

SOCIALISTS GAIN RECOGNITION

PASADENA GIVES PLACE ON BALLOT

New Party Grows to Be a Power in Crown City Politics—Council Considers Street Proposals

Pasadena Agency, 111 East Colorado Street.

PASADENA, Jan. 17.—Perhaps the most remarkable thing which occurred in the otherwise quiet meeting of the city council was the notification received from the Pasadena Socialist central committee by J. J. Patton and J. C. Allen that that party will participate in the city primary election for the purpose of electing delegates to the convention which makes nominations for municipal office candidates.

The committee further asked for a place for the Socialist party on the election ballot, and that the appointment of delegates to the convention shall be one delegate for every fifteen votes or additional fraction thereof polled by the party at the last general election.

The requests were filed without any comment on the part of the mayor or councilmen.

It had just about been decided not to hold a primary election, but this petition rather forces it, as now there is no way out of it, the mayor says.

All that is required to get a place on the municipal ballot is 3 per cent of the votes cast at the last general election and the Socialists did much better than this.

The whole matter has caused considerable discussion about the city, since the Socialists can poll close to a thousand votes in larger Pasadena, and it is known that the party has steadily grown under the regular work done by such lecturers here as J. Stitt Wilson.

It is generally understood that J. J. Patton, the contractor, who ran for city marshal several years ago, is the candidate of the party for mayor in the coming spring election, and it is thought by many that the party has now come to a point of numbers where it will be a very tangible force in the election next spring.

This is their first public move, but it was well timed, being legally the last day on which the notice could have been given and there is excellent organization in the ranks of the party.

Council Considers Streets At the meeting there was received by the city council this morning a lengthy petition from over forty property owners on North Fair Oaks avenue, between Painter street, the former northern city limits, to Montana street, asking that the avenue be curbed, guttered and graded, with the regular improvements. The whole matter was referred to the committee on streets and alleys, who will look very carefully into it. If this is done, it will make North Fair Oaks avenue one of the best streets running north, even though the double track of the Pacific Electric runs through it.

There was a strong protest brought against the proposed opening of Lawrence avenue through to East Orange Grove avenue. Attorney J. Perry Wood appeared for the protestants. Mr. Wood claimed for his clients, through whose property the opened street would cut, that the proposed street does not correspond to any other street. There has been considerable interest on both sides taken in this street opening. Councilman's Slavins motion to lay the whole matter over until another week carried.

The fruit ordinance was given its second reading and thus becomes a law. The ordinance requires that inspectors appointed by the horticultural commission of Los Angeles county shall be given free access to all fruit kept or exposed for sale in Pasadena, with power to arrest any one selling infected fruit. The fine for the exposure for sale of infected fruit is limited to $100, with an alternative of an equal number of days in the county jail.

Women Discuss Economics One of the most cosmopolitan gatherings in Pasadena is the weekly current events class held during the winter months, under the leadership of Mrs. Lou V. Chapin of Los Angeles and under the direction of the local Shakespeare club. Here come women from humble homes, as well as from the big hotels and boarding houses, to discuss the great economic, political and philanthropic questions of the day. Often the discussions are deep and sober, again sparkling with wit and humor.

This afternoon the questions of government control of freight rates was considered at some length. The discussion developed a strong argument favoring the government ownership of railroads.

The question whether bachelors were a menace to civilization was well answered first by a talented maiden lady, who thought civilization would most certainly go to pieces if the bachelors kept increasing.

George W. Bealm, one of the oldest and most trusted motormen on the Pacific Electric road, met with an accident tonight about 6 o'clock. His leg was broken in two places and he had a narrow escape from death. But for the quickness of the motorman in charge of the car in stopping it, he would have been killed under the heavy wheels.

Bealm, who was through with his work, attempted to get off at the corner of Fair Oaks and Union, with the car going slowly. His coat caught on the hook of the iron bar which is used to close one side of the car opening, and he was thrown heavily under the car and was caught by the fender only to be pushed along under the car. Quickly as the motorman heard his cry of alarm he stopped the car. Dr. F. F. Rowland was called and Bealm was taken to his home at 564 North Pasadena avenue.

Police Want a Gymnasium Chief of Police Freeman was so deeply impressed with the value of the Japanese jiu jitsu art of self defense last evening, as he sat on the front seat at the celebration, momentarily expecting one of the wrestlers to land on the floor in front of him, that he today asked the city council for permission to partition off the northwest corner of the basement of the city hall for the use of the police department as a gymnasium.

In many other cities the policemen are being given a thorough course in the Japanese way of handling men easily, and with such excellent teachers as could be found among the local Japs. The next step after the establishment of the gymnasium should be regular instruction in jiu jitsu for all the patrolmen. The petition was not decided upon this morning but was referred to the committee on public buildings.

Favors the One-Cow Dairy It is a matter of great delight to the many owners of one or two cows all through the city that Mayor Vedder does not entirely agree with the recent recommendations of the physicians concerning the fee to be charged in case the city passes the proposed new milk ordinance. That the owner of a single cow should have to pay $2 as fee for inspection, where a large dairy has but $4 to pay even though there are many cows, seems to the mayor unjust to the small stock owner.

"I am for the one-cow dairy first, last and all the time," he says, "for such a dairy is usually run by a man who has to sell what milk he can spare to help out his slender means. To such a man a fee of a couple of dollars would work a hardship. My suggestion is that the rate be established by the new ordinance should be $1 for a single cow, with a charge of 50 cents for every additional cow."

Councilman Twombly has the ordinance in charge and in all probability he will introduce a measure a week from today creating the office of city bacteriologist.

Postpones Annual Meeting Because of the many other meetings held last evening as well as because the noise from the firing of the Japanese gun in the street just across from the board of trade rooms, the announced annual meeting of the Humane society was postponed until some date next week. In the absence of Dr. E. L. Conger in the east S. O. Bowen is acting president and will preside at the meeting.

Miss Pease to Lecture There was such widespread interest taken in the talk by Miss Virginia Pease upon "What the City Should Do for Its Boys," recently given before the Shakespeare club of this city, that she has been asked to repeat it before the mothers, teachers and friends of the Lincoln Avenue Child Study circle tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Lincoln Avenue kindergarten. It is expected that there will be an unusually large attendance for the sensible and practical talk of Miss Pease gave many of those who heard it a week ago last Saturday a number of new ideas on the subject. A wide invitation has been given by the officer of the circle for all interested to attend. Miss Pease was formerly the principal of the Garfield school, but resigned last June to accept the position of assistant principal of the Throop grammar school, where she is doing original and excellent work.

Made an Unexpected Visit The grand jury yesterday made an unexpected visit to the Southern California state hospital at Patton. Superintendent Williamson was absent, being in Sacramento, but the other officials took the party through and they report finding everything in excellent shape. A desperate attempt is being made to defeat the legality of the indictment against Frank C. Wilson, charged with the murder of Louis Dupue at Barstow about a month ago, on the ground that the grand jury permitted a stenographer in the room when the indictment was being framed. The matter is being argued before Judge F. F. Oster.

A hot fight is on here over the proposed spring carnival. The ministers of the city, with one or two exceptions, are fighting the carnival bitterly. What the result will be remains to be seen at the mass meeting to be held Friday evening, when the business men of the city will meet to take up the matter of organization for the spring show.

The contract for the construction of the new I street sewer in this city has been let to the George M. Cooley company, the lowest bidders. The new sewer will provide an outlet for sewage for the entire west end of the city, which that section has long needed.

CHARGED WITH RED PEPPER AND WHISKY "Hot Finish" for Prisoners Facetiously Remarks Officer Finding Articles on Prisoners Frank Clark and J. Bozeman, at present residents of the United States, stopping at the city jail in Los Angeles, were loaded with pepper and whisky when they faced Desk Sergeant Sparks last night. The men were charged with being unruly drunks, and although fifty packages of ground pepper were found on their persons, the complaint was not changed. Officers Butler and Strove arrested the men on Los Angeles street. When searched at police headquarters the packages of pepper were found snugly stored in every place about their clothing that would hold any article. Several packages were broken and the men were consequently nervous. "They'll have a hot finish," facetiously remarked Tom Pico, as he brushed the pepper off his hands after searching the men. The pepper had percolated downwards towards the shoes of the prisoners.
