

EMPEROR RIDES GREAT STATE

TAKES PART IN PROCESSION OF CORPUS CHRISTI

VIENNA TURNS OUT EN MASSE

Mediaeval Pomp and Gorgeous Pageantry Mark Annual Ceremony, but Austria's Monarch Has Greatly Aged

By Associated Press.

VIENNA, June 22.—Amid accompaniments of mediaeval pomp and circumstance the aged Francis Joseph, emperor of Austria, king of Hungary and Bohemia, etc., took part in the yearly Corpus Christi procession in Vienna today. His majesty was greeted enthusiastically by his people as he was driven through the streets of the inner city, but it was the universal dictum of the Viennese that their emperor had aged greatly since they last saw him take part in this ceremony two years ago, and the appearance of his majesty, who will, if he lives, celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of his accession to the throne in 1908, suggested to many minds that this may be the last time the venerable monarch will appear before his people as a participant in this beautiful festival of the Catholic church.

Beginning with the earliest morning hours the streets of the inner city of Vienna were filled with movement and life in expectation of the coming procession, and by 7 o'clock the windows, balconies and stands along the line of march were crowded with people. The streets were decorated with flags, boughs of trees and many colored hangings, and at convenient places temporary open air altars had been erected. The procession started from the Hofburg, proceeded to the cathedral on the Stefansplatz, where the religious ceremonies were held, and then returned to the Hofburg.

Clerical and Military Contrasts

Gorgeous colors, crimson, gold and silver, magnificent uniforms and trappings, glowing tunics, the clanking march of soldiers and the silent tread of clergy in strange contrast, the flashing of jewels and the glare in the sunlight of the white robes of the priests, barbaric and brilliant splendor and silent prayers marked the progress of the sacred and military procession in honor of the consecrated host.

The lesser clergy came first. Then came equestrians, pages and others of the imperial household. Kettle drummers in gala uniform, the court chamberlains, many high personages of state, generals and other high military officers followed.

The host was borne by the archbishop of Vienna, surrounded by prelates of the church, and after him came the emperor. In former years it was the custom of his majesty to walk but now, because of his age, he rides. Today he appeared in a gala coach drawn by eight of the royal white horses and accompanied by Archduke Franz Ferdinand, the successor to the throne. The other archdukes, all in magnificent uniforms, with royal carriages, came after his majesty.

The procession marched to the main entrance of the cathedral and went in through the broad doors facing on the Stefansplatz. After the religious ceremonies it took its way back to the Hofburg over another line of march, in order to give the people of the city increased opportunities to witness the pageant.

From the balconies of the palace, the procession was witnessed by the archduchess and her children. The ceremonies came to an end with the defiling before his majesty of the troops which had taken part therein.

OLD FEUD CULMINATES IN FATAL SHOOTING

Guard Placed Around County Jail to Save "Coyote Bill" From Being Lynched

By Associated Press.

MISSOULA, Mont., June 22.—William Burris, a rancher on the Rattlesnake river, twelve miles from this city, is dead as the result of the culmination of a feud of three years' standing between William Beeskove, notoriously known as "Coyote Bill," and his neighbors.

Beeskove turned loose today with a rifle as Burris was hauling wood from land claimed by Beeskove. Two shots took effect. Within twenty minutes Burris was dead and his slayer started for this city to surrender to the sheriff. Feeling against Beeskove runs high on the Rattlesnake tonight, and, in order to prevent the prisoner being lynched, an extra guard has been placed around the county jail. Trouble is looked for before morning. The dead man was the father of three children, who with their mother are left penniless.
