equally divided as to whether the contest will be brief or long drawn out and there even are some who venture the assertion that there is a possibility of a deadlock.

Idaho Legislature Meets

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 2.—The eighth session of the Idaho state legislature and the twenty-third, including the territorial period, convened today. The two houses met in joint session and witnessed the induction into office of Governor Frank R. Gooding and the other state officials. J. Frank Hunt, speaker of the last house, was unanimously elected speaker as the result of caucus action. Further organization was deferred. The senate completed its organization, selecting Senator Crum of Nez Perces as president pro tem. The principal matters to come before the session relate to perfection of the state government, which has long been restricted, so as to put it on a more modern basis; internal improvements and vital questions affecting state timber resources.

SAN FRANCISCO SALOONS ROBBED BY MASKED MEN

They Enter Two Places, Rifle the Tills and Escape With Cash

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—Two robberies of unusual boldness were reported to the police today. Three masked men, armed with revolvers, entered the grocery and saloon of Frederick Burmeister last night, lined Burmeister and two customers up against the wall, rifled their pockets, locked them in a closet, after striking Burmeister on the head, and then went through the tills, taking all the small change they could find. The three escaped.

On the same night seven men entered the saloon of John McCann at Fourteenth and Church streets, and after attacking and beating the saloonkeeper, robbed the cash register of about $4 in silver and made their escape.

Charges Against Bishop Collapse

BISHOP COLLAPSE

VESTRYMAN SAYS NAMES WERE OBTAINED BY DECEIT

New Presentment Containing All the Charges of Defeated Document Will Be Filed in Episcopal Church Controversy

By Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—The developments today in the controversy between Dr. J. N. W. Irvine, the deposed priest of the Episcopal church, and Bishop Ethelbert Talbot, indicate that the case of Dr. Irvine against the bishop has entirely collapsed. J. Frederick Jenkinson of Philadelphia, assistant counsel, with Herbert W. Noble, of New York, for the presenters, is said to be on his way to Philadelphia with a statement from Bishop Tuttle, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church, asking leave to withdraw the presentment and requesting permission to make a new presentment.

The vestrymen of St. John's church, Huntington, Pa., held a meeting to-night and unanimously adopted a resolution affirming confidence in Bishop Talbot. A statement signed by the six vestrymen whose names appear on the Irvine presentment was forwarded to W. B. Bodine at Philadelphia. It makes the specific declaration that their signatures were obtained by deceit after they had positively refused to sign a presentment against Bishop Talbot. The statement was not made public, but the vestrymen said it was a complete vindication of Bishop Talbot.

Attorney Noble returned here from New York last night and all of today he was closeted with Dr. Irvine, Attorney Jenkinson, Rev. Benjamin I. Odell, Rev. W. F. Noble, a brother of the senior counsel, and other presenters.

A new presentment will, it is declared, allege against Bishop Talbot all of the charges of the collapsed document. Besides these charges others will be included, which will, it is said, be based upon another letter, equally as denunciatory of Dr. Irvine as the Upjohn letter.

This letter
