Elaborate Banquet is Tendered Mr. Roosevelt at the Brown Palace Hotel—Speech Contains Important Utterances

By Associated Press. DENVER, May 8.—The entertainment of President Roosevelt by the citizens of Denver tonight was a fitting conclusion of a day of royal welcome as he journeyed through the state of Colorado from Glenwood Springs.

The crowning event came tonight in the form of a banquet tendered President Roosevelt by the Denver chamber of commerce at the Brown Palace hotel.

Promptly at 9:30 o'clock the last course of the elaborate menu was finished and President James Temple of the chamber of commerce called the guests to order and introduced Chief Justice William H. Gabbert, who acted as toastmaster.

The President's Speech After discussing various questions of interest, particularly to Colorado, the president took up the question of railroad rate legislation as follows:

"I want to say a word as to a governmental policy in which I feel that this whole country ought to take a great interest and which is itself but part of the general policy of extending the powers of the interstate commerce commission and of giving them particularly the power to fix rates and to have the rates that they fix go into effect practically at once.

"The first step, and to my mind the most important step, is connected with giving such power over the great transportation corporations of this country. I was going to say when the first pioneers came to Colorado, but that would hardly be so, but in the days of the fathers of the oldest among you the highways of commerce for civilized nations were what they had always been—that is, waterways and roads.

The New System "Within the last two generations we have seen a system grow up under which the old methods were completely revolutionized and now the typical highway of commerce is, of course, the railroad.

Experts, however, believe that Oyama's purpose is to thrust in from the east, turn Kirin and interpose himself between Harbin and Vladivostok, preparatory to the investment of the latter place. Lnevitch's disposition seems especially taken to meet such a plan.

Emphasizes Two Points "Now fix clearly in your minds two facts at the outset. As with everything else mundane, when you get that supervisory and regulatory power on behalf of the nation, you will not have cured all the evils that have existed and you will not equal the expectations of the amiable, but ill-regulated enthusiast, who thinks that you will have cured all those evils.

Now, for the second and even the more important: When you give a nation more power remember that harm and not good will come from giving it unless you give it with the firm determination not only to get justice for yourselves, but to do justice to others.

St. Petersburg Learns That Nebogoff Has Joined Rojstevsky, Who Will Steam Northward to Encounter Japanese

Confirmation of St. Petersburg's expectations is afforded by an official dispatch to French naval officers announcing that the Russian squadron has left Kongsal bay, its destination being unknown.

Simultaneously with this comes the news that Japanese warships are concentrating in the straits of Formosa, the scouting line being extended.

There has been increasing feeling in Japanese official quarters regarding the way in which France has construed neutrality, and Great Britain's sympathy for her ally has been evidenced in communications that have passed between the British foreign secretary and the French ambassador in London.

JAPANESE PRESS FORWARD Events in Manchuria Becoming Interesting to St. Petersburg

ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—Interest is once more directed to Manchuria, the news from that point indicating that Field Marshal Oyama is pressing Gen. Linevitch's advance posts east and west of the railroad with considerable force, as if about to undertake a general offensive movement.

Experts, however, believe that Oyama's purpose is to thrust in from the east, turn Kirin and interpose himself between Harbin and Vladivostok, preparatory to the investment of the latter place.

Oyama Fully Reinforced Oyama is said to have received large reinforcements, and he brought up immense quantities of supplies and ammunition after the battle of Mukden.

At least 100 people had gathered in the street to witness the fight before it was over and a Pico street car stood on the tracks waiting for the crowd to leave the street.

Crowd Gathers to Witness Affray, but No One Interferes and Mill Lasts Several Minutes

Pico street merchants were entertained with a four-round fight to the finish yesterday morning when Charles Shafer, Seventh and Wall streets, and A. B. Hartman, 618 Pico street, attempted to settle their business reputations in a rough and tumble bout at Pico and Flower streets.

The men are engaged in the grocery business. They both desire the trade of the Peere confectionery store, 300 Pico street, and there is where the whole trouble commenced at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

According to stories of both participants there was no time for preparation and the first round was fought with coats on. A break—and each withdrew to a small crowd of his respective friends that had hurriedly gathered.

Third Without Vests The vest was shed for the third round and there was hard and quick fighting on both sides. Hartman's right went to Shafer's left eye and it was in mourning within five seconds after Hartman withdrew his fist.

G. L. Berry Attacked Near Seventh and Olive Streets—He Loses Forty Dollars in Gold

G. L. Berry, who lives at Hotel Rockwood, was held up by a highwayman on Olive street last night and robbed of over $40 in gold and then shot because he offered resistance.

Berry was walking south on the east side of Olive street, between Seventh and Eighth, about 10 o'clock last night, when he was suddenly ordered to throw up his hands.

Berry was so enraged by the bold robbery that he sprang at the man and tried to wrest the pistol from his hand.

Ties Connecting Los Angeles and Salt Lake Drawn Closer by Acquaintance of Leading Men of Both Cities

Western hospitality, made deeper by the feeling of friendship existing between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, was typified last night in the warm welcome which the chamber of commerce of the City of the Angels extended to the Commercial club of the City of the Saints.

Few times has a Los Angeles audience, standing throughout a long program of addresses, given closer attention to the speakers or more enthusiastic applause than that of last night at the public reception to the city's guests.

The feeling of fellowship between the two great organizations of the now sister cities was demonstrated by the meeting of the Commercial club by a committee from the chamber of commerce on the arrival of the special train yesterday morning.

Salt Lake showed its interest in Los Angeles by sending one-third the total membership of its business men's club. Los Angeles returned the compliment by doing its utmost to make the first day of the visit one round of pleasure.

Following the arrival of the visitors at their hotels informal receptions were held in the hotel corridors. Carriages and special cars were placed at the guests' disposal. They visited the business district of the city, they surveyed the resident portions, club rooms were thrown open to them and by nightfall they were well satisfied that the hospitality of Los Angeles has not been overestimated.

Tomorrow 200 visitors will be taken to Catalina island, where they will spend the day. The San Pedro chamber of commerce has prepared a short program in their honor and has chartered the steamer Warrior for their pleasure. Tomorrow night the Jonathan club will keep open house and the theaters will
