MANTELLI'S ART SAVES OPERA

PERFORMANCE IS PERILOUSLY NEAR BURLESQUE

Stolen Orchestra Music Returned During Concert—Poor Scenery Mars Effect of the Production

Madame Mantelli and the five persons who constitute the Mantelli Opera company sang scenes from "Il Trovatore" last evening under circumstances so disadvantageous that the severest test was put upon the prima donna's artistic powers. Temple auditorium was half filled and the audience waited patiently until long past the hour for the opening of the performance. Then it was announced from the stage that some one had stolen the scores from the music racks and that a piano accompaniment would take the place of the orchestra.

The curtain rose upon a garden scene that was the poorest excuse for an adequate stage setting. Madame Noldi, who sang the part of Leonora, carried the opening solo with a fine self-possession which did not fail her even when an excited member of the executive staff rushed up to Signor Gaetano Merola, pianist and conductor, with the missing music.

Under the most favorable conditions, scenes from grand opera are disappointing and last evening there were many reasons why "Il Trovatore," presented in fragmentary form, was unsatisfactory. Madame Mantelli appeared in only two scenes but she redeemed the performance from what was at times perilously near burlesque. This prima donna who made her American fame as a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, is a true artist. Endowed with remarkable dramatic power and possessed of a splendid technique, she sings delightfully. Her voice, wide in range and rich in quality, has lost nothing of its charm. Because she is now enjoying the full maturity of her art, it is a pity that she should appear under unfavorable conditions.

In her company are two singers who have been recognized in grand opera. Signor Alberti and Madame Noldi are worthy associates of Madame Mantelli but the other members of her company are plainly amateurs. Mr. Walter Wheatley, who sang the part of Marico, has a voice of possibilities but he is devoid of stage training.

Notwithstanding the many drawbacks to the performance, Madame Mantelli won most enthusiastic applause. Madame Noldi, who has a voice that is melodious and beautifully controlled, gave a pleasing characterization of Leonora. Signor Alberti in the role of Count di Luna contributed a finished bit of acting and singing. He has lost none of his dramatic fervor and his voice is still adequate to exacting roles.

After the finding of the music, the orchestral work was far from inspiring to the soloists. Tonight, when scenes from "Carmen" and "Faust" will be given, it is promised that the piano will be tuned and that the music will be within reach.

Tonight at the Temple auditorium the Mantelli Opera company will present a double bill consisting of the best scenes and acts from "Carmen" and "Faust," including the garden and prison scenes from "Faust" and the first, fourth and fifth acts of "Carmen" with special numbers added by Mme. Mantelli and her company.

WARREN GIVES UP FIGHT FOR CARE OF CHILDREN

Former Professor, Now in Poverty, Unable to Continue Case—Charge May Be Dismissed

Horatio Warren, graduate of Harvard and lately employed as a porter in a Los Angeles bar room, yesterday gave up the fight for the custody of his children, and Judge Wilbur in the superior court awarded them to the mother, Mrs. Paula Warren who arrived recently in Los Angeles from Hartford, Conn.

Serious charges were made against the name of the father and in prosecuting the case Mrs. Warren was assisted by an array of legal talent provided it is said by the W. C. T. U. and the local French society.

Warren, while not present at yesterday's proceedings was represented by an attorney, and in a complaint sworn to by the former college professor, he denied the allegations contained in the complaint against him.

"Mr. Warren is in abject poverty, your honor," said the attorney, "and he is tired of fighting this case. He has decided, therefore, to let the mother have the children, and he has bid them goodbye."

The children were present in the court room and when Judge Wilbur entered the decree they ran to their mother who embraced them.

Conspicuous among the spectators who crowded the court room were a number of women wearing the white ribbon of the W. C. T. U., which organization has materially assisted Mrs. Warren in her fight to regain the custody of her little ones.

The criminal case pending against Warren, wherein he is charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Alken has been set for Thursday, but the case probably will be dismissed.

The train which now leaves San Pedro at 6:10 p. m. daily will leave on and after February 4th at 5:45 p. m. and arrive in Los Angeles at 6:20 p. m., making daily connection with steamer from Catalina.

MADAME MANTELLI, APPEARING IN GRAND OPERA SCENES

MILLO POTTER GIVES BANQUET FOR FLINT

Senator Elect Guest of Honor at One of Most Delightful Affairs of the Year

One of the most elaborate and delightful banquets ever spread for any guest was given last evening at the Van Nuys hotel in honor of lately elected Senator Frank P. Flint of Los Angeles. The diners included many of the most prominent men of the city and state, and they were present on invitation of Millo M. Potter of the Van Nuys hotel.

The tables were spread in the old Fourth street cafe room, which was decorated most magnificently in a color scheme of red, white and blue. The tables were formed in a hollow square, and in the center were arches of flowers, in which glittered electric lights of the colors named. The arranging of the artistic decorations was the work of Joseph Reichl, the head waiter.

The place cards bore the likeness of the new senator. Every detail which could possibly add to the pleasure of an evening of such fellowship was carefully attended to.

Although there was no toastmaster there were many impromptu speeches and songs during the evening. Those who shared in the festivities were: Senator F. P. Flint, Messrs. Youngworth, Robinson, Johnson, Jeffries, Booth, Burr, Ball, Mott, Lawler, Wankowski, Jones, Clark, Hartwell, Washburn, Dr. Campbell, Campbell, Cohn, Mesmer, Patterson, Doran, Fitch, Black, Garrett, Harrison, McDonald, Newlin, Garland, Sherman, E. P. Clark, Allen, Sumnerfield, Kelsey, Barker, Kendall, Schwaeb, Mueller, Weidner, Stephens, A. C. Brode, Brode, Potter.

FIRE RUINS BAZAAR STOCK

Blaze Does Much Damage in Spring Street Store

A fire, the origin of which is unknown, broke out in the Golden Gate Bazaar at 651 South Spring street at 10 o'clock last night, and before it could be extinguished the building and stock had been damaged to the extent of $2500. Only a small part of the loss is covered by insurance.

J. Gordon, the proprietor, had extinguished the lights and was about to leave for home with his wife and their baby boy, when he noticed a blaze in the rear of the store. Seizing a piece of lineoleum, Gordon attempted to smother the flames, but his efforts were unavailing. Despite all he could do, the fire spread and he was forced to run into the street to avoid suffocation.

After running two blocks looking for an alarm box, his cries of fire attracted a man, who turned in the alarm from Sixth and Spring, but the delay had been costly, for the fire had spread through the store by the time the firemen arrived.

Gordon was too excited to talk connectedly, but declared he had a $12,000 stock on hand and practically no insurance. His stock consisted chiefly of crockery, glassware and notions.

OCCIDENTAL CLUB OPENING

To Hold First Meeting in New Quarters Friday

Friday evening the Occidental club will hold its first meeting in its newly acquired headquarters at 130 1/2 South Spring street, the old quarters of the Jonathan club.

The furnishings of the Jonathan club cost nearly $20,000. Most of this was bought by the Occidental club at considerably less. To this the directors propose adding much more, making the headquarters as commodious and inviting as any club rooms on the Pacific coast.

It is the intention of the Occidental club to hold its formal opening about February 15.

POLICE COMMISSION INCREASES THE FORCE

Thirteen Additional Officers Are Appointed—Partial Trial of Patrolmen Is Held

The police commission yesterday promoted thirteen regular special officers to positions as regular officers. Thirteen other names will be requested from the civil service commission, the men to be appointed to take the places made vacant by the promotions.

The men promoted are W. L. Spellman, O. W. Bottruff, N. S. Carr, A. R. House, N. S. Gallentine, C. J. Lonergan, R. N. Winterton, F. C. Beaumont, C. R. Cowen, F. B. Teasdale, W. S. Burney, A. W. Hartmeyer and Grant McCart.

Chief Hammel presented a report in which he stated he said he had notified a number of saloon men who have been doing business under the restaurant liquor law that they must keep their places closed on Sundays. The chief said that all those notified had promised to comply.

Patrolmen Kristovich and Vassar and Special Officer Miklauschutz were before the board on charges of accepting money from women. Two of the women who were alleged to have paid money to the officers have disappeared.

Two other women who were inmates of a resort at the time the money was alleged to have been paid were present and gave testimony. Captain Auble testified that Sophie Duhaut, one of the women who has disappeared, complained to him that one of the officers had collected $20 from her under a threat to arrest the woman if she did not pay. Captain Auble said Miklauschutz was suspended after this complaint was made to him.

The accused officers were sharply questioned by members of the commission. Under cross-examination Officer Miklauschutz admitted that he had advised the Duhaut woman to try the effect of $20 upon another officer, who, according to the woman's statement was about to arrest her. The hearing will be completed at the next regular meeting of the commission.

PUEBLA SECURELY IRONED

Murderer Taken to San Quentin by Deputy

Deputy Sheriff Bert Franklin left last night with Juan Antonio Puebla, the murderer, for the penitentiary at San Quentin. The officer took no chances with his prisoner and Puebla was securely handcuffed and chained. It is understood that the local Mexican Consul has commenced investigation relative to the international point raised by the convicted man on the day of his sentence, at which time he charged the American officers with having dragged him across the border into the United States.
