BROADWAY TO BE BLAZE OF LIGHT

MERRYMAKING WILL FOLLOW ILLUMINATION

LONG PARADE A FEATURE

Sixteen Hundred Electric Arcs Erected by Improvement Association to Be Put into Service Tonight

There will be high jinks on Broadway tonight. The elaborate electrical illuminating project will be officially born this evening at 8:30 o'clock, or a little over one year since the unique enterprise was conceived.

Mayor McAleer will touch an electric button and a flood of softened light will illumine the beautiful boulevard from end to end. Thousands of incandescent lamps of 32-candle power each in a second's time will chase darkness into other highways and light the way from the south end of the Broadway tunnel to where the thoroughfare debouches into Main—a distance of thirteen blocks—for the marchers and merry-makers who have determined to inaugurate with eclat one of the most ambitious public schemes ever undertaken on the Pacific coast.

With a burst of light that will come from the tops of the ornate iron posts in response to Mayor McAleer's touch of the electric button, the parade will start at the intersection of Main and Broadway, proceeding north on the latter thoroughfare to Temple street, where it will countermarch south on Broadway to Seventh street. Upon reaching the latter the procession will disband and the committee and invited guests will be entertained by Colonel J. B. Lankershim at the Hotel Lankershim.

After the procession has disbanded a Japanese carnival, in which Japanese lanterns, fans, etc., will constitute the decorative feature, will hold sway throughout the length of Broadway.

Chairman F. W. Blanchard said last night:

"The indications are that the celebration will be a marked popular success; that from early evening until midnight an immense crowd will testify the people's appreciation of an idea in street lighting that is only in the beginning of its adoption. The committee of the Broadway Boulevard Improvement association in charge of the details of the celebration has pursued a broad policy, endeavoring to have it thoroughly understood that the affair is one for Angelenos generally, and not for those interested in Broadway alone."

The formation of the parade is as follows:

RECEIVES DIPLOMA FROM SHAKESPEARE SECTION OF CLUB

MRS. M. A. PIERCE, WHO WAS GRADUATED BY THE SHAKESPEARE SECTION OF THE WEDNESDAY MORNING CLUB

A dear young-old lady with 82 years to her credit and a head of silvery white hair played the role of the sweet girl graduate last evening and received a diploma. She was Mrs. M. A. Pierce and was one of a class of three members of the Wednesday Morning club who were graduated from the four years' course of work in the Shakespeare section.

Mrs. L. V. J. Kimball and Mrs. F. E. Fuller were her classmates and the pretty exercises which marked their graduation were held in the parlors of the East Side Congregational church. The rooms had been beautifully decorated by the class which has just preceded this one, and the club colors, purple and white, were used effectively.

Mrs. Frank B. Sturge opened the evening program with a piano solo and this was followed by two selections by the Ariel quartet. The church scene from "Much Ado About Nothing" was given by Miss Henrietta Dobinson, and the scene between Portia and her maid Nerissa in "The Merchant of Venice" was given by Miss Frances Preston and Miss Rose Lambert. James W. Britt rendered a delightful violin solo and Miss Loreetha Douglas a piano solo.

The graduation address was given by Mrs. M. M. Adams, the leader of the Shakespeare section, who spoke of the object of the section and commended the members in a charming manner. The presentation of diplomas by the president, Mrs. H. C. Gower, closed the evening's program, and friends gathered around to offer congratulations and flowers. Each member of the class received quantities of these, and pretty gifts were those which were made by Mrs. L. V. J. Kimball, who presented to both her classmates rare Indian baskets filled, one with pink sweet peas and the other with roses.

NATURAL GAS IS PLENTIFUL HERE

SAID TO BE UNLIMITED SUPPLY IN LOCAL FIELD

ENOUGH TO LIGHT WHOLE CITY

Those Interested in the Oil Industry Have Been Utilizing the Commodity for Years With Great Success

Is there enough natural gas in Los Angeles to fill all need of the municipality for commercial and domestic purposes?

Those who are interested in the local oil fields believe this to be so. They have been utilizing the natural gas that oozes from their wells for years and assert that the supply is unlimited.

"The oil belt is simply filled with the commodity," said a prominent broker yesterday, "and the wonder is that the city has not long since seen fit to make use of it."

For several years past there has been talk of utilizing the natural gas in the oil district, but as yet no official test has been made by the municipal authorities and no steps taken to forward the project.

Much Gas Wasted

It is a well known fact that a large quantity of the gas wasted by the use of improper methods would, if properly handled, be capable of supplying a great amount of fuel to Los Angeles. All of the pumping plants in the local fields are using the article right along, it being preferable to any other kind of fuel, and by doing so they have erected apparatus that is altogether unadapted for the purpose and consequently more gas is wasted than used.

The idea has been advanced as to whether this gas, if proper provision be made for checking the waste—and there is no doubt but that this could be done—could be piped over the city and used for domestic and commercial service. Whether this would be a wise move depends, however, upon the present available supply and the possibility of further development.

If there is not enough natural gas to supply all of the city's needs, it is argued by brokers that a great advantage would be worked in the question of quality and service should the natural article be mixed with that which is manufactured. It is believed this would afford much better light than is furnished now as well as enhance the heat when used for cooking or steaming purposes.

Many Houses Lighted

"Nearly all of the houses in the oil district are lighted with natural gas," said a large oil well owner, "and they find it many times more satisfactory than anything offered on the local market. The light is decidedly brighter and keeps a steady color, and when the article is used for cooking or steaming it furnishes much more heat than we are enabled to secure by using market commodities."

THIS CODY DOES NOT WISH TO BE BUFFALOED

Says That He Is Not the Famous Scout and an Indian Would Frighten Him

W. F. Cody is registered at the Hollenbeck hotel. Those who call, however, in the hopes of meeting the famous scout will be grievously disappointed. This Mr. Cody, if he has acquired fame, has done so by selling chinaware.

"No, I am not Buffalo Bill," said Mr. Cody yesterday. "In the first place I am bald headed; I have never tried to get a divorce from my wife and she has never tried to poison me; I never saw a buffalo outside of a public park or a circus menagerie and an Indian in war paint would frighten me to death. Now if that is not a sufficient alibi, I can prove that I never hobnobbed with the crowned heads of Europe. I have never been able even to take their orders for the line of fine china that I carry."

Cody is often taken for the only and truly original. Thursday a bronzed westerner, seeing the name on the hotel register sent up his card. A few minutes later the dealer in china appeared on an making his presence known in the Hollenbeck hotel corridor for years.

Cody says that hereafter he will put in parenthesis after his name "not to be Buffaloed."

Deputy Constable Rommel of Long Beach was arrested Thursday evening for drawing a revolver from his pocket in front of the Temple building.
